MUNICIPAL CARS AIM OF TOCOMA RODEO HATS ON WAY TO PORTLAND

CITY ON PUGET SOUND TO VOTE ON BOND ISSUE SATURDAY FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES

TACOMA, May 7.—Following unsuccessful negotiations with the local traction management, Mayor Seymour and the other city commissioners have decided to build as a municipal project a street car line extending from the heart of the city to the manufacturing district on the tide flats, providing the bond issue for that purpose is carried at the special election Saturday.

The city councilmen endeavored to effect a leasing arrangement with the traction company whereby its lines should be extended to accommodate the thousands of laborers employed on the docks and manufacturing establishments. When this failed, the councilmen announced the city would undertake the construction and operation of the line.

This action is looked upon as presaging ultimate municipal ownership of all traction lines in the city. The franchise of the Tacoma Railway and Power company on two principal lines expires in five and seven years, respectively.

TUMULTY HAS 'EM ALL IN HIS BOOK

United Press Service
WASHINGTON, May 7.—The hopes and happiness of many democrats hang on the contents of a black, leather covered loose leaf ledger that lies on the desk of Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson. There is little about the outside of the book to attract attention, and were it not for the fact that the book is always taken home when Secretary Tumulty leaves for the day, knowledge of its existence would probably never have become known.

The book is indexed, and today it developed that there is at least one page for every state in the Union, while some states have half a dozen.
And the pages are covered with minute stenographic entries which Tumulty proudly boasts could hardly be read by anyone but himself. Within the covers are statements of exact political situations existing in the democratic party in each of the states, names and data about job hunters and the men who, having no desire themselves for jobs, are trying to hold the veto power over those who actually are seeking government employment.
The whole is an application to the affairs of the United States of a little plan that Tumulty tried out first in his law practice in Jersey City, later as a member of the assembly, and finally as secretary to Governor Wilson. He jots down everything that he hears about a state situation. The various delegations which call to get the president's ear are always anxious to talk to Tumulty. He is a good lisener and the leader who is having trouble getting places for the faithful can be assured that he will get a cordial hearing and much sympathy from the president's secretary. But there is one thing that few of them have as yet found out, and that is that the "high spots" of their statements to Tumulty are made a part of his private records.
And in the various states where

JOSEPH P. TUMULTY
Secretary to President Wilson. Who Has Even the Office Seekers Systematically arranged in a Book Showing Their Service and Their Qualifications.

there is a real fight on, Tumulty's notes will be the "final word" when the president of the United States takes up for settlement the various difficult problems of patronage in those sections. In addition to the gossip, there is placed in this little book in black and white the results of Tumulty's independent investigations of the charges and countercharges made by men who have called upon him—his opinions of the merits of their claims to dictatorship and his opinions of their standing as business men and executives.

And it will surprise many of those who are now insisting that they are the only sinner-pure, Now-in-the-bottle and dyed-in-the-wool Wilson men, that Secretary Tumulty has their real number in black and white in the pages of his little book. He has copious notes on verbal attacks all these men may have made on the New Jersey governor before he was taken seriously as a presidential candidate. Also the little book contains a correct record of how hard every one of the democratic leaders did or did not work during the recent campaign. Perhaps some of the men who made these attacks immediately before and immediately after the convention have marvelled at the what seemed to them, superhuman memory

War Minister Is in Danger by Scandal

General von Heeringen, the war minister of the German empire, will have some difficulty in holding his place if the Krupp armament mandala are not hushed at once or explained. It is believed in many quarters that an investigation which may exhibit the kind of graft many Europeans think is confined to America will be held.

Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the socialist leader, has demanded this investigation. The charge was made that the Krupp firm, a bigger institution than the Carnegie Steel company, and the maker of all the German and much armament used on the continent, had induced Paris newspapers to publish articles of a warlike tone. Berlin newspapers were said to have been subsidized; all for the purpose of rousing in Germany a feeling of insecurity and bringing about the purchase of more guns for defense.

of this New Jerseyite when he intimated that certain of them were inconsistent in regard to statements then and at the present time. Well, there's the answer—in a little, innocent looking, black leather covered loose leaf ledger.
Secretary Tumulty is a canny Irishman. He probably figured while acting as secretary to the governor of New Jersey that when that official was moved up to the White House, he might deeply appreciate some real facts and some real figures about possible seekers after office. Secretary Tumulty has these statistics in his possession now, and they are available at all times to the president.
That little book of Tumulty's is indeed one of the "powers behind the throne." And it's a perfectly fair and wise counselor.
