

Miss Adelaide Trapp Forces Drowning Person to Release Hold

"It is the simplest thing in the world to save a drowning woman," says Miss Adelaide Trapp, swimming teacher and expert. "If you have the strength, and you will get it by swimming constantly, there is no reason why any one should strangle you and pull you down under the water. Just place your knee against the stomach of the victim, and with one hand breast against the body, reach over with the other to the nose and shut off the wind. Since most of those struggling in the water will keep their mouths shut tightly, this operation will stop the breathing. Then the victim has lost the strength to struggle." In a photograph posed with one of her pupils, Miss Trapp shows how easily this is done. "I would like to say further," she added, "that it is almost criminal for anyone, man or woman, to fail to learn to swim."

SEMAPHORE FOR STREET TRAVEL

PHILADELPHIA ADOPTS A NEW METHOD OF DIRECTING HEAVY TRAFFIC ON THE STREETS IN BUSINESS DISTRICT

United Press Service
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—To-day Philadelphia stands first among the cities of the world to use the semaphore for regulating street traffic. A device known as the Porter-Ray traffic semaphore is in operation today at the intersection of Broad and Chestnut streets, where traffic is as heavy as at any cross corners in the world, according to Philadelphia officials. It is similar to those used on railroads, except that it is operated by the "warning policeman" by hand. It can be seen by drivers or chauffeurs a block away, and was ordered installed by Director of Public Safety Porter. Captain Martin H. Ray, "systemizer to the director," invented the apparatus. Director Porter said today he will install the semaphore on all downtown street crossings if the one at Broad and Chestnut proves a success. Go to Chestnut to get a bargain in furniture, beds and dishes. Hotel range and piano cheap. 22-24 h&r

MEMORIZING IS PART OF COURSE

NEW SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION WANTS TO TEACH THE YOUNG TO BE GOOD CITIZENS

SALEM, Aug. 22.—Declaring that it is the mission of the teachers to teach the boys and girls not the course of study, but to become good citizens, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Churchill has inserted in the grade course of study, which has just been completed, a number of selections for memorizing. Among them are selections from the Bible, such as the Twenty-third Psalm; "Happy is the man who findeth wisdom;" the selection from the Corinthians beginning "Though I speak with the tongue of men and of angels;" the 131st Psalm, and the Beatitudes. From general literature here and there has been selected "The Landing of the Pilgrims," "Old Ironsides," "The Village Blacksmith," "Abou Ben Adhem," and many others. These selections are arranged by grade from the sixth to the eighth for each year. "Teach the boys and the girls not the course of study nor text books. Make good citizens of our boys and girls. This is our work," says Superintendent Churchill in his advice to teachers in the course of study.

United Press Service
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—Reports are growing stronger that Drew Caminetti, son of Immigration Inspector, warned by the verdict of guilty returned against Diggs in the trial under the Mann white slave act, will plead guilty when his case is called Tuesday. Prosecutor Roche said today that counts, those dealing with inducement and persuasion, may be dropped, and Caminetti tried for a straight infraction of the Mann act.

CHANGE BEATING TO PRISON TERM

FINDING THAT WHIPPING POST LAW WAS REPEALED, JUSTICE GOWAN CHANGES PUNISHMENT OF FEW

Instead of being administered fifteen lashes from a whip in the hands of Sheriff Low, William Few, who on Thursday pleaded guilty to beating his wife, will serve twenty-five days in jail. The change was made this morning. Looking over the late session laws Justice Gowan discovered that the whipping law had been repealed. In case it had not been rendered obsolete, the Few affair promised to become animated, as Sheriff Low refused to wield the blacksnake on a man.

SURVIVORS TELL HORRIBLE TALES

THIRTY-FOUR PASSENGERS WENT DOWN WITH WRECKED STRAMHEIP

United Press Service
SEATTLE, Aug. 22.—Survivors from the wrecked steamer "State of California" reached here today on the steamer Jefferson. They say thirty-four were drowned. Not a single man was able to describe the wreck, which came with such fearful and terrific suddenness. The only thing they knew was that there was a crash, the decks immediately blew up from the air pressure, and all found themselves struggling for life in the sea. Housekeeping rooms, near bridge.

MILLER'S VISIT ATTRACTS MANY

INDIAN SERVICE, RECLAMATION SERVICE, MARSH LAND OWNERS, HOPEFULLY PEOPLE AND OTHERS HERE

Some idea of the importance of the department of the interior is given Klamath Falls people by the number here to hear Assistant Secretary Miller of that department, and to discuss pertinent matters with him. The Klamath reclamation project is one of the big matters he will take up, and there are water users from all parts of the project here. All of the directors of the Klamath Water Users Association are here, and a majority of the attaches of the reclamation service assembled at the court house.

To find out what can be expected from the government in the matter of reclaiming the marsh lands around Lower Klamath Lake, a number of marsh land owners have been discussing this question with Miller.

