

BENEDICT TREATED AWFUL BY FRIENDS

ST. JOHN'S BACHELORS AMUSE THE ENTIRE TOWN WHILE MAKING CHARLTON CURRIE GLAD OF WEDDING

The following from the St. Johns paper gives an episode of the Currie-Bailey wedding that was not contained in the announcements sent to friends here:

"That the bachelor boys are fertile in imagination and resourceful in purpose was ably demonstrated last Friday night, when C. S. Currie paid the penalty for renouncing bachelorhood and attaching himself to the honor role of bachelors. When the bachelors finally began to realize that Currie had slipped one over on them by getting married without previous intimation of his intentions, the thinking caps of the boys began to work overtime. To conceive something entirely different than what had been inflicted upon defective members in the past was no easy task, but not beyond the powers of conception of the bachelors.

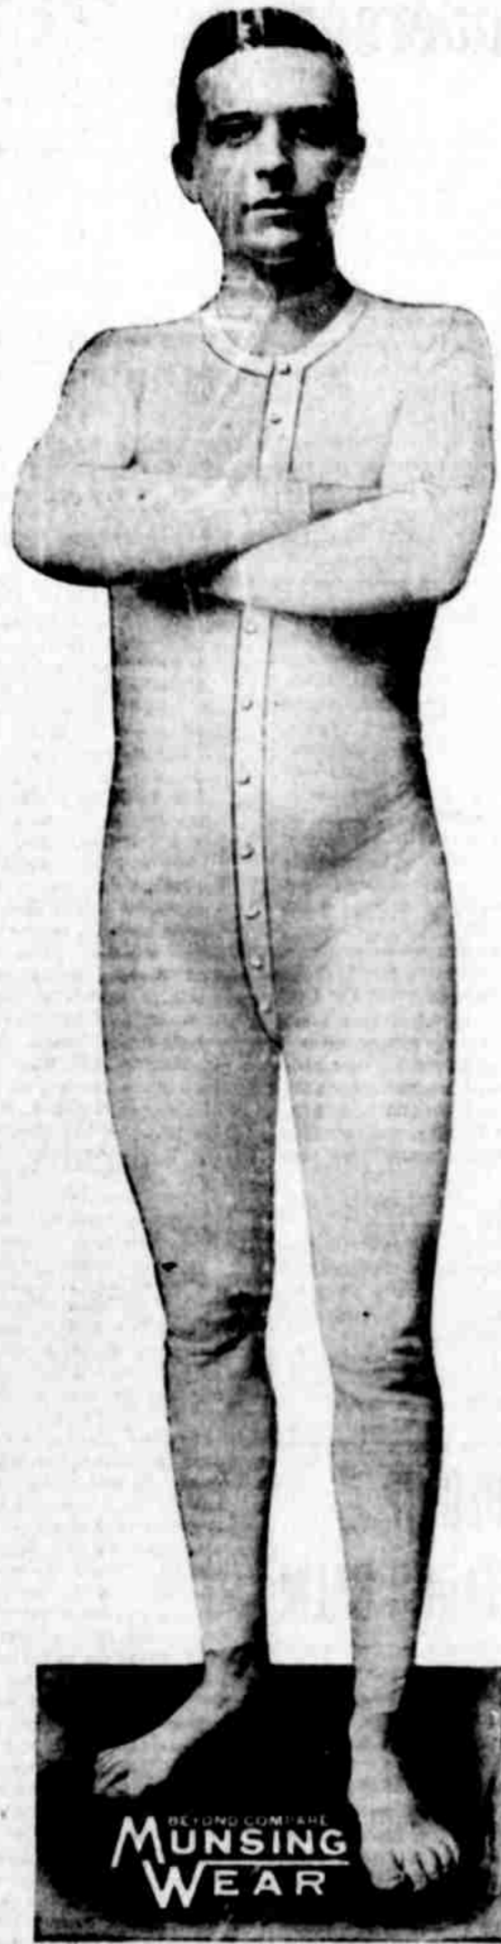

In some manner they secured the person of Mr. Currie Friday evening, and when he was properly decorated for his advent upon the streets, his grotesque appearance created great bursts of laughter on the part of many onlookers, who had gained a hint that some stunt was going to be pulled off by the bachelors that evening. To faithfully describe the thing, for it far more resembled a thing than a man, would be utterly impossible, and only a camera could come anywhere near a faithful portrayal. A black-faced chicken it resembled more than anything else 'the Wild Man from Borneo,' fresh from the jungles of the antipodes. From the nape of his neck to the soles of his feet he was completely covered with a thick plaster of feathers, and his face and neck were tinted the blackest hue imaginable.

Headed by the megaphone man, followed by Ferrin's world-famous trombone orchestra, the victim was forced to proceed through the various streets of the city, followed by a concourse of bachelors and others. Through the moving picture theater while the pictures were in progress of being shown, through the skating rink, right among the skaters, and through the saloons, with Ferrin's music never ceasing, the strange procession moved, and back through the streets again.

A number of banners, such as 'Currie says: I'm Married,' 'Klamath Falls, the Original Garden of Eden,' and others just as unique were carried by members of the club. It was at a late hour when the 'chicken' was released and allowed to go to his 'roost.'

Mr. Currie has been one of the most active members of the Bachelor Club, and never failed to be on hand with original ideas when any previous member had deserted the bachelors, and this fact was not overlooked when he fell before Cupid's arrows. However, he took his 'medicine' in perfect good humor, and was a most willing victim at the obsequies attendant upon his transformation from a bachelor to a benedict."

Union Suits the Particular Man

THE MAN WHO ISN'T SATISFIED WITH ANYTHING BUT THE BEST. THAT'S THE KIND OF MAN WE'RE PLEASING EVERY DAY WITH "MUNSINGWEAR."

