KLAMATH CHICKS HAVE SOME TASTE

ANOTHER NUGGET IS FOUND TO ADD A LITTLE TO THE EXCITEMENT AS TO THIS COUNTY'S MINERALS

The Eastwood chickens are not the only Klamath county hens who have developed a fondness for such choice morsels as gold nuggets, as related in the Herald some two weeks ago, according to news brought here by S. A. Penny, who resides on the Mickler & Albright ranch near Olene. Penny also brought in a nugget, and he received 50 cents for it from a local jeweler.

According to Mr. Penny his wife found the nugget in the yard a few weeks ago. It is worn smooth, as though it had been carried in a hen's crop, and the Pennys are of the opinion that the precious metal was picked up by a hen, and that it was thrown out unobserved when the chicken after being killed, was cleaned.

James Douglas has returned to the Doak ranch at Odessa, after a conference here with D. P. Doak, who owns the ranch, and J. Frank Adams, whose dredge is being used in reclamation work there.

Prof. Marchisfava Who Saved Pope

A half dozen times within the last three years word has come from Rome that Pope Pius X. was so ill that he could not last much longer. His illness has usually been due to overwork. Then has come the news that Professor Marchisfava has taken charge and overruled the laws and traditions which surround the pope. He has generally forced the pontiff to take to his bed for a few days. Thereupon recovery has followed. In the pope's illness of March and April the professor took charge, and despite reports that the pontiff would not last more than a few days, he has sufficiently recovered to attend to his duties.

EIGHTH GRADE EXAMINATIONS TO BE HELD THURSDAY AND FRIDAY—GRADE FINALS ARE BEING ARRANGED

Today they announced that the term would be ended on May 23.

Announcement to this effect was also made by City Superintendent R. H. Dunbar. Say Modoc Northern Running Here By 1915

Report From Reliable Sources Are to the Effect That Work Will Start at Susanville Soon

That the Modoc Northern Railroad company's trains will be running into Klamath Falls by 1915 is the assertion made by construction officials of the company, according to reliable information received here from Susanville.

The railroad, which commences at Fernley, Nevada, has just completed its line to Susanville, and work trains are now running into that city.

With the completion of the line between Fernley and Susanville, according to the officials, it will be pushed forward to Susanville. The work trains and engines will be started at once grading the track between Susanville and Klamath Falls.

Modoc county. This piece of work will include the line through the Pitt River canyon. Following its completion, the next to be taken up will be Merrill.

According to the right of way secured for this railroad, the route will enter Oregon on the east side of Tule Lake. The line will skirt the shores of the lake to Merrill, and from there it will be run to this city.

Outlook, the northern terminus of the work next to be taken up by the construction department of the road, is about 90 miles from here. The closeness of the work outlined indicates that the remark about the railroad entering Klamath Falls in two years was not a boast.

Fourth Ward—Ben S. Owens. Fifth Ward—W. O. Huson. A very light vote was cast in the city, due largely to the fact that there were no contests in either the First

Townsend for the one-year-term by two votes, and Fred Melhase ran second to Matthews. Frank M. Upp, another candidate in the Second, finished three votes behind Melhase. In the Third ward Councilman

Big Cinder's Trainer Missing; Trial Halts

Man Who Conditioned Jack Johnson at Reno Cannot Be Found. Important Federal Witness

CHICAGO, May 6.—The prosecution of Jack Johnson under the Mann white slavery act was given a severe jolt today when it became known that Yank Kenney, Johnson's trainer at Reno, Nevada, was missing. So far he has not been found, and a number of secret service men are looking for him.

Kenney was the man who conditioned the big negro for his bout with Jim Corbett on July 4, 1910, when he won the heavyweight championship of the world.

Federal officials have not seen Kenney since Thursday. Fear has been expressed that he has been slain or spirited away by Johnson's friends.

The negro and his former trainer have been enemies for some time.

Kenney's testimony was especially desired by the prosecution.

It is said that he was prepared to offer damaging testimony regarding the negro's relations with white girls in Nevada and elsewhere, and it is believed that Johnson's friends wished to prevent this.

Attorney Bachach, who represents Johnson, is questioning the prosecutive ventures closely as to their views regarding investigation. He evidently intends to exclude Bachach from jury service.

Belle Schriber, the principal witness, is sequestered at a hotel, awaiting the opening of the case.

Johnson appeared very cheerful today. "I only want a fair show," he said.
