REFERENDUM VOTE IS NOT STOPPED

SPECIAL ELECTION IN NOVEMBER NOT BLOCKED LEGALLY, THOUGH ATTACKED BY ATTORNEY GENERAL

SALEM, June 12.—Election law tangles are apparently getting worse. District Judge William Galloway of this county rendered an opinion last Saturday that the Day bill calling a special referendum election for next November was unconstitutional. Attorney General Crawford and Secretary of State Olcott stated later that no cognizance will be taken of that election, and that if nothing else intervenes the special election will be held. Then along comes the Eight Hour League, acting on the advice of Attorney W. S. U'Ren, and presents a copy of the initiative petition for the initiative of an eight-hour law for women. Secretary Olcott says he won't file an initiative measure for submission at the special election unless ordered by the supreme court.

Attorney General Crawford said Judge Galloway's decision declaring the Day bill unconstitutional, while it coincides with his opinion, yet was merely a by-play in connection with the mandamus suit brought against the secretary of state to have the referendum petition against the "dentistry bill" filed. Both sides in this suit raised the issue of the constitutionality of the Day bill, so neither side could carry the issue to the supreme court. The attorney general said the point could not be taken before the supreme court in this case, anyway, as it had no direct bearing on the issues involved.

Secretary of State Olcott said he could not take cognizance of Judge Galloway's decision, as his office was administrative, and the Day bill directs his office to provide for a special election. He said he would proceed unless the courts ordered him by injunction to refrain.

This may be done by someone raising the direct question of the constitutionality of the law in the supreme court, or by a mandamus suit against the secretary of state to compel him to file for the election initiative measures.

In the latter instance the constitutionality question would have to be raised by Olcott in defense for refusing to file the petition. The other ground on which he will refuse to file such a petition is because the Day bill is restrictive and confines the election only to referred measures.

Attorney General Crawford contends that the Day bill is unconstitutional because it is in violation of section 21 of article 4 of the constitution, which says:

"Nor shall any law be passed, the taking effect of which shall be made to depend upon any authority, except as provided in this constitution."
 He says there was no existing cause for the calling of the election at the time the measure was passed by the legislature.

Nature's Warning

Klamath Falls People Must Recognize and Heed It

Kidney ills come mysteriously, but Nature generally warns you. Notice the kidney secretions. See if the color is unnatural—If there are settlements and sediment, passages frequent, scanty, painful, its time to fear serious kidney trouble.

It's time to use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have done great work in this locality.

M. Powell, 263 Oak street, Ashland, Ore., says: "I suffered a great deal from kidney trouble and backache, and sometimes I could hardly get around. On arising in the morning I was stiff and lame, and the kidney secretions annoyed me by their irregularity in passage. As soon as I commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills, I improved, and I am now in good health. I still use Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally, however, but more as a preventive than anything else. I always insist upon Doan's Kidney Pills, for no substitute could be as beneficial as they."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

FRANCE TO STOP SALE OF OPIUM

PRISON SENTENCE WILL ALSO BE IMPOSED ON ANY PERSON WHO IS FOUND HITTING THE PIPE OVER THERE

United Press Service
 PARIS, June 12.—Astounded by the opium smoking scandal recently unearthed in the French navy, the French chamber of deputies today named a committee to prepare a bill which will prohibit the sale of the drug throughout France and her colonies, and provide a sentence of from two to six months upon all persons convicted of smoking opium.

The same sentence will be given any person convicted of aiding a smoker in any way to obtain or use the drug. Toulon was known to be a hotbed of opium smokers, dens being common there.

