

Pianos Sell for Fifty Cents Each at Auction

The following is from the Music Trade:

If any further argument were needed to convince piano merchants and their salesmen of the fallacy of making allowances of $50 or more in exchange for square pianos, the details of the sale of assets of the Hollman Brothers Piano company in St. Louis recently should provide that argument, and prove, incidentally, that the square piano is really a thing of the past.

At the sale in question—an auction sale, it must be remembered—where the principal bidders were piano dealers, twenty-four square pianos, all in good condition so far as square pianos go, were offered for sale.

Two of the instruments brought 25 cents each, two more $1.40 each, and the remaining twenty, as one lot, 55 cents each, an average price for the sale was 55 5-12 cents per instrument.

The dealer and salesman who complain that they must make ridiculous allowances for squares in order to make sales, should require no further proofs to convince the customer of the unreasonableness of his demand for big allowance for a square piano than the record at the Hollman sale.

Former Editor Attacks Tammany

John A. Hennessey, former editor of the New York Press, who left that paper when he found it impossible to get along with the new owner, Frank A. Munsey, has shown his fighting spirit all through the controversy between Charles F. Murphy, boss of Tammany, and Governor William Sulzer. Hennessey was the real backbone of the Sulzer opposition to Tammany. By his advice Sulzer made the fight on Tammany which led to his impeachment and dismissal.

A Careful Study of the New Measure by an Expert

By BOND P. GRIDDER

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 15.—Interesting to know that shotguns, pistols and revolvers also will be cheaper, owing to reduced import tariffs, provided the difference does not all go to the middleman. Import duty on gunpowder is reduced from 1 cent to one-half cent a pound, which is expected to cut into the country's stocks being laid by at the Du Pont powder works, which have long had things about their own way in this country. Fifty-five cents instead of 60 cents should be the price of a box of cartridges, if the middleman does not grab all the result of the reduced import duty on this article.

No Inland City Has Started Out Under More Favorable Conditions as Has Klamath Falls

We have a lumber industry which alone is sufficient to support a city of one hundred thousand. We have enough first class agricultural land to make ten thousand 100-acre farms, much more than is keeping up some of the large cities of the Middle West. We have a fast growing dairying industry which will eventually make Klamath county the largest producer of dairy products in the state. Then we have our railroads, now under construction, which will, when completed, make this city the heart of a vast network running north, south, east and west. Klamath Falls will grow, property values will double before you realize it. Buy now. It means money to you.
