A Georgia Veteran of the Union Army and Wife, Proud of Stand

Here is the real reunion of the blue and the gray—a Georgia veteran of the Union army and his wife, who is proud of him. Not many years ago a Georgian would not have so jauntily worn such a uniform. It might have been a mark for unfriendly comment, if not worse. Not many years ago a tattered Confederate uniform in a New England town would have subjected the wearer to great annoyance. But the picture proves those days have passed. A G. A. R. uniform would cause less comment today in Georgia than a Confederate uniform in Massachusetts.

resumed again the fore part of September.

The freedom of vacation has been partly enjoyed for the past week, on account of the cessation of boxing on the "three R's," and the taking of the final examinations for promotion. Today the pupils assembled at the school to receive their report cards, and learn whether or not they passed successfully.

From the standpoint of attendance and progress and efficiency in studies, the school term just ended was a great success. Superintendent Dunbar and his able staff of instructors made a most commendable record.

It is exceedingly gratifying to know that the teaching corps next term will be practically the same as this year. There will be a few changes, on account of teachers declining to accept their places for another term.

INJURED LAD IS RESTING EASIER

ALTHOUGH GAINING STRENGTH, VICTIM OF THE MISHAP HAS NOT RECOVERED CONSCIOUSNESS YET

Five-year-old Bowne Henry, who was run down by an automobile Sunday, is still in a subconscious state, as he has been since the time of the mishap.

Since traffic has been stopped on Klamath avenue, in front of the Henry residence, the youngster has been gaining steadily in strength. Drs. White and Chilton state that the period of coma may remain several days more.

There are two kinds of insurance. Chilcote writes the kind that pays. New location, 625 Main st., phone 66.

WORDEN AND THE PROOF BURDEN

Worden says the reports of the Klamath county grand jury are false. One of the certain disputable presumptions of evidence in Oregon is, "That official duty has been regularly performed." (L. O. L., Sec. 799) Worden is put to proof that the reports of the grand jury are false. He has had from last December to the present hour, and produced no proof. The official report of the grand jury and the charges of official misconduct and mismanagement therein stand unrefuted. Worden's only defense is simply that the people's investigating committee lied. All good citizens are called upon to work side vote for the election of a clean, sane business man, Frank Ira White, for county judge.

Birmingham Had to Stop Baseball

Joe Birmingham, whose remarkable success this season with the Cleveland club of the American league has interested the fans all over the country, has lost his streak of luck. Not only has he broken his leg, and thus been put out of the game, but Larry Lajoie, the mighty second baseman, was so badly hurt that he had to remain out for some days.

The injury may eliminate the Naps from the position of contenders in the league race.

In the ninth inning of the second game with Frank Chance's New York team, Birmingham doubled, and in sliding into second, caught his spikes on the rod to which the bag was fastened, breaking the bone in one of his ankles. The injury may keep him out of the game the balance of the season.

Birmingham's success as a manager has been meteoric. When Harry Davis resigned in disgust toward the close of last year, Birmingham was placed in charge of a team that was fast skidding toward the cellar. He seemed to put new life into the Naps immediately. The team pulled itself together, and by a magnificent spurt in the closing days, nosed out the White Sox, and finished in the first division.

The present season opened in a blaze of glory for Cleveland. Birmingham kept them in the fight from the start, and played a magnificent game himself in the outfield. With practically the same team that finished fourth last year, he has been at the top and fighting it out with the Athletics and Washingtons, until this unfortunate accident laid him low. Joe is only 29 years old, and the youngest big league manager in captivity.

NEW LAWS WILL HIT SOCIAL EVIL

HEREAFTER, HOUSES OF ILL-FAME ARE DECLARED SUITS, AND SUIT IN EQUITY CAN BE STARTED

One of the measures to become effective June 3 is the law providing for the abolishment of red light districts, which takes up the eradication of the social evil in an entirely new manner. Instead of attempting to establish the fact that such an institution exists at a jury trial, as in the case at present, under the law, the matter will be taken up as an equity proceeding.

The measure follows

Section 1. Whoever shall erect, establish, continue, maintain, use, own or lease any building, erection or place used for the purpose of lewdness, assignation or prostitution, or any other immoral act, is guilty of maintaining a nuisance, and the building, erection or place, or the ground itself, in or upon which, or in any part of which such lewdness, assignation or prostitution is conducted, permitted or carried on, continued or exists, and the furniture, fixtures, musical instruments and contents, are also declared a nuisance, and shall be enjoined and abated as hereinafter provided.

Sec. 2. Whenever a nuisance is kept, maintained or exists as defined in this act, the district attorney shall, or any taxpayer of the county may, maintain a suit in equity in the name of the state of Oregon to perpetually enjoin such nuisance, the person or persons conducting or maintaining same, and the owner, lessee or agent of the building or ground upon which such nuisance exists.

Sec. 3. The suit, when brought under the provisions of this act, shall be promptly tried, and in such suit common fame shall be competent evidence in support of the complaint.

