COURT APPOINTS AMICI CURIAE IN THE SHAVER CASE

ATTORNEY ARRAIGNED ON ONLY ONE COUNT

Going to a Slight Error, Indictment Charging Him With Keeping Warrants Belonging to Widow Is Returned to Grand Jury for Correction. Drake and Stone Are Ordered to Appear by Henson

Indicted by the Klamath county grand jury Saturday night on a charge of larceny by bailor preferred by the Heuley Investment Co. and on a similar charge preferred by Mrs. A. Daniels, a widow who alleges he is keeping her pension warrants, W. J. Shaver, a local attorney, was arraigned in the circuit court this afternoon.

Shaver was arraigned only on the indictment in the Heuley case, the other being returned back to the grand jury for correction. This alleges that he took $100 in an indirect manner.

To this indictment Shaver "stood mute." The court then ordered the clerk to enter a plea of not guilty, which can later be changed if his attorney's desire is.

Judge Henson then announced the appointment of Attorneys Thomas Drake and Charles F. Stone as amici curiae for the accused lawyer.

Drake sought the withdrawal of himself and Stone, upon the ground that the defendant was an able attorney and that he had stood mute without any consultation with them. He held that the services of neither would be necessary at all.

In reply Judge Henson stated that in making the appointment he wished the two attorneys to appear as "amici curiae." He held that inasmuch as the case was one affecting a member of the Klamath county bar, their efforts were needed, not only for the defendant, but for the court and for the bar association.

The matter will be taken up further tomorrow morning.

The musical program rendered at the Christian Science church Sunday forenoon was one of the best ever given in the city. The entire program was one of excellence in which the solo of Lawrence Mehaffey was exceptionally good.

At the same period, Principal Faught presented liberty bell medals to the students averaging 90 per cent or better, and who had no absent or tardy marks. These liberty bell medals are of bronze with the winner's name on one side and K. C. H. S. on the other.

Those winning their "K" were: Louis McClure, Leon Holler, Sterling

Colonel Goethals, First Governor of the Panama Canal Zone

There was national, almost international, interest in the question of Colonel Goethals, the man who has built the Panama Canal, would quit his work there or refuse to accept the governorship of the Canal Zone to become police commissioner of New York City. Goethals has made such a high reputation in the canal work that many familiar with the operation of the New York police force are surprised he could consider the position at all. Goethals, however, has decided to remain in charge of the Canal Zone, for a year at least. His nomination is now before Congress.

MRS. C. B. BROWNE THE BEST GUESS

WINS THE PRIZE IN THE STILTS BEAN CONTEST. MRS. COSEBOOM ALSO CAME CLOSE TO THE MONEY

The puzzling question of how much money was in the jar of beans on exhibition at the Stilts Drygoods Company during their recent anniversary sale was settled Saturday evening when A. Y. Tindall of the Northwest and Warren L. Duhl of the Evening Herald opened the jar and counted the money. The jar contained $6.45 and was awarded to Mrs. C. B. Browne, wife of "Bun" Browne, junior member of the Browne Bros. painting firm.

Mrs. Browne guessed the jar to contain $6.48, missing the correct amount by three cents. Mrs. Coseboom guessed the same as Mrs. Browne, but failed to date her guess.

Miss Marjorie McClure made the closest guess, but she, too, failed to date her guess, and, as the rules governing the guessing plainly specified that all guesses must be dated, the guesses without dates had to be discarded.

In all 811 guesses were put in the guessing box, ranging in amount from $2.19 to $50.

Here is a live Canadian girl who isn't afraid of one of the most dangerous sports—skiing down Mount Royal at Montreal. Having started high on the hillside, she is coming down at a rate of speed that ought to take her breath away, but she is absolutely sure on her feet. It is a sport unknown to most Americans. Tobogganning and skiing are the most popular sports of Canada in the winter. There are hillside in the United States where Americans might practice them, but so far the sports have not been taken up.

Trainer May Take Charge of Local Trackmen

The following, regarding his recent visit to Southern Oregon, was given the Emerald by Bill Hayward, physical director at the University of Oregon:

"At Klamath Falls and Ashland I found the best spirit towards such a plan. These schools are more or less isolated and they showed considerable interest in the work and are anxious to do something along this line. At Klamath they are more or less hindered from lack of suitable grounds in close proximity to the building, which makes it more difficult for them. However, they have invited me to come down in the spring when their season opens and help them out in getting started and I think I shall go.
