

Shasta Valley Seems Assured of Irrigation

YREKA, Oct. 31.—Secretary of Interior Lane is demonstrating his interest in advancing irrigation projects in California. Although he has no more money at command just now for furthering new enterprises, he proposes to have some before many days go by. He has two or three methods in mind for obtaining funds, one of which is authorization of a bond issue if need be, in addition to what already stands authorized on the law books.

When Representative Baker and Chief Engineer Davis of the reclamation service called upon the secretary recently in behalf of the Shasta Valley project, in which the Montague

Chamber of Commerce is interested, he explained the situation very fully. Lane is in sympathy with plans for an examination of the 100,000 acres of arid land there, with a view of getting government water upon it.

Secretary Lane virtually told the citizens of Montague to go ahead and raise their share of the $30,500 or $40,000 necessary for an expert examination of the Shasta Valley. It will take at least two or three months it is supposed to get this fund in shape. Then when the government is in a position to allot some money for an examination, as Secretary Lane did in the Iron Canyon case, there can be expedition with the work.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Tribute to the Printers
Editor Herald:

I see by a news dispatch that the "Ohio Penitentiary News," a paper which has for years been published exclusively by convicts in the Ohio state penitentiary, has had to suspend because there is not a printer in the institution.

The dispatch says there are plenty of bankers, lawyers, doctors, preachers and laborers, but not a single printer. Now I hope that the printer who sets up this letter will not feel too much complimented, because I do not believe they are made from a better clay than the rest of us, but I do think I see in it a proof for what has been my contention right along, that it is our environment which shapes our life's philosophy, and which determines whether or not we manage to stay outside of the penitentiary, and if society was organized in such a way that it would be easier for a person to make a good living honestly than dishonestly, crime would almost entirely vanish in less than half a century.

The printers as a rule have steady jobs, and fairly good pay. For this reason they are, with few exceptions, owners of homes and heads of families. Then the printer is far above the rest of us in intelligence and education, because in his daily work he comes in close contact with the program of the world, as all important news passes through his hands. Because of this, he does not have to make a bore of himself at home by reading the paper when his wife would like to have him compliment her on the cut of her new apron or to hear him say that she is like larger beer—improving with age.

This, I know, is the case with many a poor devil who tries to hold down a long-winded job and keep in the "foremost files of time" by reading the Evening Herald when at home from work.

It is now an admitted fact that when the opportunities to make an honest living are most scarce then crime of all grades flourishes, and I think we will find that this is one of the rules that works both ways. That such is actually the case can be proven with many examples, but will mention only one, with which all of your readers are more or less familiar.

In England years ago the land had all been "hogged" by the lords, the nobles, counts and no accounts, and the rest had to take to the streets and the highways. There was nothing much for them to do, either, so they did the best they could in order to live. But evidently that was not very well, for many of them were caught in the clutches of the law. These "criminals" became so numerous that it became a problem with the government what to do with them, but a clever idea came to them.

Australia had just then been discovered, and thither they sent those convicts—one shipload after another. When they were turned loose on the new continent they saw no "keep off the grass" signs. They had plenty of ground to run over, and could raise their own beef and mutton, so they did not have to steal it. Besides, they could dig gold when shy on cash. In short, there was plenty of chances to make an honest living, and they became honest, respectable people, just like those who had sent them there, only better.

It seems logical, then, that to make good, honest, law-abiding citizens out of all the people—like the printers—is for society to give them all a chance to make a living without unnecessary hardships.

And now, dear reader, can you suggest a plan by which this can be accomplished.

JOHN AUSTAD.

This Year's Grain Crop in Klamath County Is Estimated at One Million, Two Hundred Thousand Bushels

One-third more grain has been produced in Klamath County this season than has ever been produced before. This has been due mainly to the fact that we have in the last twelve months had quite an influx of new farmers. Within the next year there will be a great many more farmers coming into this county. This will mean increased business in the city of Klamath Falls. More business houses will be required to cope with the increase of trade. More workmen will have to be brought in. These workmen will require homes to live in. Property values will increase with the increased business. We have some choice locations which can be bought at a reasonable price on easy terms. Why not buy one of these lots, build on it and assure yourself of from 15 to 20 per cent interest on your investment? This is an opportunity to let your money make money. Why not take it? SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

WE EAT TOO MUCH MEAT, WHICH CLOGS THE KIDNEYS, THEN BACK HURTS AND BLADDER BOTHERS YOU

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush the kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.
