CURRENCY BILL CONFERENCES TO START EARLY

THE REPUBLICANS ARE TO BE BARRED

Democratic Leaders Take the Stand That They Should Frame the Bill Without Hindrance From the Minority—Resolution of Republicans for a Non-Partisan Consideration is Downed by Big Vote, When It is Up

United Press Service WASHINGTON, D. C., July 9.—The banking committee of the house of representatives have decided to hold open and public committee meetings in regard to the currency reform measure, but the democratic conferences regarding the measure will be secret.

The committee by a straight party vote, defeated the proposal of the republican members for a joint non-partisan consideration of the bill. The democratic leaders say the closed door policy is taken because they are responsible for the currency measure, and they insist on framing it without hindrance by the minority.

Road to Shippington to be Improved Soon

Much Used Highway Will Be Macadamized From Prospect Street. Sixth Street Will Be Oiled

Shippington's long looked for improved highway to Klamath Falls is to be completed this year; Sixth street is to be completed from Commercial street to the city limits with macadam and crude oil.

These matters were decided upon at an informal meeting of the members of the city council, held at the city hall last night. At this gathering, City Attorney Rutenski was instructed to prepare the necessary papers for introduction at Monday's council meeting.

Instead of introducing an ordinance it was decided to introduce resolutions in both these street improvement cases. This, say members of the council, will expedite matters, and allow the commencing of work in a

Peeress Hypnotized British Millionaire

Lady Sackville, according to the sisters of Sir John Murray Scott, the British millionaire, had him hypnotized. He died some time ago, and now his relatives have brought a will case in the court.

A curious account of Lady Sackville's relations with Sir John was given by witnesses. Alicia Scott, Sir John's elder sister, asserted that Lady Sackville exercised over him a "kind of spell" and a "mesmeric" power. He was "subservient" to her and "afraid of her temper." He "seemed exactly like a slave." He was, Miss Scott said, "a weak man, easily influenced."

It appeared from the statements of counsel for the plaintiff that the two Misses Scott had already realized $420,000 by the sale of effects left them by Sir John.

Mary Scott, the younger of Sir John's sisters, alleged that Sir John was "always cringing" to Lady Sackville and that his demeanor to her was "obsequious." She acted in Sir John's house, said this witness, as though she were the mistress. Sir John's mother, noting this, told him "you will soon not be able to call your soul your own."

Owner of stolen animal and Merrill Deputy Sheriff, starting after Mitchell early this morning after his flight, kept in pursuit until they captured him near Montague. Law Goes to Merrill for Prisoner.

More Than $100,000 Spent During the Rodeo

Business Houses and Restaurants Were Busy the Entire Time, and Bank Clearings Were Large

A conservative estimate of the amount of money spent in Klamath Falls during the three days of the Elk Rodeo is given at between $100,000 and $125,000. This amount was arrived at after careful interviews with the leading business houses of the city and the banks, which handled the greater amount of the money. Of this amount it is estimated that between $40,000 and $50,000 was outside or foreign money.

All the merchants report an exceptionally good business, and are delighted with the results of the big show. The extra business brought here as a result of the Rodeo has been a great relief to the merchants from the quietness that has been prominent all over the county.

Naturally the greatest business was done by the hotels and restaurants. J. J. Keller of the Hotel Commercial estimates that he had an average of 1,000 people each day during the three days show. Washburn's day for the banks, on Monday, was so full that the clerks were unable to sort his money, and were compelled to wait until Tuesday hours to do so. The pleasure about the entire show was that it was a great success and a benefit to the city, without any loss of any business. The city of any community has been a great relief to the merchants from