Sec. 4. If the existence of the nuisance be established in a suit, as provided in this act, an order of abatement shall be entered as a part of the judgment in the case, which order shall direct the removal from the building or place of all fixtures, furniture, musical instruments or movable property used in conducting such nuisance, and shall direct the sale thereof in the manner provided for the sale of chattels under execution, and the effectual closing of the building or place against its use for any purpose, and so keeping it closed for a period of one year, unless sooner released.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

By MARGARET MASON

(Written for the United Press.)
With a dainty parasol
Fair and fickle Phyllis can
Keep away the suns of Heav'n
And attract the sons of man.

NEW YORK, May 23.—A sunshade doubles as a first aid to complications and affections. She is a wise summer girl who opens up her parasol. The moment a pretty woman raises one she is sure to be spotted by some suns and not to be spotted by summer suns.

These days they have reached the very top notch of ingenuity, frivolity and beauty. Ruffled and tucked and shirred and puffed, they unfurl their glories to the breeze. Though the most exquisite and costly fabrics, chiffon, taffeta, crepe and cretons are used to cover their bare ribs, it is the shape of the 1913 parasol that makes it a thing of beauty and a joy for cover. With the perverse vagary of fashion it is now decreed that small women must have no shapes, parasols must have all shapes. There is a pagoda parasol built for all the world like the old Chinese temple roofs and brilliant in the exotic hues of Oriental silks. A quaint round one of one-toned taffeta, turned up all around the edge like a hat with a rolled brim, is decidedly eccentric. A delectable model of white chiffon over green silk has an edge of transparent shirred tulle. Through this half-revealing, half-concealing border one's eyes have all the lure of a sloop-eyed odalisque. There is nothing slow about this parasol, however.

Since there is a language of flowers, why not of sunshades? The riot of shapes this season would surely make up quite a vocabulary. At least, they are the last word in parasols, and there's one to designate each type of girl. There's a circular parasol, with coquettish insets of lace and a border of shirred silk for the all-around flirt. A quaint four-cornered affair in true blue brocade for the girl who is on the square. A three-cornered one of black satin, lined with lavender choffon for the charmer who is one of the inevitable "triangle" love affair. There's an empire model, smothered in plooched ruffles, for the giddy butterfly lass, and a bell-shaped beauty in crepe, sprinkled with tiny bouquets of flowers, for the belle of the beach.

The new half-titled parasol of yellow crepe, set piquantly aslant its stick, is just the thing for the maid who is not quite on the level. There is one shaped like an aeroplane that would do nicely for a flyaway miss, and most freaky of all is a boat-shaped model, all alloy for the lass who loves a sailor. Of course, there is the Balkan sunshade, which is a regulation round affair, bordered in the national colors, yellow, red and blue.

Of all the novelties in the "ombrella" line, the tilted models are the most attractive and unique. As artistic backgrounds for glowing faces at garden parties, or on the afternoon drive, they are prettiest of all-over lace, with pastel-tinted chiffon linings. The miniature parasols for carriage use only are simply doll-sized versions of the grown-up affairs. They are decidedly perky with their ornate trimmings, and giddy hues, and a far cry from the tiny black carriage parasols you were wont to see in the plump hand of a pudgy dowager.

The cretonne parasols are as fascinating as their silken sisters in their gaudy futuristic colorings, and the lingerie models, cool and chaste in their white linen slips, are yet exquisitely befrivoleed with lace insets, ruffles and elaborate embroidery.

It's a long stick that has no turning which raises these parasol hybrids of 1913. Enameled in black, white, or the color of its top, it is coquettishly offset with a tassel, a smart bow of ribbon, or an airy rosette. To be a sartorial success this summer you must have one well in hand.

You must needs have your throat festooned in a string of artificial pearls this summer, for it simply can't bear to be bare. There are lovely strands of creamy or pink-tinted globules which defy the detection even of a pearl expert. In the new ultra smart length, which falls below the bust line, they are exquisite nestling in the airy nets of your saphyr-like blouse.

Lovely ropes of pale pink or white coral are artistic and girlish, with lingerie frocks, and beads of alternate lapis lazuli and filigree gold and a rich note of color to a soft ecru linen gown.

Originality and discretion are the keynotes of the present jewelry modes. You must study your tie and your toilette, and then consult your jewelry case with care. Semi-precious stones, set artistically, are more to be desired than a pigeon blood, garishly or inappropriately worn.

GRANDMOTHER USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HER FADED OR GRAY HAIR

Mixed With Sulphur, It Makes Hair Soft, Beautiful, Cures Dandruff

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmothers' time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But the brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drugstore for the ready-to-use product, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents.

Some druggists make their own, which is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting Wyeth's, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair, and is splendid for dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

A well known downtown druggist says his customers insist on Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because they say it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell if the hair is simply changed or if it has been dyed—and it's so easy to use, the simply change a spoon or two of the drug is through your hair and draw it through your hair, and ing one strand at a time, at night and by morning the disappear; after a few days or two it is perfectly natural color and looks like your own.
