LOOK YEARS YOUNGER! GRAY HAIR DARKENED BEAUTIFULLY WITH SAGE

Says Sage and Sulphur Will Stop Falling Hair and Cure
Dandruff

Common garden sage brewed into a neavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, then left to age and carefully filtered will turn gray, streaked and aded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair

Inez Milholland, Suffragette

NEW YORK, April 21.—Miss Inez Milholland, one of the most beautiful of the suffragettes, who as herald led the women's inauguration eve parade in Washington, and has figured conspicuously, will hang out her shingle this week as a lawyer in the Wall street district. But Miss Milholland was doing more than hunting an office the other day. She was after a partner, too.

"He must be a man," said one of her friends. "Miss Holland will not take one of the women lawyers as a partner."

There was no explanation of the reason for a leading suffragette to refuse a business partnership with one of her own sex. But the young lawyer will not have difficulty in finding a man who will go into partnership with her. She has had so much advertising that she receives regularly a half dozen letters of proposal each day.

The Herald, delivered at your store, office or home, 50 cents a month.

Four Million Germans are Against Military Systems

Platform of the Social-Democrats in the Fatherland is Outlined a Clear Manner by Bernstein, Leader of the Revisionist Wing and Member of the Reichstag

By KARL E. VON WIEGAND ..
(Berlin Correspondent United Press)

BERLIN, April 21.—"More than 4,000,000 social democrats in Germany are against the government's $262,000,000 emergency tax for increasing the army and for other military preparations. We are against it in principle and in fact," declared Eduard Bernstein, the famous leader of the "revisionist" wing of the socialist party. Bernstein is a member of the reichstag that he discussed the proposed extraordinary military preparations Germany is making. He is the chief of the progressive and liberal movement in his party, which includes the brainiest men and foremost thinkers among the socialists.

"It is true that the proposed one-time property emergency tax will not touch the masses," said Bernstein, "but we are against it none the less—against it in principle and in fact—against the entire military system."

"It has often been said both here and in the United States that socialists lack patriotism. Would you leave Germany defenseless?" was asked.

"No, the socialists would not leave the Fatherland defenseless," replied Bernstein. "We are against the military system as it exists. We are against it because it is a 'semi-feudal' system. A military system in which the common man, the man of the people, has little chance to rise; in fact, none at all.

"In France, as Napoleon said, 'evry soldier has the marshal's baton in his knapsack.' In theory, at least, a soldier in the French army may rise to the highest rank. How it works out practically I do not know. In our 'semi-feudal' system, this theory even does not exist. We stand for a system of national defense in which the people have a part in the organization and in the responsibility—something in the nature of a militia or citizens army, but we are against war."

Pressed upon the point of "patriotism," Herr Bernstein said:

"The word 'patriotism' is a dangerous one. It can be made to cover a multitude of things." He was dis-inclined to define "patriotism" from the socialist standpoint.

"It has been frequently stated that in event of war, the socialists in the army and in civil employment, will strike. Is there any truth in this?" was interposed.

The revisionist leader, who speaks good English as a result of long exile in England years ago, moved about uneasily. It was plain that it was a subject upon which he disliked to touch. A party of alleged freedom of thought, speech and action, there is no political party in Germany which disciplines its members so severely for talking to non-socialists as the social democratic organization. The party conventions practically prohibit its leaders to give opinions or to talk for publication to representatives of the non-socialistic press.

It is well known that the revisionists do not agree with the radical antimilitarists among the socialist movement in Germany, and that this progressive and more practical wing of socialism has a strong nationalistic undertone, which, however, the leaders are very chary about voicing.

"There are wars and wars," Bernstein finally said. "I cannot say whether the socialists would strike or not strike. It is a big subject. If Germany were invaded the socialists would do their duty to the Fatherland. But," he added with a smile, "I do not think that we need fear an invasion."

"Do these unprecedented military preparations foreshadow a war?"

"We cannot see any great danger of an immediate war. Of course, this senseless, senseless rivalry in armament may lead to war."

Bernstein reluctantly admitted that the Pan-slavic movement in Russia constituted the elements of danger to peace. Asked what the effect of the emergency war tax would have upon Germany, he said: "It will have the effect of restricting the work of social reform and uplifting the masses, reduce the amount of sociological work and probably also have a restrictive effect upon the sums devoted to educational purposes. That is another reason why we are against it. While the one time property tax will not affect the masses, other taxes will follow which will affect them. Money used in that way naturally cannot be used for educational, sociological and other purposes more beneficial to the masses."

"The socialists being the strongest party in the reichstag, can they prevent the passage of the government's demands?"

"I fear not. And if we did the kaiser would dissolve the reichstag."

Millionaire Sets Type in Ohio Jail

Edward S. Smith, the millionaire socialist of Warren, Ohio, went to the workhouse for fifty-one days rather than pay a fine of $25, which he said Mayor Carver, sitting as a magistrate, had no right to levy. After the food had partly subsided in Warren, Smith went out with a camera for photographs. A militiaman ordered him from a certain street because it was considered dangerous. Smith refused to leave and then submitted to arrest.

"Carver is angry with me because I ran against him for mayor," said Smith. "The militiaman who arrested me had no authority to keep me off a street, because the town was not under martial law."

Mrs. Smith said her husband was taken before the mayor in a star chamber proceeding and, insisting it was illegal, refused to defend himself.
He announced that rather than pay the fine he would work it out at 60 cents a day. He was sent to a type-setter's case in the workhouse to help get out the weekly paper published there.

suring. See Chittose, 622 Main St.

WAIT DECISION WITH INTEREST

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT TO RULE ON THE RIGHT OF RECLAMATION SERVICE TO COLLECT MAINTENANCE FEE

PORTLAND, April 21.—Settlers throughout the state and the West generally who have located on Federal reclamation projects anxiously await decision by the United States supreme court on the question of whether an annual maintenance charge may be collected from them while they are paying for their lands and water. A case has been taken to the high tribunal from the Yakima project in the state of Washington, and the judgment rendered will affect every settler on the thirty-five federal projects of the entire West.

Settlers contend that the reclamation law contemplates making the federal government pay maintenance charges until a major portion of the lands in each project have been sold.
Heretofore the reclamation service has construed the law to mean that they had the right to levy an assessment for maintenance during the period when settlers were paying for their lands and then turning the whole matter over to them to provide for maintenance as they see fit.

Many millions are at stake in the controversy, and also the future scope of reclamation work. If the circuit court is upheld in its initial decision that the government has no right to charge maintenance to the settlers additional to the cost charges on acre and water unit first agreed upon, a large amount of funds the government would have available for further development work will have to be applied to maintenance of existing projects until they are paid for by the settlers.

W. C. T. U. Meeting

A meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. A. Stearns on the West Side.
The meeting will commence at 2:30.

Mrs. A. L. Levitt, who spent the winter in Oakland, returned to Klamath Falls Saturday, and will remain here for the summer. She is much improved in health. Judge Levitt went to Oakland to accompany her home.
