CONCLAVE WILL START TUESDAY

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR GATHERING AT DENVER, WHICH IS THE "CONVENTION CITY" THIS SUMMER

United Press Service

DENVER, Aug. 9.—Although the thirty-second triennial conclave of the Knights Templar does not formally open until next Tuesday, the preliminaries began today when Most Eminent Sir W. B. Melish, grand master of the Templars, arrived at 2 o'clock this afternoon and was formally received by the Grand Commandery of Colorado. The constituent commanderies of Colorado escorted him to his headquarters.

The decorations prepared for the conclave are the most elaborate in the history of the Mountain region. Upwards of $150,000 has been spent for electric lighting effects and for decorating the downtown streets. In addition, the largest temporary stadium ever built has been erected in the civic center of the city. It is two blocks long, and will seat 30,000 persons. The stadium will be torn down after the conclave. It cost the Knights $36,000. All the prize drills will be held there. More than 100,000 visitors are expected during the meeting.

CANUCK COWBOYS GATHER FOR MEET

CHAP AND SPURS PREDOMINATE AT WINNIPEG, WHERE THE BIG "STAMPEDE" STARTS OPERATIONS TODAY

United Press Service

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Aug. 9.—Winnipeg today resembled a conglomeration of all the Wild West moving picture films that have been thrown on the canvas since the movies were first shown. Cowboys and cowgirls crowded the hotel lobbies and cafes, their jingling spurs breaking in upon the music of the orchestra. Unruly steers and rough looking ponies were herded through the streets. Dozens of "bad men," types of the days of '49, thronged the sidewalks.

It was the "stampede" of the crack cowpunchers, ropers, riders, riflemen and women marksmen who for six days will produce the greatest Wild West show ever, under the auspices of the Canadian government. The plainsmen came from nearly every ranch of Western Canada, and from as far south as Arizona and Texas to compete in the big arena, which seats 75,000 spectators. Fully 50,000 visitors are in Winnipeg today, and this number will be increased by 10,000 more before the program closes. It is expected the spectacle will be the greatest Wild West venture ever held in America.

Men known all over the cattle country of the Northwest are here for the sport, swapping tales of the '70's that would make Buffalo Bill and Kit Carson blush. "Turkey Track' Tony Day was the center of a crowd that saw him pointed out with awe wherever he went today. "Turkey Track" is a solid resident of Southern Alberta now. Years ago, when Indians were thicker by thousands than the book agents are now, "Turkey Track," according to the veterans who know him, wasn't such a solid resident, but as daredevil and courageous a "bad man" as ever threw leg over a horse's back.

There were others almost as noted—but with not so many notches on their guns—who came to town in "cit's clothing," and who looked anything like the characters they were twenty years ago. In the shooting events, scores of the "old boys" were entered, but the younger men had the roping contests and trick riding competitions all to themselves. Gold medals and prizes aggregating $15,000 are on deposit at a local bank, and will be distributed when the "Stampede" is concluded.

There are two kinds of insurance. Chilcote writes the kind that pays. New location 635 Main st., phone 66.

A BIG BUNDLE OF CURRENCY

Is a pretty dangerous thing to display or to be known to be about you. But a check book of the First Trust and Savings bank is never a temptation to violence. It is of no use except to the owner. Why not carry such a check book instead of the dangerous cash. Some murdered men would still be living if they had followed that prudential plan.

WILLIAM C. HURN
HARDWARE

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

By MARGARET MASON

(Written for the Unitde Press)

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"The question's a foolish one, sir," she said.
"Can you not tell from my golf attire'
"I'm going a-milking?" she said with ire.

Little Miss Muffet
Sat on a tuffet,
Fishing the livelong day.
In a chic suit of crash
She had many a mash
Who frightened the fishes away.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The sports maid is always tailor-made. Whether she drives a golf ball about the links or a motor car about town!; whether she sends the ball over the tennis net or a motor car about town; whether she brings about her trig little sail boat or brings down a bird on the wing, she must be appropriately garbed to be a winner.

Diana may have been a mighty huntress, but she was a mighty poor dresser. No self-respecting, up-to-date partridge or pigeon would let itself be pot-shotted by a lady in a veil, a crescent and a pair of sandals. When the huntress of 1913 goes out to stalk her prey and shoot things up considerably, she wears a smartly cut Norfolk jacket of dark or mixed material, a short, plain skirt, high laced boots, a soft felt hat, turn over collars and masculine tie. So trim and jaunty does she look that all fowl and fauna, including the human male, sit around her fascinated, panting to be shot.

The proper garments for a game of golf are realized in a trim white linen skirt, Shetland sweater, low turnover collar and tie, and a rolled brim Panama. A white linen blouse or middy suit with white canvas ties and white hose topped off with a gay-hued tam-o'-shanter or a bright scarfed linen middy hat are the salient features of the sonsy sartorial sailor.

The most courted damsel on the tennis court is she who is becomingly and at the same time sensibly appareled in a white flannel skirt, soft white flannel or linen blouse with a wide rolling collar, flowing tie, a brimmed white sports hat and white hose and tennis shoes. Thus attired she is sure to have herself and her racquet well in hand.

The horsewoman who gallops away with sartorial honors must be correctly habited down to the minutest detail. Even the wrong pin it the correct white stock can make her come a sartorial cropper. Since the side-saddle is no longer the correct form, the habit for the cross saddle alone needs deep consideration. A smart model of black and white cheviot has the regulation breeches topped by a knee length coat, severely plain, although slightly belled. Black boots and a black straw sailor with either a white or black band are worn. White chamois gloves, a linen or madras wash silk shirt of masculine cut and a stock of madras tied as a four-in-hand and pinned with a plain bar are the correct accessories.

Oxford gray or black cheviots or meltons are always good and conservative materials for formal habits, but for extreme hot weather riding informal habits of crash linen or khaki are worn. With the lighter habits tan boots are good, but the plain straw sailor, either black or white, is the mandate of correct equine toggery.

The chic motor maid is enveloped in a long coat of either tan linen or pongee. It is plain of line and belted in the back. Her face is protected with goggles, and one of the ner harem motor veils and a soft brim hat of stitched silk or linen fits closely down over the head and seems to have outsed the ubiquitous bonnet from its perch.

For the complete and sweet angler who lands more hearts than fishes, a short skirt of tweed, high boots, a soft mannish shirt and sweater and a broad brimmed Panama are the catch features.

For the lass who wins in a walk, good, stout, comfortably laced boots are the essentiol foundation of her outfit. An ankle length skirt of light weight serge, a sports coat of green or serese ratine are very swagger. A veritable masculine walking stick adds the last touch to this get-up for a female Edward Payson Weston.

There you have just what to wear,
To ride or walk or sail;
To golf, or top the tennis net;
To shoot the timid quail;
To motor madly o'er the lee;
To climb o'er hill and dale;
To angle in the babbling brook
And snare all creatures male.
