SEATTLE AFTER PRIVATE AGENT

INITIATIVE INVOKED TO SECURE LEGISLATION AGAINST THE EMPLOYMENT AGENCIES DOING BUSINESS IN THAT CITY
United Press Service
SEATTLE, WASH., July 18—It appeared certain today that the initiative will be invoked in the interests of legislation which will abolish private employment agencies in Seattle which charge fees for their services.
The petition which started circulating two weeks ago today was within a mere or more of names of the number required. It is charged that many of the agencies have been accepting fees illegally; that they have charged fees with no intention of finding work for their clients and that they have co-operated in underhand ways with certain employers of labor who were fighting strikers.
If this legislation is secured for Seattle, an effort will be made to have the same legislature abolish private employment agencies throughout the state of Washington, and establish free bureaus under state supervision.

Every Street in Klamath Falls
Has Its Share of the Frost That Klamath Soldiers Took Buckshot? Kidney weak? Distressed with urinary ailments? Want a reliable kidney remedy? Don't have to look far. Use what Klamath Falls people recommend. Every street in Klamath Falls has its share.
Here's one Klamath Falls man's experience.
Let Mr. Harshard of Warden ave., tell it.
Says Mr. Harshard: "About two years ago I first noticed symptoms of kidney trouble. My back pained me intensely, and I was obliged to arise many times at night, owing to the frequent passages of the kidney excretions. Often my back was so weak that I had to quit work. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally brought to my attention, and I began using them. They restored my kidneys to a normal condition and removed the pain in my back. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for my cure, and highly recommend them to other kidney sufferers."
For sale by all druggists. Price 50 cents. Foster-McClellan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

WILL TELL ALL ABOUT OREGON

FREE APPROPRIATION AVAILABLE FOR ADVERTISING THE FARM RESOURCES OF THIS STATE

United Press Service
PORTLAND, ORE., July 18—A comprehensive plan to advertise the agricultural advantages of the state of Oregon in every state east of the Rocky Mountains was actively begun today when announcement was made that $150,000 has been donated to the cause.
Oregon will make special efforts to set this advertising in the form of descriptive booklets and circulars, before the thousands of immigrants who annually land in Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston and New York. Some of the booklets will be sent to Canadian ports and also to ports along the Pacific Coast, where immigrants come to America in great numbers.
Special inducements will be offered immigrants to leave the thickly populated districts of New England and other eastern points to come to Oregon and settle on small farms.

U. S. SOLDIERS ON HARD TEST
TWO BRIGADES IN WAR TRAININGS ARE TO BE USED IN THE WORKING OUT OF THE NEW FORMATIONS

United Press Service.
WINCHESTER, VA., July 18—Two dusty brigades of regulars in full war regalia rode through here today and went into camp a few hours later in the green valleys at the foot of the hills which were the scene of the most famous and spectacular raids and smaller battles of the civil war, half a century ago. The brigades were the advance guard of a detachment of the regular cavalry which will be put through the hardest test given United States troops in years. One regiment is here from Fort Belknap, Ala., and the other is from Fort Oglethorpe. They are the Tenth, Eleventh and Fifteenth cavalry and a battery of the Sixth Field Artillery. All rode almost every mile of the way on horseback.
The camp, one mile wide and two miles long, with one of the most perfect natural drill grounds, will formally open tomorrow. It is under the direct command of Col. C. H. Murray of the Twelfth cavalry, acting Brigadier General. Secretary of War Garrison and Major General Leonard Wood will spend a good part of the two months the soldiers will be here, on the job. One of the most important projects to be experimented with will be the working out of the suggested new formation of charging cavalry in double ranks. The famous French cavalry said to be the greatest body of horse soldiers in the world has tried out the plan with great success.

GRANDMOTHER USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HER FADED OR GRAY HAIR
Snow With Sulphur, It Makes Hair Soft, Beautiful, Curves Downward
The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.
But the brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drugstore for the ready-to-use product, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle for about 50

WEEKLY SERMON

"Three Realms"
Rev. J. S. Stubbels, Pastor First Presbyterian Church

"Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever." Heb. 13:8.
In this text we have the past, the present and the future, all bound up together. The soul of man has dominion over these three kingdoms. Memory presides over the kingdom of yesterday; the will presides over the kingdom of today; hope presides over the kingdom of tomorrow. These three segments make up the entire circle of life. The person who lives exclusively in one and neglects the other two becomes lopsided. The man who lives very largely in the past has already become a negative factor in the life of today. The man who lives too much in the future finds it hard to convert his air castles into daily bread. Our great danger, however, is not that of brooding over the past, or dreaming of the future, but rather that of living so exclusively in the present that we lose sight of the treasures that lie in the other two realms.
A short time ago a very prominent man back East read a paper before a large body of ministers. His subject was: "The Gospel of Jesus Christ for the Life That Now Is." The writer dwelt upon the importance of concentrating our efforts, thoughts and prayers upon the problems of the passing hour. "Yesterday is gone, and tomorrow is not here; let us give our undivided attention to the affairs of today." In the discussion that followed it was evident that the writer of the paper had struck a very popular chord in the hearts of the clergymen. There was much talk about industrial missions and the utilitarian side of the Gospel. They derided the idea of preaching other worldliness, or wasting energy on pious platitudes of the past, or vamping vague visions of the future. I am very partial to the idea of preaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ for the life that now is. I have a strong leaning in that direction myself. The fact remains, however, that the person who lives too exclusively in the present is taking a step downward instead of upward. He is cutting out of his life the important distinction between man and brute. It is by giving room to both memory and hope that man slowly rises from the savage state. When the savage has a warm blanket, a tobacco box that is not empty and a full stomach he seems to be satisfied. The hardships of the past are vanished and the future does not concern him. He is living in the present. Neither the memory of yesterday nor the hope of tomorrow moves him. The brute lives more exclusively in the present than the savage does. The ox is concerned only about grass enough to satisfy his present hunger and water enough to slake his present thirst. It is very evident that we can carry our doctrine of living in the present sense too far.

When memory is crowded out of life it takes with it much that is sweet and beautiful. Memory takes the experiences of the past and weaves them into the very texture of the soul. King David's sweetest psalms were all composed when his heart was touched by tender recollections of the past. It was his faithful memory which enabled him as a great king to live over again and again the rich experiences of long ago.
In our effort to apply the gospel of Jesus Christ to the life that now is we are more likely to crowd hope out of the soul than memory. Hope is a virtue that God has put into the soul, and no man should crush it. It is hope that puts courage into the heart of the soldier and strength into the soul of the Christian.
