

HINSHAW SENDS NO PROMISE OF A DAIRY TRAIN

SAYS SHORT COURSE COVERS THE SAME GROUND

Local People, Though, Have Not Given Up Hope, and Telegrams Have Been Sent to Officials of the Southern Pacific in San Francisco, Asking Them to Assist in Getting the Train Here for the Farmers

Secretary Lewis Wyld received the following letter this morning from General Freight Agent Hinshaw of the Southern Pacific, stationed at Portland:

Referring to your telegram of the 17th, and my reply of the 20th, regarding your request that the farming demonstration train to be operated by this company in conjunction with the Oregon Agricultural College of Corvallis, Ore., visit Klamath Falls:

As explained in my wire we would like very much to comply with your wishes, but after consulting with the college people, and owing to the distance involved and limited time at our disposal, found that we could not very well extend the schedule of the train to Klamath Falls. However, the Oregon Agricultural College informs us that they have arranged to hold a short course at Klamath Falls one week, commencing about March 1st, which will mean practically a duplication of the work of the demonstration train.

This can hardly be called encouraging, but it has not daunted the local people. Petitions asking for the train are still being freely signed, and telegrams have been sent to General Traffic Manager Luce and General Freight Agent Jones at San Francisco, asking them to assist Klamath in its campaign for the train.

WOLGAST TRYING TO "COME BACK"

SIEMENS RECEIVES WARRANTS ON LICENSE FUND, AND COUNTY'S SHARE OF MONEY FROM FOREST SALES

County Treasurer J. W. Siemann has just received two warrants from the state for $1,370.21, to be placed in the county's general fund.

One warrant is for $701.95. This represents Klamath county's pro rata of the automobile license fund for last year, after the expenses of collecting the license fees were deducted.

The second warrant represents Klamath county's share of the 5 per cent of moneys received for government land sales within the state. This warrant is for $668.26.

MORE HUNGARIAN PHEASANTS HERE

STATE GAME WARDEN WRITES LOCAL DEPUTY THAT FORTY-SIX PAIR WILL BE SENT TO KLAMATH

According to a letter just received from State Game Warden William L. Finley by Deputy Game Warden Gary M. Ramsay, forty-six pairs of Hungarian pheasants will be sent here for liberation.

At first, Finley intended to send twenty-four pairs. He has found since that more are available.

The birds will be brought here early in the spring, so they will be thoroughly acclimated by the coming winter. The Hungarian pheasant is a favorite game bird wherever found, and it is believed that they can be successfully introduced here.

HAYWARD'S TALK OF INTEREST TO ALL HEARING IT

CIGARETTE EVILS ARE DWELT UPON BY TRAINER

Lantern Slides of Stockholm Competitions, Hints on Training, Tribute to the Work of Instructor McCall and a Plea to Parents to See That Their Children Take Sufficient Exercise Parts of the Talk.

The assembly room at the high school was packed at 1 o'clock today, when "Bill" Hayward, physical instructor at the University of Oregon, was introduced by Principal W. E. Faught.

Mr. Hayward gave an interesting and instructive talk on athletic training and physical development. He pointed out the weak places in most schools and colleges, in that the physical director usually devoted most of his time and energy toward the developing of a winning football team or a championship track team, neglecting the great number of younger ones who could not possibly make any of the athletic teams, but who, for that very reason, really needed physical training more than the others. Hayward told of the harmful effects of cigarettes and alcohol. He also urged parents to take more pains in seeing after the exercise of their children.

"Bill" said the average man would look after his horse, giving it the proper care and exercise, but would not think it necessary to try any system of exercise for his children.

Mr. Hayward talked interestingly of his trip to Stockholm with the American athletes, and illustrated his talk with a great many stereopticon views. These pictures showed how the athletes kept in training while crossing the ocean, the boat having a regular track built on deck.

In closing, he paid a glowing compliment to Instructor McCall of the Klamath county high school, and congratulated the school in securing the services of an instructor so capable.

Mr. Hayward will be here for a day or so, and extended an invitation to the people to call on him for any desired information in regard to things athletic.

Public Utilities and Real Property

United Press Service

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 23.—"The Valuation of Real Property of Public Service Corporations" was the subject discussed today by Judge Irving G. Vann of Syracuse at the third day's session of the fourth annual New York state tax conference, at the Onondaga hotel. Francis A. Whitney, tax attorney for the Western Union Telegraph company, led the discussion following the principal address. Alfred Ely, prominent attorney of New York, was scheduled to lead the discussion, but a continued illness prevented his attendance here.

Indians Hear Noted Historian

United Press Service

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 22.—Reuben Golde Thwaite, the noted historian, and other prominent educators and chroniclers, today spoke at the second day's session of the annual meeting of the Territorial Pioneer's Association. In the audience were a score of Indians. A number of the older Indians, during pioneer days, helped to make the history of the West and the Northwest.

Negro Mayor of Battersea, England

Battersea, in England, has elected a negro mayor—F. J. Archer. He made a vigorous and popular campaign against a white man who was not very well liked. The question of color was not often mentioned, and it had practically no influence with the voters. The new mayor is said to be a negro of some education and social standing, inasmuch as it is possible for a negro to associate with respectable white persons in England. In Battersea there was perhaps less feeling on account of the man's color than there would have been in the heart of London, where there is acquaintance with the American feeling on this subject.

