Klamath-Ashland Game Ends With No Scores

ASHLAND LINE UNABLE TO STAND UP UNDER UNSLAUGHTS OF LOCAL BACKFIELD; BIG CROWD AT GAME

REFEREE ELLIOTT PENALIZES LOCAL TEAM AFTER A TOUCHDOWN

After Having Victory Clinched in the Second Half, Klamath County High Receives an Awful Setback by the Decision of Official—Neither Side Suffered to Any Extent From Injuries During the Game's Progress

K. C. H. S., O. Ashland, O.

This was the result of today's game between the rival high schools, which was hard fought throughout. Had it not been for the decision of Referee Earl Elliott, the score would have been in favor of Klamath Falls.

This decision came in the second half, after McClure had carried the ball across the line for a touchdown. Elliott held that this was made on an offside play, and instead of allowing the touchdown, he penalized the Klamath Falls team.

In the first quarter Klamath Falls kicked off to Ashland, but held the Rogue River boys for downs. By dint

QUALITY OF GRAIN ALSO EXCELLENT—OTHER NEWS NOTES GLEANED BY OUR LIVE REPRESENTATIVE

KLAMATH AGENCY, Oct. 25.—The threshing crew expects next week to finish the work of threshing out the grain raised by the Indians this year.

Ralph Tice is hauling his grain to Chiloquin. Tice has the best oats yet, except the samples shown by John Witt. There is no doubt but what they have the finest oats that were raised in the county this year, all of which go to prove what Modoc Point land will produce—even without irrigation.

Harry Wilson and Edwin Wilson have just finished haying at their place on the Klamath Marsh. They cut a big crop.

Superintendent H. G. Wilson and Edson Watson went to Yainax earlier in the week to attend to government matters.

Ferguson & Sons, who have been pasturing 335 head of Arizona cattle on the Wilson brothers' tract at the marsh, left during the week with the cattle for Prineville. The pasture is excellent, say the cattlemen, who used it all summer.

James Johnson, wife and son left for Portland. They will appear as witnesses in a whiskey case to be tried in the federal district court there.

of hitting the line consistently, the ball was carried down to the twenty yard line by the Klamath county organization. The work of Feese and McClure stood out well during this portion of the game.

A twenty-yard run by Fullback McClure for Klamath Falls sent the ball across the goal line.

It was at this moment that Elliott started the entire assemblage, spectators and all, by saying the touchdown came as the result of an offside play. The official was severely censured by the crowd on the side lines.

Neither side scored in the third quarter, either, but during this period the Klamath county high school players demonstrated the effectiveness of their backfield against the Ashland line. Nearly every time Feese, Boller and McClure hit the line they tore through for gains.

Ashland held Klamath for downs a few times, but as most of the play was in their territory, the visitors resorted to forward passes to get the pigskin out of the danger zone.

In the last period of the game Ashland came close to scoring, following a series of forward passes, which carried the ball almost to striking distance of the goal. At this point the defensive work of the locals offset the advance.

Oregon Plays Idaho U. With a Crippled Team

(Herald Special Service) EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 25.—This afternoon the University of Oregon will meet the University of Idaho on Kincaid field in the first conference football game of the year for Oregon.

This game is of the utmost importance to Oregon, because it will show the strength of Oregon's warriors in comparison with other contenders for the championship of the Northwest.

Idaho has already beaten Washington State college, and this team won from Oregon last year, which indicates that Idaho has a stronger team this year. Oregon had to be contented with a 3-0 victory over Idaho last year, and, consequently, Oregon's position is critical at this time, having played no other conference game.

ABANDON HOPE FINDING MINERS ALIVE IN SHAFT

GHOSTLY SCENES REPORTED BY RESCUE CREWS

Interior Is Scattered With Hands, Feet, Heads and Bodies Horribly Mangled by the Force of the Explosion—Believed That There Are More Than 200 Victims of the Disaster.

United Press Service

DAWSON, N. M., Oct. 25.—There is absolutely no chance of anybody being alive in Mine No. 2 of the Stag Canyon mines, the scene of the recent explosion, say those who are in charge of the rescue work.

This follows the entering of the west workings, where it was hoped would be living men. Only corpses were found.

The interior of the mine was fearfully wrecked by the explosion. Hands, legs, and other parts of human bodies were blown all over the place.

The scenes there are ghastly, say the rescuers. The corpses everywhere, if not mutilated and torn to pieces by the force of the shock, are terribly contorted. They have already commenced to mortify, rendering the task of the rescuers more difficult.

The latest estimate places the dead at 263 men.

Visiting the Sheriff.

J. A. Griffith and wife of Phoenix, Ore., are visiting in the city for a few days, the guests of Sheriff and Mrs. C. C. Low.

W. T. Lee, president of the Oregon-California Auto company, Friday moved into his new home on Fourth street, just off Klamath avenue. This change is very convenient in that it is only half a block from his home to his place of business.

Question—How Long Can It Last?

