

Poe Valley Meeting to Be Held Tomorrow

Owing to business engagements on the part of members of the board of directors of the Klamath Water Users Association, the meeting with the water users of the Second unit will not be held today. Instead, it will be held tomorrow evening in the Lower Poe Valley school house.

At this time members of the board of directors, Project Manager J. G. Camp of the reclamation service and land owners under the Second unit of the project will meet and arrange the rate for securing water in that unit on a rental basis. This portion of the project was just completed this fall.

Mr. Camp and John Irwin, vice president of the association, leave in the morning to make a short trip of inspection over the Second unit. In this way, they hope to become more familiar with conditions under that unit, in order to be able to take up more intelligently that evening the question of arranging the rates to be charged.

A LIGHTHOUSE TRUST, CHARGE

GEORGIA CONGRESSMAN SAYS ONE COMPANY ENJOYS MONOPOLY ON SUPPLYING BUOYS. INVESTIGATION ORDERED.

United Press Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Sensational charges made recently by Representative Bartlett, of Georgia, that the lighthouse bureau was favoring a certain concern which manufactures buoys, and that the government is being overcharged for acetylene buoys, will be delved into at the hearings begun here today.

Secretary of Commerce Redfield, Assistant Secretary Sweet and Director Stratton of the bureau of standards are conducting the hearing.

Representative Bartlett's charges included a demand for explanation of why so many contracts have been let to a concern with which A. Conover, formerly a deputy commissioner in the lighthouse service, is now connected.

A general investigation of the entire lighthouse service, it was declared today, will be made to aid in rehabilitating the service and bring its business methods up to date.

ITALIAN WOMEN SEEKING BALLOT

United Press Service

ROME, Jan. 7.—Italian suffragists today launched a new movement for the wresting of their right of suffrage from the present parliament. Since the death two years ago of Lady Marescotti, the founder of the movement, and who all but succeeded in attaining the desired end, the movement in Italy has been practically dead.

Now the women have new grounds for hope. During the recent elections the socialists having declared for woman suffrage, the women took an active part in their support. They were instrumental in increasing the socialist block in parliament from twenty-five to thirty.

Premier Ciolitti is dependent on the socialists for his majority in parliament, and in return for this it is necessary for him to concede to the socialists certain legislation which they desire. The women have already charged a committee of the latter with the drawing up of the suffrage bill, which they will have introduced.

Dave Fultz to Fight for Ball Players

Dave Fultz, New York lawyer, former center fielder of the New York Americans and president of the Baseball Players Fraternity, is ready for the meeting of the national commission, at which the demands or requests of the players will be presented. No players, at least none of those who have followed the instructions of the fraternity managers, have signed their contracts for 1914, and they will not do so till after the meeting, where their requests for change of contract are to be presented.

The fraternity committee to appear before the commission is made up of the following players: John P. Henry, Jake Daubert, Ray Collins, John Miller, Edward Reulbach and Fultz.

"It has been erroneously reported that the fraternity will make a fight against the reserve clause," said Fultz. "There is nothing in our petition which in any way affects this clause, with the exception of the eleventh and twelfth requests, which ask that the veteran player, when no longer wanted in the classification in which he has labored for years, be released outright. As these requests are not aimed at the principle of reservation and only slightly affect the operation of this clause, they cannot with justice be characterized as antagonistic to it."

SPRING WEATHER ON RESERVATION

RAIN CARRIED AWAY SNOW, AND ROAD OPEN TO THE SUMMIT—ROBIN'S APPEAR AND THE FISH ARE RUNNING.

(Herald Special Service)

KLAMATH AGENCY, Jan. 7.—Robin redbreast is still with us. Between this and the ideal weather since Sunday, we are thinking the winter is all over.

Harry Wilson returned from the Big Klamath marsh and reports that the snow was three feet on the level when the rain first came. This reduced the depth to two feet, and now it is nearly all gone.

Wilson reports the road between here and the Marsh open, and believes that now the road would be in fine shape on the summit.

The suckers are now running above Chilcoquin by the hundreds. We suppose this spring-like weather fooled them, as they do not usually run until March or April.

There is something peculiar about this run, as they do not run up the river usually until they are ready to spawn, and it is too early for that. The snow at Modoc Point has disappeared entirely, and this is the case all along Williamson river. The mornings there are all warm and nice.

Will Use Parcel Post to Lower Living Cost

United Press Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—High cost of living will have a big fall taken out of it if plans formulated today by Washington women who belong to the Housekeepers' Alliance can be carried through.

Perfection of the plans laid today, say leaders of the alliance, would mean complete elimination of the middleman's profits.

Although even the most sanguine of the leaders do not believe perfection will be reached, they expressed confidence today that a long stride toward material saving in the purchase of such household goods as milk, eggs and truck farm products will result.

The plan is to make as full use of the parcel post as is possible. The chief problem discussed today was the matter of practicable containers for milk and eggs.

The plan is to get into personal touch with farmers throughout Maryland and Virginia and get household goods direct from the producers via the parcel post. Whether the alliance will appoint agents to canvass the farmers or whether the women will canvass by mail was not settled today.

This question will be taken up later. It was decided, however, to begin at once a campaign among Washington housewives to increase membership in the alliance so that goods can be purchased in large enough quantities to mutually benefit the producer and the purchaser. Only by buying in large quantities, it was declared, can the farmers be brought into line and sell at such prices as will mean a real saving for the consumers.