Matters pertaining to Indian affairs are being taken up with the department head by Indian Agent Edson Watson and Indian Forest Supervisor J. M. Bedford, who came in last night from the Klamath Agency. The question of a filling on the Horsey Irrigation District's reservoir site is another that Miller will take up. Jake Ruck, one of the directors of the district, is here from Dairy, and he and Attorney Ferguson will attend to this matter. In addition, it is believed that Miller will be consulted with regarding improvements and other matters concerning Crater Lake.

Lyman F. Grant of Columbia Falls has been appointed by the state of Maine custodian of a large cow moose which followed him home from the woods last June.

In the hope of introducing it into the United States, an expert from the department of agriculture has been sent to Manchuria to get specimens of a peach that weighs a pound.

A human skull displayed in a shop window in a street close to the Edinburgh infirmary bears in rather grim humor the legend, "Second-hand, owner having no further use."

More than 40,000 New York school children are annually referred by the school authorities to physicians for medical treatment.

MAY PROVE FATAL

When WBS Klamath Falls People Learn the Importance of It?
Backache is only a simple thing at first; but if you find 'tin from the kidneys; That serious kidney troubles may follow; That dropsy or Bright's disease may be the fatal end; You will be glad to know the following experience.
'Tis the honest statement of a Murphy resident.
John McCallister, Murphy, Ore., says: "For about a year I was afflicted with kidney complaint. My back was very painful, particularly when I stopped, and ached so severely that I could not sleep well. Work of any kind tired me, and I was languid and nervous. The kidney troubles passed too frequently at night, and I no longer had any sleep. Some time ago I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me prompt relief."

League Umpire Under Charges

San Johnson, president of the American League, must decide if Bill O'Loughlin, one of the umpires, called Pitcher Roy Mitchell of the St. Louis Browns, a "yellow cur," and if so is that the proper language for an umpire to use toward a ball player. Mitchell, who was pitching for the Browns, walked to the plate to bat in a game which O'Loughlin umpired. "You missed two strikes on Malen," said the pitcher. "You ought to keep your eyes open." "Then," said George Stovall, manager of the team, who says he was also at the plate, "the umpire took off his mask and answered: 'I missed them on purpose just to get a chance to chase you from the game, you yellow cur. You are a counterfeiter.'" O'Loughlin denied he used the words. Other Brown players say he did.

Lake County Rabbits Are to Be Inoculated

LAKEVIEW, Aug. 22.—A. L. Thornton has received a culture of bacillus from the Oregon Agricultural College to be used in inoculation of rabbits in this county.

While only a small amount of the culture was sent, it is sufficient to make several tests to determine whether or not the experiment will prove successful, and in that event, more can be secured from the college.

It is Mr. Thornton's idea to catch a few of the pests and keep them in captivity to watch the effects of the bacillus, and thus ascertain whether it will justify to make inoculations over the county in general.

In order to make a practical test, ranchmen on the West Side will meet at the Arthur ranch to participate in a rabbit drive, for the purpose of catching rabbits for the experimental work. These will be inoculated, and each farmer will take several home with him.

A part of those taken by each rancher will be liberated where the rabbits are abundant, and the others will be held, in order to allow a study of the effects and the virulence of the disease.

The culture was donated by the Agricultural College as a test to determine the practicability of eradicating the rabbit pest by means of disease.

COURT HOUSE WORK IS LIVELY

TASK OF SETTING UP THE STONE IS COMMENCED—MANUFACTURE OF ARTIFICIAL STONE IS INTERESTING

Work on the new court house is progressing rapidly, this week marking the beginning of the work of stone setting. Harry E. Anglin, the superintendent in charge of the work, has a crew of about twenty men putting up stone, and will increase this number to about fifty just as soon as enough stone is "cured" to keep that number busy.

This work is being done under the supervision of M. J. McDonough. Inside the sheds where the artificial stone is made is a floor space of 85,000 square feet, literally covered with stones of various size, shape and dimension. "Billy" F. Schumann, who with L. M. Schofield, is the custodian of the secret process by which these stones are made, is in charge of the works.

He maps out the different designs and shapes, turns the drawings over to Atwood and Stone, the cabinet makers, and they make "shapes" or "molds," in which the stones are cast. The molds are filled with the secret preparation, and "tamped" by a machine, the only one of its kind in existence.

The molds, containing the green stone, are then taken to the "drying floor," and turned over to the floor foreman, William F. Scheuer, whose duty it is to supervise the ticklish work of "pulling the molds." This consists of getting the molds off the stone without breaking corners or in any way disturbing the smooth surface of the stone.

Utmost care must be taken in this work, for the damp condition of an "uncured" stone makes it a delicate thing to handle. The "banjo work," frills and decorative stones are cast in an entirely different manner. For this class of stone Mr. Chovin, an art modeler, makes clay models and plaster casts. These are finished in gelatine and the stone compound poured in.

Mr. Chovin has already made some beautiful cornice pieces, column tops, etc. Mr. Scheuer, who has been with the company since its organization, says the quality of the stone here is the best yet produced.

Just as soon as he can get his plans mapped out far enough ahead, Mr. Conzelmann will add a night force to turning out stone, and then, he claims, it will not take a great while to make the 4,000 pieces to be used in the new court house.
