British Male "Sufr" Tells of the Cause

By Ed L. Keen

(London Correspondent of the United Press.)

LONDON, May 27.—Why is militancy? Because it is the only way left.

This, in brief, is the justification for the present campaign of violence carried on by the radical woman suffrage crusaders comprising the Women's Social and Political union, as given by George Lansbury, former member of parliament and the most prominent "male suffragette" in England today.

Lansbury is himself a militant. On account of his recent public speeches approving the destruction of property by Mrs. Pankhurst's cohorts, and urging the men friends of the movement to go out and do likewise, he was arrested and charged with "inciting to malicious destruction of property" by inflammatory speech, under a centuries-old law, passed in the time of King Edward III. He was tried in Bow street police court, and sentenced to three months in prison. The court offered Lansbury the alternative of freedom on bail if he would promise good behavior. He at first refused, and was cheered by the suffragettes, but later, to their chagrin, he took the pledge, and was released on bail signed by Joseph Fels. He gave up his seat in parliament last session as a protest against the insincerity of the Labor party, of which he was a member, in its attitude toward the woman suffrage question. He stood for re-election independently on a straight-out-votes-for-women platform, and was defeated. Since then he has devoted the greater part of his time agitating on behalf of the woman movement generally, and the policies of the W. S. P. U.

Lansbury's family also are militants, one of his sons and one of his daughters having served prison terms for window smashing.

"I think the reason why our American friends cannot understand the development of militancy in this country," he said, "is because they do not understand the British political. I have never been in America, but from what I have learned of the success of the more peaceful methods over there, I am convinced that you have a different brand of legislators. Evidently they are amenable to verbal argument. But, more important, they do not resort to the trickery, treachery and brutality in their dealings with women folk that have characterized the situation that obtains here. I wonder if your women would have limited their methods of persuasion to soft words and street parades if they had been confronted in America with conditions which confronted the women in England.

"Don't think for a moment that our women have not tried these means. They have been extraordinarily patient. For 60 years the agitation for woman's emancipation has gone on in England. The lack of sincerity of the government leaders toward the movement was manifested as long ago as 1855. When Gladstone introduced his bill to give agricultural laborers the vote, the women were led to believe that they, too, would be included in the measure. But, at the very last moment, Gladstone let it be known that if a woman's suffrage amendment were brought in it would wreck the bill, despite the fact that he himself declared he saw no reason why women should not have the vote. It was Gladstone, by the way, who once said, 'No great reform has ever been brought about in this country without violence.'

"The women were grievously disappointed, but they continued their agitation along peaceful lines, holding parlor meetings, and all that sort of thing. No notice was taken of them. Then, seven years ago, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, a great social worker, organized the Women's Political and Social union, with the avowed object of introducing militant methods. At that time the militant consisted of 'heckling' speakers, including cabinet members, something done since earliest times throughout England. For doing the same thing the men did they were cruelly maltreated, and thrown out into the streets. This resulted in increased membership.

"As a part of our new militant campaign, the women began to send deputations to parliament, another 'constitutional method' which had never been denied to the men. The premier and cabinet members refused to see them, and generally the police were called to throw them out, and later even to prevent them from entering the building. When they persisted in their constitutional rights, they were brutally assaulted, and hundreds imprisoned. But still they were patient. Not until after four instances of this kind did the women, as a protest, begin to break windows. Then the government opened up negotiations. A truce was declared, and the so-called conciliation bill, granting limited franchise, introduced. It passed its second reading by a majority of 160. But the women were deceived, government leaders preventing its third reading. Next session the same membership defeated it by a majority of 14. The campaign against it had been sinister and surreptitious. The defeat was in the face of absolute pledges held by the women of 325 out of the 470 members of the commons! Again came honeyed words and promises, which again were broken. Would your women put up with such treatment?

"But, after all, what have the women done but destroy a few thousand dollars worth of property? No lives have been taken, no one injured physically. They haven't incited to civil war as Sir Edward Carson and Bonar Law have done in Ulster. Yet Carson and Law go free, and Mrs. Pankhurst and her lieutenants are thrown into jail! The women haven't organized rebellion or revolution. It has been only guerilla fighting—so far!"

Man Voted Best All-Round Athlete

ITHACA, May 27.—John Paul Jones, holder of the world's record for the mile, has been voted the best all-around man at Cornell. He is one athlete who does not neglect his studies and give all his time to the track.

Despite his duties as captain of the varsity track team he finds time for attention to his work in classrooms. He is completing a course in engineering, and he stands so well that his services have already been spoken for by a large manufacturing concern of Pittsburgh. He will step in there a week after graduation. Jones has worked his way through college for four years by running a laundry agency.

Is the Brother of New Middleweight

Tom Gibbons, brother of Mike, the famous middleweight, or, perhaps, welterweight, of Minnesota, has just won a fight over a middleweight of ability, old Mike Donovan's son, and thereby he has proved that he may develop into the kind of a fighter his brother promises. Tom is larger than Mike. He weighs 155, and Mike does not naturally go more than 152.

Since the younger brother has been trained by the older he has acquired much of the method which made Mike famous.

Good Blood Means Good Health

A clear, healthy skin, full of life and color, reflecting perfect health and energy, has long been known to be a business and social asset.

If you are not the fortunate possessor of all the above—if you are suffering from skin eruptions of any description, it means that the blood is weak.

WHEN IT BECOMES IMPOVERISHED—THIN AND WATERY—IT CANNOT SUPPLY PROPER NOURISHMENT, AND THE BODY TISSUES BECOME DISEASED.

This condition is every ready to manifest itself, and should be checked and treatment started with the first appearance of blood disorder.

In our estimation Nyal's Hot Springs Blood Remedy is the one best treatment. It gets at the root of the trouble, cleanses the blood impurities, increases the circulation, produces blood that is rich in nourishment—blood that is rich in nourishment—blood that will build up broken-down tissues.
