

Quarantine to Keep Off Texas Fever Tick

The secretary of agriculture has recommended that congress repeal the provision in the law of 1884 establishing the bureau of animal industry which permits the shipment of cattle from the Texas fever region by rail to market for slaughter. This law was passed before the nature of the infection and its transmission by ticks were understood. The effect of the change would be to place Texas fever on the same basis as other communicable diseases and to prohibit the interstate movement of tick infested cattle. Since the eradication of the ticks has been shown to be entirely practicable there is no longer any good reason for allowing the shipment of ticky cattle outside of the quarantined area, especially since this is now attended with danger of re-infecting some of the territory that has been freed of ticks.

The secretary's recommendation to congress was unanimously endorsed by the Southern Cattle Men's Association at its recent convention in Memphis, and also received the approval of the United States Livestock Sanitary Association at its recent Chicago meeting.

Under the proposed change in the law cattle could be shipped interstate from the quarantined area only after they had been dipped or otherwise freed of ticks, but when so shipped they would be free from quarantine restrictions on account of Texas fever, and would not have to be sold for immediate slaughter.

It is believed that this change would be of great advantage in promoting the eradication of the ticks in the South and also in protecting the territory already freed.

MAKE PEOPLE DIG THEIR OWN GRAVES

TERRIBLE TALES OF CRUELTY
ARE BEING SENT OUT OF MACEDONIA, WHERE SERVIAN SOLDIERS RULE

United Press Service

SALONIKA, Jan. 15.—Terrible tales of outrages in Macedonia are being told here by fugitives from Kosovo. In the neighborhood of Prizrend, they declare, a number of villagers were compelled to dig their own graves before being massacred. Near Struga nineteen Albanians were strangled with a telegraph wire, and in several villages the inhabitants were locked in burning houses by the Servians to save the trouble of burial.

Another Ingalls May Be a Kansas Senator

United Press Service

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 15.—Kansas may get a chance to send another Ingalls to the United States senate. Only party loyalty to Senator Bristow prevents Sheffield Ingalls, lieutenant governor, and son of the late United States Senator John J. Ingalls, from announcing himself as a candidate.

Much depends on what ticket Senator Bristow decides to run for reelection. If he decides to run as a progressive, Ingalls will stay out of the race, according to statements of his friends, but if the senior Kansas senator decides to run on the republiclican ticket, Ingalls is expected to announce himself.

Senator Bristow's lining himself up with the republicans against the tariff and currency bills is said to have lost him many friends among the progressives, and the old guard, standpat republicans never did support him.