CUTTER SERVICE HAD BUSY YEAR

THREE HUNDRED, TWENTY SEVEN LIVES, AND PROPERTY WORTH MORE THAN TEN MILLIONS WERE SAVED

United Press Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 23.—Three hundred and twenty seven lives and property amounting to $10,607,710 were saved in storms at sea in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913, by the revenue cutter service, according to the annual report made public today, while the total expenditure for keeping up the service amounted to $2,471,532.

While the saving of life and property were the most important performances of this arm of the service, it was not by any means all that was done.

For instance, a tremendous danger to shipping, in the form of derelicts, an dother obstructions to navigation, was removed, thirty-one of these being destroyed. Derelicts which were recovered and restored to their owners were valued at $18,900.

BILL AT THEATER PLEASURES CROWDS

COWBOY FIDDLERS PROVE VERSATILE ENTERTAINERS, INTRODUCING SOME CLEVER NOVELTIES IN THEIR ACT

An appreciative audience greeted Butler and Lyons, the cowboy fiddlers at the Star theater last night, and applauded every number from "The Arkansas Traveler" to the "Cowboy's Fling." These clever artists introduced several entirely new novelties with their fiddles, and completely captivated the house in a "square dance," in which they furnished the music, "called figures" and did the dancing.

The act is clean and moves rapidly, without halt or hitch, and is easily

FRED DUNBAR IN FULLERTON CLASS

LOCAL STUDENT AT UNIVERSITY OF OREGON IS BUDDING FORTH AS A SPORTING SCRIBE AND FORECASTER

The many friends of Fred B. Dunbar, now in his second year at the University of Oregon, will be pleased to learn that he has just been selected as sporting editor if the Oregon Emerald, the college paper. As athletics play a most important role in university life, sport scribbling is one of the most sought tasks.

Dunbar, prior to going to Eugene, was connected with local newspaper work, and his success caused many friends to vainly try to persuade him to take up journalism rather than law. In the university, his training stood him in good stead, and he has always been a valuable member of the staff.

WOMEN OF WOODCRAFT WRITE TO OFFICIAL, SAYING LAW IS BEING BROKEN

Governor Writes County Judge Worden, Enclosing Complaint From the Wood River Country, and Asking the Judge to Notify Proprietors That Their Place Will Be Closed Unless the Law is Complied With.

The latest spot in Klamath to come to the eyes of Governor Oswald West is Fort Klamath. The governor has received a letter from the Women of Woodcraft there, stating that the saloon being conducted by Ora Engle is not in compliance with the laws of the state.

The letter follows: "There is in our village (Fort Klamath) which is not incorporated, a bar where intoxicating liquors are sold. This bar is supposed to be run in connection with a hotel with accommodations for fifty guests, but the bar and hotel are in buildings standing about three feet apart, and owned and operated by different individuals. "C. E. Hoyt is the proprietor of the hotel, and O. W. Engle has the license for the bar. We would greatly appreciate an investigation of this matter. Respectfully yours,

"VIOLA PAGE, Guardian Neighbor.

"EMMA L. GORDON, Clerk." The matter has been taken up with the county officials by the governor. County Judge Worden this morning received a copy of the petition, and the following letter:

"I am enclosing herewith a copy of a petition received from the Women of Woodcraft of Fort Klamath, Oregon.

"There has been much complaint as to the violation of the liquor laws in the said locality, and those dispensing booze have made themselves particularly obnoxious by the sale of liquor to the Indians.

"The unlawful practices must cease and I would ask that you kindly notify the parties that unless they are running a bona fide hotel, as the law contemplates, and obeying strictly the laws of the state, that this office will close them up, and keep them closed."

Judge Worden returned from a business trip in California only last night, so the letter came as a surprise to him. He stated today that he preferred a little time before giving out anything in connection with the matter.

Sues S. P. for Damages

An Action to Recover $10,000 Is Filed Today

Alleging that an injury he received while in the employ of the Southern Pacific last February, necessitated his undergoing a surgical operation, suit against the railroad for damages was filed today by John W. Hunsaker, youngest son of H. E. Hunsaker. The suit, filed through F. H. Mills, demands $10,000 damages.

According to the complaint, Hunsaker was employed as a teamster by the railroad at its work in Lane county last February, and one of his horses was affected with "sweeney." He alleges that the foreman assigned him another horse to work, and also instructed him to take care of the sick animal.

On February 16th, according to the complaint, the horse became vicious, and trampled and kicked Hunsaker when he went in the stall. The complaint holds that the plaintiff, then 20 years of age, did not know of the danger of treating such a horse, and that the company failed to provide a suitable stall.

As a result of the attack, Hunsaker alleges that he was four weeks in a hospital here. He says the large intestine was badly injured, and resulted in acute appendicitis. For this, he was operated upon in September.

Hawley Has Catechism

Submits Statistics in River Closing Controversy

According to a Washington dispatch in the Portland papers, the following letter has been sent to Secretary Lane by Congressman W. C. Hawley, in the campaign for the reopening of the Williamson and the Sprague rivers to logging operations:

The closing of the Williamson and Sprague rivers in Klamath county, Oregon, is working and will work a hardship on legitimate industry in that section, which needs encouragement in its development, rather than embarrassment. In order to illustrate the nature of the hardship, as well as its extent, I wrote to C. T. Oliver, formerly manager of the Klamath

Chamber of Commerce, submitting a list of questions. He sends me the following summary taken from the first installment of replies:

Question 1.—What cutting and logging contracts are now in existence on each river?

Ans. Graves—There were four cutting and logging contracts in existence on both rivers. All operations ceased when rivers were closed.

Ans. Watson—We have but one cutting and logging contract on Williamson River.

Ans. Algoma Lumber Co.—We will (Continued on page 4)
