To Test New Wheat
Agent C. W. Class of the N.-C.-O. announces that he has received a car load of Turkey Red seed wheat, which was ordered by the farmers of this section for fall sowing. The grain is now ready for delivery to those ordering. The variety has the appearance of very choice wheat, and with proper farming will doubtless greatly increase the yields over the seed that has been so long used in this valley.—Lakeview Herald.

Everybody's Doin' It
"Let 'er buck" was the slogan of the Pendleton Round-Up. "See 'em buck" was the watchword at the Malheur county fair in Ontario last week. "Join the stampede" is the counter-slogan at the Inter-Mountain fair in Boise this week, and "See 'em scratch 'em" will be the cry at the Canyon county fair in Caldwell next week. Wild West sports seem to be a fad that is just now in its heyday.—Ontario Democrat.

All the Time
In praise of one of Oregon's favorite attractions, the Banks Herald says: "The asters in many of the residence yards about town are very pretty; their bright, cheerful colors at this particular season of the year lend a cheerfulness to every home yard."

Those Rock Throwers
The Hermiston Herald observes that most all small towns—and large ones, too, for that matter—have a number of boys just at the age to think it smart to throw rocks through windows of empty houses, and is sorry to know that Hermiston is not entirely free from this class of boys.

Every Street in Klamath Falls

Has Its Share of the Proof That Kidney Sufferers Seek

Backache? Kidneys weak? Distressed with urinary ills? Want a reliable kidney remedy? Don't have to look far. Use what Klamath Falls people recommend. Every street in Klamath Falls has its cases.

Here's one Klamath Falls man's experience.

Let N. Marchand of Warden ave., tell it.
Says Mr. Marchand: "About two years ago I first noticed symptoms of kidney trouble. My back pained me intensely, and I was obliged to arise many times at night, owing to too frequent passages of the kidney secretions. Often my back was so weak that I had to quit work. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally brought to my attention, and I began using them. They restored my kidneys to a normal condition and removed the pains in my back. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for my cure, and highly recommend them to other kidney sufferers."

RELIGION PLAYS THE LEADING ROLE IN A RUSSIAN TRIAL

Other Nations Come to Aid of Jew Who Is Charged With Killing Christian Boy and Draining Blood. Hebrew Hatred Rampant in Russia as Result

BY ED. L. KEEN
(London Correspondent of the United Press)

LONDON, Oct. 3.—When the case of Mordel Bellis, Jew, is called in the district court at Kieff on October 8 the Russian government will in effect place itself on trial before the world. It will be compelled to prove its "blood accusation" or stand convicted of the most heinous conspiracy attempted by a nation against the Jewish race since the days of the Pharisees.

The charge is that Bellis, either with the connivance or with the actual co-operation of a band of Jews, slew a Christian boy and drained his blood for use in making passover bread. For two years and a half the government has been working on this so-called "ritual murder" case, which, as soon as the crime was discovered, was seized upon by the Black Hundred and other reactionary Russian organizations as the basis for a fierce campaign of persecution of the Jews throughout Russia.

"Find the Jew," was the cry that went up among the strongly anti-Semitic population of Kieff on the morning of April 1, 1911, when the body of twelve-year-old Andrei Yushinsky, bearing forty-seven stab wounds apparently made by an awl or chisel, was discovered in an abandoned brick-kiln in a yard on the outskirts of the city.

Bellis was the foreman of the brick yard. Bellis was also a Jew. He was arrested. Despite the reports of various detectives that they could find no substantial evidence that it was a "ritual murder," or Bellis the murderer, he was indicted.

M. Krassovsky, chief of the detective department of Kieff, was peremptorily dismissed "for ignoring the lines of search pointed out to him by the Crown prosecutor"—which was to "find the Jew."

Mitchouk, who succeeded, and two of his assistants were not only dismissed from office, but were tried and convicted of "manufacturing false evidence" favorable to the Jews and against a band of thieves to whom they believed they had traced the crime.

The three detectives were sentenced to a year's hard labor each.

Bellis was, and is, really a minor factor in the case. The authorities have from the first devoted their energies principally to the attempt to prove that "ritual murder" is a recognized institution of the Jewish faith.

When the Kieff detectives were on trial, evidence was given showing that Prosecutor Brandorf refused to listen to any other theory than that of ritual murder and repeatedly ordered the officers to drop all other clues.