An Open Letter to Taxpayers by the County Court

Because we have been compelled by law to do so, we have been constructing roads in Klamath County by the issuance of warrants, although we know that the warrants issued for this purpose were in excess of the constitutional limitation and therefore technically illegal. But Klamath County needed roads and needed them badly and this was our only method of procedure. And so we did as every County Court in this County and in every other county in the State had been doing for years—ignored the antiquated provisions of the Constitution and did what was necessary to be done—namely, gave the citizens of this County a system of roads whereby they could get from one part of the County to another and without which the development of this County would have been retarded many years.

But, now that the Legislature has enacted a law permitting counties to bond themselves to 2 per cent of their valuation for the purpose of constructing good roads, we feel that we cannot in justice build any more roads by the warrant route. We believe that more roads and better roads are needed and needed badly in Klamath County. But we do not believe that the present generation should pay for them. The present generation has already done its share—yes, even more than its share. If we want any more roads now we ought to issue bonds to pay for them. And so far as the members of the County Court are concerned, that is the only way in which any more money can be expended on roads during our term of office. While we recognize that the County has benefitted immeasurably from the construction of the roads we have built during the last few years, we are glad that the law has finally opened the door to the people whereby they can construct roads without having to carry the great burden that has been carried by Klamath County taxpayers during the past few years. And so we are the expenditure of our money. And all this will have been done within the short space of four years. We admit that the burden has seemed heavy at times. But these have been hard years. We should have built a courthouse with bond money but there is no way in which a county can do this, although cities may do so, under the laws. And so we were like a farmer starting out on his land. We had to have improvements and we had to go in debt for them. No farmer would hesitate to go into debt for improvements that will enable him to put his farm on a paying basis and to pay off this debt and make more money besides.

And so we did not hesitate to go into debt for improvements that will pay the County for years to come. But we feel that if the people will give us the road bonds they will enable us to complete a fine system of permanent improvements for Klamath County, including a poor farm, courthouse and good roads, and at the same time to leave the County out of debt (except for the road bonds) and with a low tax rate. Could you ask for a better administration than that? Advertisement.

TO FEED GRAIN TO THE PORKERS

MERRILL VALLEY RANCHER SAYS HE CAN REALIZE BETTER MONEY BY THIS METHOD THAN BY SELLING THE GRAIN

H. E. Crane, whose time is divided between this city and his ranch in the Merrill Valley, returned to the city last night after a few weeks spent on the farm. He has just finished threshing his grain crop, and will commence hauling next week.

Only about 1,200 bushels will be sold, the bulk of the crop remaining on the ranch to be fed to hogs. "According to my figures," said Blundy, "I can get more for my grain by feeding it to hogs and selling the pork."

UNITED STATES IS MARKING TIME UNTIL AFTER THE ELECTIONS

Troops Are Pressed Into Service by Huerta to Carry Out His Will in Connection With Tomorrow's Voting—Felix Diaz, Still in Vera Cruz, Says He Will Go to the Capital Tomorrow to Cast His Vote.

UNITED PRESS SERVICE MEXICO CITY, Oct. 25.—Despite Huerta's disavowal of his candidacy for the presidency of this country, his name appears on the official ballot, with Blanquet as vice president, at Jaurés, Guadalajara and other places where the ballots have been received. General Jaurés asserts that all of the federal troops have been commanded to support Huerta.

The other tickets are as follows: National Democrats, Diaz and Requena; Clerical, Gamba and Racon; Liberal, Calero and Magnon; Liberal Republican, Delafuente and Enrique. Federal dispatches tend to confirm the report that the rebels were repulsed at Monterey with a loss of 800 men.

UNITED PRESS SERVICE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25.—On the eve of the Mexican presidential elections, officials believe that none of the hoped for relief is in sight, and that other complications cannot be avoided.

It is expected that Huerta will continue in control, as it seems impossible for any candidate to get a majority.

Until after the election, America is awaiting inactive. Thereafter it is expected that developments will be speedy.

UNITED PRESS SERVICE

HAMPTON ROADS, Oct. 25.—Nine dreadnaughts of the Atlantic fleet, in command of Rear Admiral Badger, steamed off for a cruise in the Mediterranean.

Members of the crews believe they will be summoned by wireless to the Mexican coast.

UNITED PRESS SERVICE

VERA CRUZ, Oct. 25.—Felix Diaz is still here. It is not known just when he will go to Mexico City.

His adherents have been urging him to go to the capital, and he has agreed to do so, though keeping his plans guarded.

"I am a candidate tomorrow," he said. "My friends asked me to run, so I will not withdraw. I will reach Mexico City in time to vote."

RETURN TO THEIR HOMES.

Dave Stone and W. N. Aswood, who have been in charge of the pottery-making department of the Federal artificial stone works, will leave on the evening train for their homes in Oakland. The young men have many friends during their stay in Klamath Falls who will regret their going.

Bishop Receives Last Word of His Victory

D. St. Geo. Bishop, whose battle against the forestry service for possession of 127 acres of land bordering on Upper Klamath Lake, has been before the people of this section for five years, today received positive assurance of his victory. This was in the form of a letter from Congressman Willis C. Hawley, enclosing a notice from the general land office to the effect that the tract
