Polytech Crowded

The Polytechnic school is growing steadily, and is increasing in pupils past any expectations this year. The bookkeeping class has grown so that it has been necessary to throw two rooms together to accommodate them. The typewriter room is also badly crowded, and the management will enlarge it in a short time. It is a matter of much gratification to all that the school is pushing to the front so rapidly this year.—Ashland Tidings.

Good Barley Crops

As a demonstration of what can be done in this valley in grain production is the crop which was threshed last week on the John W. Thompson ranch a few miles west of Lakeview. From a thirty-acre field, three O. V. L. tracts, 1,204 bushels of barley were secured. The land was not fenced rabbit proof, and the pests destroyed enough of the grain to figure it down to a conservative yield of a fraction over forty-five bushels per acre. Twenty acres of this land was cleared and farmed for the first time last year, while the remaining tract was cleared this season.—Lake County Examiner.

A Concrete Stable

As soon as the debris of the Union feed and livery stable fire are taken away the construction of what will be one of the largest and best equipped feed and livery stables in Southern Oregon will begin. The building will be 144 feet long by 100 feet wide, costing $10,000. It will be concrete and of fire-proof construction.—Medford Mail-Tribune.

School House Fight Costly

According to the News, the citizens of Blawell are in an unfortunate muddle over the selection of a site for their new school building. Bonds in the sum of $10,000 were voted some months ago, and interest has been accumulating at the rate of $50 per month, yet even the site has not been chosen. We understand the public is divided over the question of a new school site, besides the contentions of the property owners.—Altura Plaindealer.

TOBACCO'S USE TO GO BEFORE SUPREME COURT OF ILLINOIS

United Press Service
ZION CITY, Ill., Oct. 7.—Dowdites and anti-Dowdites in this city, founded by the prophet, John Alexander Dowie, are primed for the battle to be fought before the state supreme court at Springfield this month by which Overseer Voliva hopes to purge Zion City of the vapors of nicotine.

Voliva will seek to oust the F. H. Cook electrical company and its tobacco smoking employes from Zion City on the ground that they violated their contract with the Dowdites by failing to employ the number of men specified in their contract, and by beginning operations twelve months after the specified date. This will be the technical objection raised by Voliva to the presence of the company on Zion City land. The real motive behind the fight is the fact that the electrical workers employed by the Cook company have persistently defied the Dowdite authorities in the enforcement of the ordinance forbidding tobacco smoking in Zion City.

For fifteen months the elders of Zion City have sought in vain to convert the "heathen" electrical workers. They erected a little platform across the street from the plant and held two religious meetings daily, regardless of weather conditions. Street parades were additional features, the Dowdites descending upon the plant by hundreds, and several riots occurred. Two of the elders were beaten and lay at the point of death for several weeks, but the daily meetings continued. The official press agent for Overseer Voliva paints the following picture of the daily meetings:

"There is a humorous and a pathetic side to the whole affair. Humorous when one sees the persistence of a handful of men and women against a hundred and more workers, and pathetic when one hears the prayers of the old people on the verge of the grave as they stand there with up-turned faces, crying to the Almighty to drive the wicked men from their midst, and to restore to them the building which was part of the city which they came from all parts of the world to build. More than once has the cry gone up, 'How long, Oh God, how long' and day after day they trudge down to their place of meeting across the street from the factory, like the Jews at the Wailing Wall at Jerusalem, and the sight would wring the heart of an ordinary mortal."

Dictaphone evidence promises to play an important part in the trial, if the court is inclined to let down the bars and permit the whole row to be aired. The Cook people rigged up a giant dictaphone, with a huge funnel and placed it in such a manner that the horn collected the prayers and comments of the Zion elders preaching across the street. These were transmitted by electric wires to a stenographer employed by the Cook company.

The Cook company stenographer caught the word "stink-pot" addressed to a single worker in front of the factory several weeks ago. The company promptly obtained an injunction. The court held that the Dowie elders might address the whole of the tobacco users as stink-pots, but that it could not single out the Cook employes and address them by that name, if they hoped to preserve the peace.

Tells of Being Kicked Out of Bed by Lincoln

United Press Service
INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 7.—Kicked out of bed by Abraham Lincoln, a "distinction" which Dr. B. C. Richardson of this city enjoys, has not interfered with his health or his disposition. He is 90 years old today and says he will live to be a hundred.

How to live to be 100 years old is Dr. Richardson's hobby. Here is how he says he is going to do it:

"Eat much less than ignorant appetite calls for.

"Chew what little you do eat with extreme care.

"Take a cold plunge every morning.

"Work every day, whether you feel like it or not.

"Keep your mind clean as well as your body.

"Leave stimulants alone.

"Take regular mental and bodily recreation."

Besides his fight to vanquish old age—Dr. Richardson looks like a robust man of 60—his pet hobby is Lincoln, and the story of how Lincoln kicked him out of bed is his pet story. A remarkable diary covering eighty-five years, and written from memory a few years ago, relates many interesting incidents of his friendship with the martyred president.

Dr. Richardson met Lincoln at Charleston when the doctor was engaged in dentistry in the early '30s.

"Mr. Lincoln came to my house," writes Dr. Richardson, "our acquaintance soon became close and friendly. Mr. Lincoln made Charleston his headquarters during important court sessions. When the city was very crowded, Mr. Lincoln and I bunked together to accommodate our landlady."

"On one such occasion, Mr. Lincoln took too much of extra strong corned beef and fried-sausage cakes and other rambunctious dainties with inclination toward nocturnal strolling. He planted his feet in a square in the middle of my back and knocking me out of the four posts to the center of the dingy bedroom. Not to be outdone, I tipped down stairs, drew a bucketful of water, and poured the water square in the middle of Lincoln's back. He slammed the door in my face and let me sleep on the rug just outside the door."

RESTAURATEURS HELP D. CUPID

INCREASE IN THE PRICE OF EATS CAUSE BEND'S SINGLE MEN TO THINK OF THE BLESSED STATE OF MATRIMONY

BEND, Oct. 7.—No more will the two-bit meal, that welcome economy of the hungry bachelor, be found in Bend. At least, the restaurateurs have served notice on their patrons to the effect that hereafter a quarter will be apportioned in payment for a meal, and that 25 cents will be the gastronomic minimum.

When, it is rumored that this added burden to the high cost of living, or the cost of high living, will drive still more bachelors to matrimony. For several have figured it out that it will be cheaper to enjoy love in a cottage and pay the grocers' and butchers' bills, and perhaps their rent, than to continue in their single blessedness at 25 cents a feed.
