IS POPE AGAINST EQUAL VOTE?

Correspondent Says He Is Opposed

Pontiff Will Soon Express His Opinion in a Letter

United Press Service

ROME, Oct. 21.—Pope Pius has just been asked by a large number of leading prelates of the Catholic church for a definite expression of the church's attitude on the question of woman's suffrage. High Vatican officials who today discussed the subject with His Holiness stated that the ruling of Pope Pius would unquestionably be against the suffragettes. It is expected that his decision in the matter will take the form of an encyclical letter to prelates in all parts of the world.

Until very recently it was generally supposed that Pope Pius had long ago officially placed the church in opposition to woman's suffrage. It now develops, however, that as a matter of fact he has expressed himself on the subject only once, and this in a perfectly informal and unofficial way.

Three years ago, when His Holiness received a large delegation from the Union of Catholic Italian Women, he expressed the desire that they would confine their efforts entirely to the home and to the church, and not be led into the political movement with which the women of other countries were occupying themselves. This one expression, together with his well known opposition to many phases of "feminism," created the impression that the church was officially opposed to woman suffrage. The prelates who have now asked

His Holiness for a definite utterance have pointed out to him that the lack of this in the past resulted in a great diversity of position taken by some of the most prominent prelates of the church. The late Cardinal Moran of Australia, where woman suffrage is widely enjoyed, was openly in favor of it. Cardinal Bourne of London has recently been forced to speak on the subject, but contented himself with a more or less neutral attitude, merely pointing out that outrage and anarchy cannot be legitimately used to aid the movement.

Cardinal Gibbon of Baltimore has been one of the most outspoken against the fight. The archbishop of San Francisco, however, where women have recently acquired suffrage, has spoken in favor of it. Archbishop Mooney of Nebraska has stated publicly that while personally convinced that woman suffrage is not intended by the Creator for the human race, he could not advocate that as a doctrine, because the church has not yet expressed itself upon the question.

It is this diversity of opinion that has resulted in the present request being made to Pope Pius for an official expression of the church's position. It is probable that this will be forthcoming in a very few weeks, according to high officials at the Vatican today.

Costume Designed by Paris Taylor

When Ann Meredith was cast for the part of Lella Lawford in "The Love Leash," she made up her mind to wear something new, and she got Poiret, the Paris ladies' tailor, who was then in New York, to design a costume for her. He turned out something in the minaret form, which he called diablo. Having been named for the devil, it was, of course, in red. This is what Miss Meredith thinks about clothes:

"When I was in Paris this summer, I learned that the keynote of fashion was quaintness or picturesqueness, and as I find modern clothes unbecoming, being an 'old-fashioned girl,' I was delighted to note that the smart dressed woman of today in Paris was the picturesque one. There is just the least degree of risk one may encounter, for in striving to be picturesque, one oftentimes incurs the danger of losing one's individuality and looking frumpy."

Miss Meredith says that she believes that clothes affect one's feelings. Especially is this so on the stage, where one is anxious to project one's ego to a critical public in its most pleasing form. By this I do not mean to say that one is not able to live above clothes, but they can be a great help or hindrance in characterizing a role. In other words, I believe that clothes quite as much as personal looks and sounds of the voice affect your audience—they attract or repel. It is often difficult, however, to dress a part so that it will help to bring out the important parts of the character, and at the same time suit your public, your manager, and more often your purse.

Slit Skirts Doomed

At the exhibition of styles given under the supervision of the Women's Association of Commerce of Chicago, the designers displayed roomy skirts and easier fitting sack suits. The designers also stated that the slit skirts and other frocks of fashion were destined to go.

Women's Woes

Klamath Falls Women Are Finding Relief at Last

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up" must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Keeping the kidneys well has spared thousands of women much misery. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that is endorsed by people in this locality.

Mrs. H. M. Beckwith, 814 Oak st., Grants Pass, Ore., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills in my old home in Montana, and I have also used them here in Grants Pass. I suffered much from weak kidneys, brought on, I think, by impure drinkin' water. Doan's Kidney Pills have strengthened my kidneys and improved my health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