In order to establish the theory that the Jews slay Christian children and drain their blood, distributing it from synagogue to synagogue, for the purpose of mixing it with the passover bread and that this "rite" is prescribed by the Talmud—the Jewish Bible—M. Fenenko, the examining magistrate, interrogated the Archimandrite Ambrosius, vicar of the Greek monastery at Kieff, who claimed that the "rite" has been described to him by two monks who were formerly of the Jewish faith.

"The wounds must be of a certain fixed number, about forty-five," declared Ambrosius, "and they must be inflicted upon certain parts of the body. A Jew is not bound to observe any rites or forms if he has to procure the blood under difficult conditions; but if there is no danger the blood is shed in conformity with the prescribed ritual, which includes the reading of certain prayers by a Rabbi, the prayers to be concluded while the victim is still alive and the blood is oozing from his body."

The responsibility of the central government at St. Petersburg for the anti-Jewish activities of the local Kieff authorities is unquestioned. The public prosecutors, Brandorf and Chaplinsky, have not taken a single step of importance throughout their entire conduct of the case without consulting M. Stehlovitoff, the Minister of Justice, and each has made numerous trips to the capitol for personal conference with him.

When the "ritual murder" charge was first brought forward and emphatic protest was filed with the government by leading members of the Duma and other public men of Russia—not members of the Jewish race. From there the agitation spread throughout Europe. In Austria, Germany and France the case was taken up by medico-legal experts who emphatically condemned the "blood accusation" as not only baseless but ridiculous.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Credits amounting to $2,720,000 for the development of France's military air service will be demanded of the chamber of deputies when the fall session begins next month. Of this sum $1,500,000 will be spent during 1914.

WANT AEROPLANES FOR FRENCH ARMY

VAST SUM WILL BE DEMANDED BY WAR DEPARTMENT FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF NEW BRANCH

United Press Service
PARIS, Oct. 3.—Credits amounting to $2,720,000 for the development of France's military air service will be demanded of the chamber of deputies when the fall session begins next month. Of this sum $1,500,000 will be spent during 1914.

Recent developments in the art of flying demonstrating that aviators are comparatively safe in a veritable cyclone have encouraged the French war office in its old belief that aeroplanes are better than the unwieldy dirigibles, such as the Germans use, and it is whispered in political circles that not only will the demanded credits pass the house, but that sums additional may be given.

Hetch Hetchy Measure Is Thought Certain

United Press Service
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 3.—Opposition to San Francisco's Hetch Hetchy water supply bill in the senate has been rendered insignificant by the unanimous favorable report from the public lands committee.

The measure will probably be passed and signed by President Wilson within the next thirty days. It may slip through the upper house within a week, although Senator Smoot has given notice that he will make a protest against it.

At the final committee hearing Herbert Parsons of New York and Robert Underwood Johnson, former editor of the Century magazine, were the chief speakers against the bill. Engineer John R. Freeman, Representative Kent, Church and Baker, and Supervisor Vogelsang of San Francisco answered them.

Against Johnson, author of a pamphlet attacking the city's plan, the batteries of Freeman's scientific statements and Kent's humor and appeal were turned with evident effect.

Freeman showed that Editor Johnson had repeated a series of false statements regarding the army engineers' report on the Hetch Hetchy, while Kent questioned Johnson's claim to a knowledge of just what the Almighty created the valley for. "I doubt his close intimacy with the Creator's plans," said the congressman. "I think the useful things—the water power especially—that valley were created to be used, and the things of beauty to be admired. And the things to be saved for their beauty were to be such as were not more beautiful in service than merely as scenery."

"If it would lighten the load of humanity, I, for one, would gladly see Niagara stopped."

Senator Pittman of Nevada, who made the motion to report the house bill without amendment, and Senator Chamberlain, former chairman of the committee, were heartily with the city's contention throughout.

Prince Joseph Rospigliosi, who died Monday at Stresa, did not marry in a religious ceremony Mrs. F. H. Parkhurst of Bangor, Me. (formerly Miss Marie Jennings Reid of New Orleans). This statement is made by his brother, Prince Camillo Rospigliosi, ex-commander of the Papal Guards, who was at Prince Joseph's bedside till his death.

Prince Camillo issued an emphatic denial of the published reports, saying that apart from other considerations, such a marriage was impossible, as the annulment of Mrs. Parkhurst's marriage to Colonel Parkhurst had never been admitted by the church.
