WILSON STANDS PAT FOR FREE SUGAR, WOOL

MAY MAKE DIRECT APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE

That the passage of the tariff bill means the ruination of American business interests is scouted with no mincing words by the President, who scents influence of big interests.

United Press Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 12.—

"I am always afraid that business men and interests who are uneasy have something to be uneasy about. Gentlemen who are talking one way and voting another are going to be returned to the quiet of private life."

Wilson is standing pat on the free sugar and wool clauses in the measure. His criticism regarding the tariff fight reached the senate and house committees today. If necessary, Wilson will urge his views of the tariff question and the duty of congress in a direct appeal to the people, should he find it necessary.

"What the people put on their backs and in their stomachs must be made cheaper, no matter who suffers," is the tenor of the communication.

POSTER SENT OUT BY THOSE OPPOSED TO HOBBLE IRRIGATION DISTRICT IS ANSWERED IN BONANZA PAPER

The comment of Editor Hamaker of the Bonanza Bulletin, following the publication of the circular by Charles Flackus, Dick Ketchum, Charles Woelk, William Flackus, William Uhrman, H. J. O'Brien, Michael Rueck, Joseph Koesel, Henry Stochler, J. R. Welch, A. E. Burgdorf and Emil Flackus, reads as follows:

"Rip! Bang! Orders from fourteen to one hundred and fifty! Who voted for organization? All of you except Dick! Who voted for bonds? All but Dick! You're getting what you voted for!"

"What is wrong? Must one hundred and fifty be turned down for 14? when the secretary, F. J. Bowne, alone represents more acreage than the combined fourteen, and he wants it finished!"

"If he can pay one-tenth the other hundred and forty-nine of us can pay the nine remaining tenths!"

In another part of the paper is the following allusion to the circular: "There is some matter passing through the mails here that is going to get some one in trouble. The postal laws are very strict on these lines, and strictly forbids the use of the mails for the purpose of extortion, and like cases; also all profane and obscene language. All these are covered in some matter that is going the rounds in the mails now."

John Lowden of Fort Klamath is here for a short sojourn.

New Morgan Bank Building

J. Pierpont Morgan did not live to occupy the great bank building he had planned, and which within less than two years will house the most important banking house in the world unless his death causes a change in the plan. The old Morgan bank building at 23 Wall street, known as the Drexel building at the southeast corner of Wall and Broad, has remained while great skyscrapers and modern structures have gone up around it. The last modern skyscraper to be completed near it was the Bankers' Trust company building, diagonally across. In that structure near the top, Morgan himself had taken office, to get away from the noise and bustle of Wall street.

George Deal is in town from his Langell Valley ranch. Mr. Deal came in to be with Mrs. Deal for a time who is in the Blackburn hospital, recovering from the effects of a recent operation.

GILDED CAFE VISITED LATE BY OFFICIALS

PANIC BEGINS AMONG SUSPENDED REVELERS

Action on the Part of the Commission Probing the White Slave Question. It is Thought, Will Bring Out Much Valuable Testimony—"Tango" Dance Was in Full Swing When the Officers Came

CHICAGO, April 12.—Officers armed with subpoenas raided fashionable cafes here last night. They served papers on a score of fashionable people, who will be required to testify in the white slave probe.

The raid threw the midnight revelers into a panic. The society people were forced to come dancing the "tango," and were hurried to the Hotel La Salle to tell the story of the night.

The witnesses included cabaret singers, guests and the managers. The State Troop detachment was absent.

Women fell to their knees and begged the officers to release them. The men waved hands full of bills, but they pleaded in vain.

When the witnesses arrived Lieutenant Governor O'Hara said: "We are just looking into the variations of the smutty songs and animal dances."

"Natalie," 19 years of age, and a dancer at Rectors, testified that she danced the Turkey Trot and the Tango.

"There is nothing improper in my dancing," she said.

Mrs. Marie Joseph, one of the committee's investigators, testified that when Natalie turned rapidly she might as well not wear any slips at all.
