LOST--A Goat, Return to Burns

This is Bud Anderson, who the public prints of your companion announced a few days ago was to meet Frankie Burns, Oakland's much touted lightweight in an exchange of

But they won't mix - it was all a mistake. Marion Malzer, since it up thrust in the San Francisco Bulletin.

Frankie Burns of Oakland has decided that he wants none of the game of Bud Anderson. Consequently the Oregon lightweight who beat Louis Hoes so badly last week will have to be furnished with another opponent if he is to be seen in action before a San Francisco audience. Thanks giving.

That Burns was not particularly anxious to mix with Anderson was only too evident during the three or four days that Jimmy Rohan, who acted for Eddie Gansky, was attempting to bring the two lightweights to an agreement for a Thanksgiving fight.

Burns, who had seen Anderson's picture of Hoes without so much as knowing his hair, quibbled over every point, and at one time became so stubborn that he was accused by Dick Donald, manager of Anderson, of being afraid of his man.

They couldn't get him into the same position with Anderson, so they decided to fight on the ropes. "If he's too good for me, I'll let him jump over the ropes," Burns at the time was holding out.

On 113 pounds. Later Donald, on behalf of Anderson, forced him to compromise on 124 pounds. Then when Donald specified that the weight ing in he at 12 noon for an afternoon fight, Burns balked again.

"They must weigh in at 10 in the morning," declared Frankie.

Followed a day of haggling.

Well, I'll make it 11 o'clock," finally said Burns, "and that's the best I will do."

Rohan rushed around to tell Donald.

"That will be all right," said Donald. "Anderson will agree to weigh in at 11, for the sake of getting the fight."

"The fight is on," Rohan informed Burns on his return.

Frankie almost fell out of his chair.

"There's another thing I forgot to mention," said Frankie. "I must have a bonus of 5 per cent."

Rohan threw up his hands.

Jimmie makes no secret of his belief that Burns has a plain, everyday case of cold feet, and is looking about for another Thanksgiving day attraction. He probably will talk business with Johnnie Coulin and Eddie Campbell, or he may take a long chance and attempt to bring together Willie Ritchie and Bud Anderson. But at six rate the Burns-Anderson match is off, and Bud has gone back to Oregon on business until he is notified by Manager Dick Donald that he has been signed to box and that his presence is desired in San Francisco.

Analphabetism in Italy.

ROME, Nov. 7.—Announcement was made today that during the past two years $160,000 has been spent in the government's effort to wipe out analphabetism. Through the ministry of education the government declares that during the coming year primary instruction will be given to every inhabitant of Italy who at the present time is unable to read and write.

The largest tree in the United States is said to be the "Mother of the Forest," a giant redwood in the Calaveras big tree grove in California. It is supposed to contain 140,000 board feet of lumber. There are, however, many claimants for the honor of being the "largest tree" and the "oldest tree," and these claims, according to foresters, can not always be verified.

To secure a merit badge in forestry, boy scouts are required, among other things, to identify twenty-five kinds of trees.

What the Tariff Will Do for Us
A Careful Study of the New Measure by an Expert

By BOND P. GEDDES
(Staff Correspondent of the United Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Up a price, which it probably will be, not higher, under the new tariff law, goes the cost of high living. It's going to cost more—and a lot more at that—to keep up the reputation of being a "spender." From "boots" to bank balances, the new law hits the pocketbooks of the gidy, gay, gadabouts. Spense, it is declared, will cost as much again or more, while the income tax strikes the bank balances and the better-than-the-average incomes.

"Joy riding" may be some slight bit cheaper for the man who prefers foreign built cars. But there are mighty few spots in the new law which offer solace and cheer for the chasers of the bright lights.

For the man who likes his "licker," the new law promises no financial relief at the bar. It is confidently believed that the bars where you can now get 'em two for a quarter will sell 'em at fifteen cents straight. The new law retains, and on many items, increases, the duties. The former rate of $2.60 a gallon on brandy, whiskey, absinthe, cordials and liquor is retained. So is the former duty of eighty cents a quart on champagne.

So also is the old "indirect" tax of forty-five cents a gallon on imported beers, ale, porter and stout. On still wines the import tax, which the consumer will have to pay, is slightly increased in some instances. About the only thing that sounds like an intoxicant and which doesn't carry the same, or higher tax is "bibulous paper," and that is not a thirst quencher, but a stereotyping commodity. The Democrats did decrease the duty on sponges, though, from twenty to fifteen per cent. No, it's not that kind of a sponge.

But the friends of the "bar-keep" may have to economize in keeping the little china dish at the end of the mahogany filled with the "breath destroyers," for cloves will cost two cents a pound, and cinnamon chips one cent a pound more, if the new import tax is tacked on to the retail price.

There's no chance for the thirsty man who doesn't have to have red-eye or kindred strong's. By drinking cider it might be possible to save as much as one-tenth of a cent on a glass, provided you buy it in gallon lots and drink it at home. But who wants to do his drinking at home? But pity the poor millionaires. In addition to plastering a fat income tax on his purse, the new law, in intent at least, boosts nearly everything on the "high plane of living." Diamonds are up 10 per cent. Jewelry is up 5 per cent. Silks are up considerably, and so it goes.

The "jolly joy riders" have one consolation in the reduction by 15 per cent of the duty on cheap foreign automobiles, which cost less than $2,000. It also provides no tax on gasoline. Some more consolation is that if the "poor millionaire" is a horse fancier he can still import thoroughbreds for his breeding stables without one penny of tariff cost.

But there is this to be said for—or against—the new law. The tariff on chickens has been cut to the limit.

Old papers for starting fires. Ten cents an armful. Come and get a load. W. O. Smith Printing Co.
