British Papers Are Devoting Columns to the Trial of Roosevelt's Damage Suit, and Are Running Glossaries of American Mixed Drinks—Defense Says No Retraction Was Demanded by Former President

MARQUETTE, May 28.—"Not only can I say that I have never seen Colonel Roosevelt under the influence of liquor, but I can add that it is absolutely silly for anybody to bring such a charge against him," said John Callam O'Laughlin, a newspaperman who testified this morning at Roosevelt's libel suit.

He stated positively that the president never mixed drinks.

The defense indicated today that it expects to prove that Editor Newett, in printing the charge of drunkenness and profanity against Roosevelt, merely repeated a story that was currently reported, and which was generally believed.

In a long argument, Attorney Baldwin, for the defense, demanded the right to show that the publication of the story was not malicious. He declared that the colonel demanded no retraction.

"The Wolf" Will Be Given By Local Cast

Strong Play of the Northwest Will Be Staged June 6 and 7 Under Auspices of the Woodmen

On Friday and Saturday evening, June 6 and 7, Ewauna Camp, Woodmen of the World, will present at Houston's opera house Eugene Walters' great success, "The Wolf," a thrilling three-act comedy drama of the great northwest. This play is regarded as Eugene Walters' masterpiece, and those who have seen his works, namely, "Paid in Full," "The Eastway Way," and "Fine Feathers," remember how clearly the characters and situations are drawn. In his character delineations he is without a peer.

The scenes of "The Wolf" are laid in the great northwest, which has given birth to so many quaint and thrilling romances. Everyone remembers "The Barrier," and the scenario is practically the same. The play is being produced for the Woodmen under the direction of McNaughton Bros., who come here highly recommended, and who, with the assistance of local talent in the balance of the cast and specialties, produce a show that has earned great praise in writups in coast papers. Double specialties are introduced between acts, special scenic effects arranged and no expense will be spared in making the show a most complete success.

On Saturday evening a dance will be given after the show, and a partial change of specialties made. Over 30 of the local people will be seen in the cast and a splendid time is assured.
