TRASH IS GONE; FLY IS WITH US

NOW THAT PRINCIPAL BREEDING PLACES OF THE PESTIFEROUS INSECT ARE GONE, THE SWAT-FEST SHOULD START

Swat the Fly!
The thorough clean-up given the city Friday and Saturday, through the initiative of the Women's Civic League and Mayor Nicholas, has done a great deal to improve the health conditions of Klamath Falls. There is one menace, however, that has not been entirely eliminated by the removal of rubbish to the city's garbage dump. This is the housefly.

The old adage "A stitch in time" applies particularly to the fly question, but in this case "A swat in time saves 7,999,999,999." The fly is a prolific breeder, and it has been estimated by bacteriologists that between May and the middle of September, over 8,000,000,000 flies will descend from a single female. By swatting now, you can kill 8,000,000,000 per swat.

Stewart E. White Going to Africa

Tired of writing, though it has been his habit to write the kind of books which make money, Stewart Edward White is about to sail on another trip to Africa. Now he is cutting an expedition at Santa Barbara, Calif. R. J. Cunningham, who has spent most of his life hunting big and little game in Africa, will accompany the author, and the two will have no white companions on their journey, which is to be southwest to Lake Nyansa. They hope to push into other parts of Africa never before visited by white men. Mr. White has traveled far. He knows lumberjacks, rivermen, hunters, trappers and cowmen, having lived among them. Most of his books are about them, and breathe the spirit of the open air.

Klamath River and Lower Lake are Closed to Hunters

According to L. Alva Lewis of the Biological Survey, Ruling Soon to go Into Effect Will Force All Duck Hunters to Get Their Shooting on the Upper

No more Lower Lake or Klamath River Hunting.
No more going after ducks in the Klamath River marshes.
No more skipping down Lake Ewauna early in the morning to plug a few mallards.
Upper Klamath Lake, hereafter, will be the scene of the greatest shooting activity.
The whole matter is this: Warden J. J. Furber of the Lower Klamath Lake bird preserve has just received a letter from L. Alva Lewis, agent of the U. S. biological survey, in which information is given that there is to be no more hunting within the boundaries of the bird preserve. The limits of the Lower Klamath Lake bird preserve, as set aside by executive order, begins three miles below this city. In addition to taking in the Lower Lake and Klamath Straits, the territory includes both sides of the Klamath River to a point half a mile this side of Keno. Following is the letter regarding the order which has been received by Furber. "Your attention is called to the provisions of Section 20 of the new Oregon Game Code as passed by the last legislature. "The provisions of this section makes it unlawful to hunt on either public or private lands, on national bird or game reservation or National Parks. "This section, therefore, will after June 3d, make it unlawful to hunt on private lands within the boundaries of the Klamath Lake reservation as originally set aside by executive order. "Arrangements will soon be made by which you will receive a supply of posters for posting private lands on the Klamath reservation." Back From the Pass Albert McCoy and Yule Larrick returned to Klamath last night from Grants Pass, where they took the civil service examination for positions with the railway mail service. There were twelve applicants, ten of them being residents of Grants Pass. Dr. Wright reports the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thompson this morning. The Thompsons live at the Lost River diversion dam, where Mr. Thompson is employed.

Business Boomers

The difference between a dead town and a live town is the difference between dead merchants and live merchants. Some merchants are so dead or free from enterprise that it takes sizzling hot truths to awaken enough lift in them to even penetrate the outermost rim of business progress. They will sit around endeavoring to catch trade that comes to town without offering inducements to draw business. They tell the public that they do not advertise in the newspapers, but give their trade the benefit of the little money they might spend in advertising by giving them more for their money than the advertiser—which they know is a falsehood. The advertiser always gives more and better goods for the money than the merchant who don't advertise, for the advertiser's goods are turned quicker and are always new and up to date. Besides, the advertiser is the town boomer, while the non-advertiser is the town sponger. The advertiser, through the medium of his ads, is reaching out and bringing new people to town to trade, and is thus both directly and indirectly advertising the town. There is a way in which every person trading in this town can help the town, and that is to encourage enterprise by patronizing the merchant who does advertise. That's one way to boom a town that should have our admiration. This is the first of a series of articles prepared for the merchant who wants a better business. Our aim is to be of service to the enterprising merchant.