It has the greatest demand because the most satisfactory. It is most satisfactory because it fits and covers the form perfectly, is non-irritating, wears longest, launders best, and, always, in the long run, is most economical to buy.

There aren't any "ifs," "buts" or "perhapses" about Munsingwear. When we sell it we sell satisfaction, and at a mighty low price, too. There's no line of merchandise we can recommend with more confidence than Munsingwear.

We'd like to have you men see how the makers of Munsingwear have solved the problem of a properly-closed-crotch garment; they actually have what other makers claim to have—the most satisfactory closed crotch garment made, and by far the most comfortable.

Town Topics

Improve Service.

The telephone company has just completed the extension of the common battery system to Shippington addition, and the subscribers in the upper end of the town now have the same service as in the main portion of the city.

To Harrison Lodge.

Robert Alexander left this morning for Pelican Bay Lodge, where he will spend a few days rusticing.

Resumes South.

W. Paul Johnson of the Klamath Development company took Monday's train for his home in Berkeley, following a visit in this city.

Hughes Will Leave City.

William F. Hughes, who for the past three years has been connected with the Klamath Development company as a civil engineer, will leave in a short time for Vancouver, B. C., where a fine position awaits him. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes have a wide circle of friends here, who will miss them.

FOOTBALL TICKETS SELLING SWIFTLY

BIG CROWD AT SATURDAY'S GAME IS ASSURED BY RAPIDITY WITH WHICH THE PASTORALS ARE TURNING CASH

If there remains one man, woman or child without a ticket to the big football game 'twixt Ashland high and Klamath county high next Saturday, it is not the fault of Manager Noel.

A more aggressive or systematic campaign of ticket selling has never before been carried on in this city, and to Manager Noel and his assistants will undoubtedly go the credit of congregating the largest, noisiest and most enthusiastic delegation of "rooters" ever assembled on a local field.

The Klamath county high school team as a whole is showing up better and better each evening of practice, and it is confidently expected that by Saturday afternoon the team will be in shape to administer a severe drubbing to the visitors from over the hills. While Piel, McClure, Garrett, Fesse and Haines are men of football ability, Coach McCall expects a surprise or two from others in the lineup.

Arrangements are now being perfected for entertaining the visiting team Friday and Saturday evenings. This will likely include a dance given by the student body and a "feed" by the Domestic Science class.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE TAXPAYERS

years to have completed this road to the City Limits.
There is no reason why Second street today should not be nearly as important an artery of travel into and out of Klamath Falls as Sixth street is, except that fact that the energies of those interested have been wasted in other directions. It seems to the County Court at this time that this road should be built and a direct connection made by way of Midland with the great thoroughfare we have mentioned.

Should a bond issue be authorized by the voters of Klamath County, the law provides as a condition that every road upon which money is to be spent shall be definitely mentioned as to termini and location.

Unless this is done no money can be spent thereon under the bond issue and the County Court will do nothing on this road until the people interested or the City of Klamath Falls constructs a first class road along this line to the City Limits.

Much work has already been done in the Midland country. A suitable grade has already been constructed nearly all the way. Excellent material for surfacing has been found upon the land of Mr. Smith near Midland. This can be handled cheaply and is sufficient to cover the highway for its entire distance.

This highway, as already mentioned, from Klamath Falls to the fair grounds, could also be a link in a belt line around Klamath Falls, which the County Court has thought for some time would be a valuable acquisition to the County as well as to the City of Klamath Falls. For instance, we will suggest a branch road leaving this main highway near the fair grounds and crossing the river at the island at the lower end of Lake Ewana and thence climbing the slope of the heights on the west side of Link River and Lake Ewana and continuing thereon until by gentle grade it is permitted to drop, crossing the head of Link River near Shippington. From Shippington it would run on past the Pelican Bay Lumber Company's mill and connect with the new State and International highway now being constructed from Klamath Falls to Algoma, thence to Klamath Falls by that route.

This would make a drive of great scenic beauty and would surround Klamath Falls with one of the most beautiful belt boulevards possessed by any city.

As suggested in this letter, enough money has been wasted during the last few years to pay the entire cost of construction of such a boulevard. The County Court suggests that instead of thinking of the repudiation of warrants, we turn our attention to the building of highways. Then we should be doing something constructive; whereas we are now doing destructive things.—Advertisement.

SOME HARD CASES IN THE DOCKET

ing against negroes was made by the management on the basis of business reasons.
A deserted summer resort near a United States army fort in the vicinity of Portsmouth, Maine, spells a difficult question for the court. Before the fort was established summer hotels flourished. Later the big guns of Uncle Sam's coast defense sent 14-inch shells shrieking over the summer hotels which happened to be directly on the line of target practice. Rather than sacrifice safety to summer resorting on that particular section of the Maine coast, the summer boarders went elsewhere.

Whether hotel owners can recover damages for his defunct business is the question involved, and the court must decide.

A wee two-pound bit of humanity during the Louisiana Purchase exposition at St. Louis in a "baby incubator," but who is now a robust child of nine years, is involved in another question before the court. Mrs. Lottie Bleskley of Topeka, Kans., claims to be the mother. Mr. and Mrs. Barclay of Douglas county, Ill., claim the child as an adopted daughter. Barclay was a guard at the world's fair. He watched the baby grow in its little glass cage, and later took it home. Mrs. Bleskley has fought the claim that her own baby died a few days after it was born through Illinois and Kansas courts. The foster parents declare that she is mistaken.

Enfranchisement of the negro in Oklahoma and Maryland depends upon the court's ruling regarding the validity of the famous "grandfather clause." This clause, which is effective in other Southern states, bars the negro from the voting booths because his grandfather was not a voter.

Whether the court will take into consideration that most negroes' grandfathers were slaves is a question.
