

High School Boys and Girls Mixed in Trial

United Press Service
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 16.—Highly sensational details involving a set of wealthy young high school boys and girls were promised by the prosecuting attorney today when Dr. J. Hall and Fabrian Pratt went to trial on charges of causing the death of Meta Hook, 18-year-old daughter of a prominent business man of Kansas City.

The physicians have been at liberty on bonds of $2,000 since their arrest. Two 18-year-old high school boys, George T. Vance and Herbert Kiger, appeared today as material witnesses for the state.

Dr. Pratt said the Hook girl consulted him and then consulted Dr. Hall. Pratt is 33. Hall denied before the grand jury that he had performed an operation on the girl. In the course of his investigation of the case the prosecutor declared he unearthed a deplorable state of affairs regarding the moral conditions existing in one of the Kansas City high schools.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

By MARGARET MASON

(Written for the United Press)
Like a queen of the night
Or a Turkish delight, Clarissa is looking, with all
Her veils and her beads
And her spangles and gauze
And her tulle buffant for the fall.
It sounds like a lot,
But it really is not.
For Clarissa would have a close call
If a spangle were lost,
Or a ribbon uncrossed,
She'd be looking like Eve 'fore the fall.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—These are the days when a great deal is coming off in the name of fashion. Just a little bit taken from what you've got, leaves just a little bit less. Over in Gay Paree at the Grand Prix the man-akins parading in the latest creations were rather than the races. Many appeared in lace gowns draped over delicately tinted silk tights, and the downfall of the petticoat was supreme.

This seems a bit extreme, especially with the cool days of autumn so imminent, but after all, you will still have your pride to keep you warm. There is a perfect passion for trans- parent materials, and some of the re- sulting gowns are so sheer that they are simply sheer audacity. Varily, if Salome and her seven veils should walk up Fifth avenue today, the 1913 beauty would gaze at her ankles, murmuring, "What an overdone tramp. Why the other six?"

Even as the gowns have shed lin- ings and petticoats, so have the hats cast off their crowns. A ruffe of pleated maline or a band of wired tulle passes muster for a hat now- days, and the whole top of your pate is left exposed to the elements.

The Oriental trend is again to the fore. Much gold and silver trim- mings are used on street costumes, and beads and spangles galore. There is a new wired tunic that flares out partly just below the hip line for all the world like a lampshade or a hoop skirt slipped in the bud. It is the Parisian version of a Persian fashion. Tunics less buffant, however, will be more popular for common or street car wear, as one can scarcely picture a wired tunic in its pristine glory emerging from a subway crush.

Along with the many other fads and fancies adapted from the Far East, the harem veil for motoring has the distinguishing mark of being really sensible. The veil is worn draped full and falling from just below your goggled eyes. It protects the throat and nose admirably from the dust of motor travel, and at the same time swathe you in all the mys- terious glamor and charm of an ad- oleque or houri.

With the rest for turkey trots and tangles still unabated, the young girl's idle fancy lightly turns to dan- cing frocks—like the thoughts of her sisters, her cousins and her aunts. Chiffon net is the groundwork for all the fragile concoctions, and with the sleeveless bodices, cut low, tight ankle length skirts, slit to the knee, it is plain to be seen that not much material is needed for their construc- tion. So little is there of them, in fact, that there is scarcely room for trimming. Sprays and garlands of tiny flowers or a quaintly draped sash is just about all that they will stand.

One charming model of Nile green chiffon is frosted with trimming of silver embroidered lace. The ankle length skirt draped up on the right side is bordered with a cascade of lace, while the corsage and one sleeve is of the silvered lace entirely. The other shoulder is veiled with a drap- ery of the green tulle, and caught at the waist with a cluster of green and silver grapes. The skirt drapery is caught near the knee with a similar cluster of grapes.

A crase for handpainted fabrics is noticeable among the tango toilettes. A white net painted with lilacs is lovely over a pale blue satin slip. A girde of pale blue and lilac colored chiffon with long sash ends fastens on the left hip.

A fruity frock is handpainted with bunches of cherries on white chiffon over satin, and the black velvet girde has sash ends that are fastened to the draped up opening of the skirt with a knot of artificial cherries. Dancing in this frock, you are apt to resemble a cherry bounce.

A lovely lemon colored crepe has the entire corsage (what there is left of it) of jet bead lattice work. A choux of black tulle marks the meet- ing of the draped crepe skirt and the jetted bodice at the middle of the waist line in front. Its long ends weighted with jet tassels, fall to the slit up hem. Of course, the jet lattice of the bodice is laid over flesh colored chiffon, but as there is no suspicion of a sleeve and the décolleté is most de- colleté, indeed, this gown looks like a case of "on with the dance, and off with everything else."

though he holds the distinction of being one of the youngest men ever granted a degree by the University of

DON'T STAY GRAY! SAGE TEA WILL DARKEN YOUR HAIR BEAUTIFULLY

A Mixture of Sage and Sulphur Prevents Dandruff and Falling Hair

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur no one can tell, because it's done so naturally; so easily. It is also splendid to remove dandruff, cure itching scalp and stop falling hair.

Preparing this mixture, though, at home is a messy and troublesome task. For about 50 cents a bottle you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy."

Some druggists put this mixture up themselves, but make it too sticky, so insist you want "Wyeth's," then

there will be no disappointment.

You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and draw it through your hair,
taking one small strand at a time.
Do this at night and by morning all gray hair disappears and after another application or two becomes beautifully darkened and more glowing and luxuriant than ever. You will also discover dandruff is gone and the hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though as disgrace, is a sign of old age and so we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, and you'll look years younger. Inquiry shows all pharmacists in town have sold lots
of it.

PARCELS POST CHANGES MADE

WEIGHT LIMIT IS INCREASED TO TWENTY POUNDS—REGULA-TION ALSO MADE FOR SENDING
FRESH MEATS

United Press Service
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 16.— Postmaster General Burleson's much discussed changes in the parcel post regulations became effective yesterday. Hereafter the limit of weight of parcels for delivery in the first and second postal zones will be twenty pounds instead of eleven, as has been the case since the inauguration of the system.

Moreover, from now on, the postage rate on parcels exceeding four ounces is to be 5 cents for the first pound and 1 cent for each additional pound or fraction.

One other change which cannot be made use of until cooler weather is that fresh meats and other perishable articles, when inclosed and wrapped as prescribed, may be mailed to offices in both first and second zones. Heretofore they were mailable only in one zone.

If the changes result in the profits expected, Postmaster Burleson intends to reduce rates and increase the weight limit next year.
