problem is in any way involved. There is one thing certain, and that is that they cannot be assimilated into our population.

"The privileged classes of California--those owning great tracts of land and big employers of manual labor--may clamor for cheaper labor, but the vast majority of Californians are looking forward to a great state, wherein a similarity of population will make an enlightened democracy an possibility."

Suggest Naturalization United Press Service

TOKIO, April 17.—Public meetings and movements for the discussion of the California anti-alien land bill are continued with much heat.

Arguments regarding the United States to give Japanese the naturalization right are becoming prevalent. This is looked upon here as the radical solution of the matter.

Representatives of the house of lords visited the premier today to decide some means of settling the agitation. The premier expressed much anxiety as to the outcome.

Action May Be Delayed United Press Service

SACRAMENTO, April 17.—The desire on the part of the legislature to railroad through a mass of appropriation bills may postpone action in the senate for several days on the anti-alien land measure.

Johnson Won't Talk United Press Service

SACRAMENTO, April 17.—Governor Hiram Johnson is reticent about the anti-alien land law, but when pressed admitted that "action on the matter would soon come to a head."

The executive flatly refused to discuss what action he will take if the proposed drastic measure is passed.

Schools Are to Learn of Industrial Plans

Representatives of the Department of Education Will Tour the County With Educators

In order to stimulate interest throughout the county in school fairs and to explain fully the agricultural and industrial work being advocated in all parts of the state, a series of meetings will be held in different school districts next week.

N. C. Maris of Salem, representing the state department of education as the field director of industrial affairs, will arrive here Monday in the interests of the movement. In company with County School Superintendent Fred Peterson and M. A. McCall, agricultural instructor of the high school, he will tour the county, speaking to assemblies at the different schools.

The first meeting will be held at Midland school Monday evening. The following day Mr. Maris and the two local instructors will talk at the local schools. Tuesday evening they will explain the movement to the pupils and patrons of the Miller Hill school house.

The remainder of the week will be divided like this:
Wednesday—Morning, Pine Grove; afternoon, Dairy; evening, Hildebrand.

ected with the local freight office of the Southern Pacific, has been transferred to Weed.

Frank Booker and Wm. Strouble were among Wednesday's visitors here. They came in from their ranches to attend to business matters.

City School Superintendent E. H. Dunbar left Wednesday for a business trip to Red Bluff and Sacramento. He will be away several days.

ASHLAND MAN IS STILL MISSING

Without explanation. About two weeks ago he received two or three letters whose origin are not known, but they seemed to disturb him considerably, and he left soon after. Relatives at Los Angeles and other places have been notified, but so far no one has heard from him.

Usually he would take his clothing and grips with him when making a sudden change, but did not in this instance. He is thought to have had about $20 with him.

Thursday—Morning, Bonanza; afternoon, Shasta View; evening, Malin.
Friday—Morning, Merrill; afternoon, Lone Pine, Fairview and Henley.

Saturday morning Mr. Maris leaves for Lakeview to take up the work through Lake county.

It is the intention of the meetings to stimulate the interest of pupils and parents in the "back to the farm" movement, and parent are urged to attend the meetings in their districts. If a county fair is held this year a school fair will be held in conjunction with it, and an exhibit will be sent to the State Fair at Salem, to compete with other counties for valuable prizes offered.

School fairs may also be held in the different districts, preceding the county school fair. The first county school fair was held here last year, and it proved even a greater success than was looked for. It is the intention to make the coming show even better, and a number of local business men have announced their intention of giving valuable premiums to the school children excelling in the different branches of endeavor.