Student Tossers Will Now Be Semi-Pro Men Annual Flirting With Disbarment from Amateur Sports Commences With End of School Year

By HAL SHERIDAN

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, June 12.—A terrible catastrophe is upon us. It happens every year, being more regular than the visit of the seven-year locusts, but in view of certain upheavals during the past year it brings a new sting. With voices from the sidelines urging that the secret be spilled, we refer to the closing of the regular college year and the turning loose throughout the country of several thousand student-baseball players who will be tempted sorely to risk fate and take upon themselves—the terrible blight of "professionalism." Sport was certainly on the blink, and seldom or never on the first pages when those immortal lines asking, "what is so rare as a day in June," were penned, or the answer would have been obvious to a blind man. A real honest-to-goodness amateur is the answer. Such a personage is rarer than two days in June, or than twelve hours in June. Which settles that point, but doesn't settle the question of summer baseball playing by college men.

Some of the bush league and semi-professional clubs throughout the country are likely to make some shifts and take on new strength during the next few weeks, and though we never would suggest outright that the new bloods were fresh from the halls of learning, it isn't going too far to opine casually that although the names will not be similar, there will be resemblances between some of these new semi-professional players and certain college baseball stars of whom we wot that would be startling to the erstwhile college chums of these players.

And this brings us to another turn in the road. Insofar as their standing in athletic circles is concerned, why shouldn't a college man play ball during the summer months with as much safety from being ruled out of college sport as would be accorded the college man who drives a truck during the summer? It's a foolish question, and you don't have to answer.

As a matter of fact, the harder you look for the fine line of demarcation between "professional" and "amateur" athletics, the dimmer it becomes. There are hundreds, possibly thousands, of students who are working their way through college. Some of them are good ball players. During the vacation months they must rustle enough wherewithal to carry them through the next term.

To earn this money they may drive trucks, dig sewers, work on section gangs, clerk, or do anything but play ball. If they accept money for playing ball—and are found out—they are dubbed "professionals" and are barred from all future competition in college or any kind of amateur sports.

At the opening of every football season a dozen or more players frankly admit that they have spent the summer working in the Kansas wheat fields, throwing a sledge with a railroad construction gang, or what not, chiefly to get into condition. It is taken for granted that these men were paid for the work they did to get themselves into physical shape to play football. Now, when you ruminate over these instances it does seem a bit foolish that a baseball player can't keep himself in condition by taking a small job with some bush league team during the summer.

A baseball man might plead that he wanted to play summer ball in order to condition himself for the next season, but he couldn't get away with it. He might swear he didn't receive a cent of money for his job, but few would believe him. And what a yap there would be from the stone quarries, section gangs and blacksmith shops where the football players were conditioning themselves, if they had to do their training at these jobs without pay.

Now the point is not to change the rules to permit a return of the conditions which existed in the notorious old days of "ringers," when the college or university with the most money could "buy" a championship by literally hiring athletes. College authorities are urged to look the matter squarely in the face and allow some leeway. Certain it is that there should be rules to prevent real professionals from being enlisted on college teams, but it is just as certainly a bad thing to prevent bona fide amateur baseball players from playing throughout the summer months on bush leagues or semi-professional teams. The rule could permit students playing on any teams not directly under the national baseball commission, or it could go further, and state what leagues or clubs the students could not play on and return to their amateur standing. The suggestion is not wholly original, so it isn't boosting our own game to say that it is a mighty good one. Take it for what it's worth, you college solons and amateur athletic union officials.

BACK IN WASHINGTON'S TIME
 when plumbing was unknown; when water had to be carted or carried from some central spot in the town; when there were no sewers, no gas, no bathrooms, no sanitation and the plague of many diseases. GOOD BYE, PAINFUL CORNS

When your feet are not right—paining you—corns continually on edge—makes you hate to put your feet down solid, it makes life just about unbearable—you're wrong all over, day in and day out.

One of the simplest, yet most effective methods of removing corns is to apply

NYAL'S Corn Remover

That's all there is to it—just apply it and don't fuss with bandages. It relieves all pain, banishes discomforts and removes the corn when you've forgotten you ever had one. There is absolutely no danger of infection—it is thoroughly antiseptic—forms a coating over the corn, softens and relieves the pain following pressure of shoe.
