J. A. Gilmore Is Organizing League

Joseph A. Gilmore, president of the Federal League of Baseball Clubs, has organized baseball—meaning the American and National leagues—more frightened than it has been since the organization of the Ban Johnson circuit. Mr. Gilmore has been running around the country signing star players as managers for different clubs in his league till the older magnates don't know just what will happen next season.

Already he has taken Mordecai Brown, the former great pitcher of the Chicago Cubs of the National League; Joe Tinker, ex-manager of Cincinnati, and Otto Knabe, second baseman of the Philadelphia National League club. So far he has not broken into the American League clubs, and they have had no trouble with him.

At this time the Federal League is in a chaotic state, and it is impossible for Gilmore himself to say in how many cities they will begin the next season. Nevertheless, there have been indications that he has money behind him. Knabe has been guaranteed a better salary in Baltimore than Philadelphia would pay him, and a guaranty company has undertaken to assure Tinker his salary of $12,000 will be paid for three years.

Captain Marianna Gutierrez

A new heroine has come out of the battle of Ojinaga, near Presidio, Tex., certain sensational accounts of which have had some thousands of Mexicans killed. Captain Marianna Gutierrez was a peaceful school teacher at the time the troops evacuated Chihuahua City under General Mercado upon the approach of the forces of General Pancho Villa. With the federal troops in possession of the town she could do nothing. But she was ready for action.

When the soldiers sent by Villa to pursue the federalists arrived she came out in her true colors for the revolutionists. She demanded to be given a command, and the rebel general made her the captain of 100 men she had organized and drilled. Then her troop took part in the fighting.

Geo. Heavilin and J. W. Adkins were business visitors to Klamath Falls Saturday. Mr. Heavilin took out a load of lumber to complete his new cellar and store room.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Matter of Fact Literary Saturday night, the president, Mr. Grant Gay, decided, owing to the small attendance and the refusal of nearly all of the members to take active parts in the program work, that his executive abilities were not conducive to producing a spirit of interest, and were not fully understood and appreciated by the members. Therefore, he postponed the next meeting indefinitely, or until such time as the members care to continue under the proper methods. Many thanks are due to Mr. Gay for the pleasant evenings that have been spent by the people of Plevna at the weekly meetings of the Matter of Fact Literary.

To Give First Offence Men One More Chance

United Press Service

DENVER, Jan. 14.—"Every young man convicted for the first time should be given another chance, except when conviction is for the most serious offenses. That chance need not be through his being turned loose on the community. We should have an adult probation law, enabling men to be put on probation as boys are, in the state reformatory, and given his freedom as soon as his behavior, his intentions, his past and the history of his parentage may warrant."

Judge Charles C. Butler, who today finished his first year on the criminal bench here, gave in these words the gist of his theory of real justice which one year of dealing with criminals of all classes caused him to formulate.

"Under the present system," he continued, "except in the rarest cases where the judge exercises the limits of his discretionary powers, the good, bad and indifferent must be sent to the penitentiary if certain verdicts are rendered. Colorado doubtless has one of the best conducted prisons in the country, but any penitentiary is a breeder of criminals."

"For hardened men who persistently defy the law and for those who are pre-destined from birth to commit crimes, the penitentiary is necessary and no one is a greater believer than I am in the segregation of the real criminal. But my experience on this bench has taught me that a small percent of the men and women who are convicted before this bar are criminals by instinct and desire. That society will ultimately deal with the born criminal, not as a criminal, but as a diseased individual, I have no doubt.

The problem of the hour in Colorado is the obtaining of an adult probation law whereby those who have been convicted of their first offense will be sentenced only tentatively, to be released if it is proved that society will be benefited more by their freedom than by their imprisonment."

Bird Show Is On

United Press Service

DENVER, Jan. 14.—Chicken fanciers from all over the west are represented in the annual show of the Colorado poultry fanciers association which is being held here today. One of the features of the show is a guessing contest—counting chickens before they are hatched. A hen has been set on thirteen eggs and visitors have been invited to predict the number of chicks. The show will close January 17th.

Along the highways of Topsham, Me., where new state roads are being built, wild apple trees outside the old stone walls are being grafted with summer apples. Big trees bear metal signs informing the public that the fruit is for public use, simply requesting care and consideration.
