Pretty High School Girl Disappears

All the policemen of New York, the newspapers and much of the population are excited again over the disappearance of a young woman. Florence Lawlor, a high school girl of 17, has gone, leaving no trace behind, and the case is not unlike that of Dorothy Arnold. The young woman walked from her home to go to a photograph gallery to have some pictures taken for her sorority, and at about 5 o'clock in the afternoon she disappeared. Her home was in a suburban part of Brooklyn, where her father kept a drugstore, and was a man of considerable means.

NEW POWDER FOR USE IN WARFARE

GERMAN WOMAN IS THE INVENTOR OF SYSTEM WHEREBY MEN WILL BE MADE PRISONERS, NOT KILLED

United Press Service
BERLIN, Feb. 11.—A narcotic powder designed to revolutionize warfare, has been discovered by a woman named Boehm, who today demonstrated it to the government officials. She alleges that shells charged with the powder when let loose among the enemy, will put them to sleep for several hours, so that they may readily be taken prisoners, without injuring them.

It is reported that the Prussian war office is making tests with the device.

Camp Says New Plan a Saving to the Project

By J. G. CAMP, Project Manager

A question of economy has been decided by the directors of the Water Users Association.

The old Adams canal was a broad, shallow ditch, which could be crossed almost anywhere with a wagon by those whose land it run through. After it was deepened and the banks raised it could not be crossed, and it was right that the government should, acting for the project as a whole, build bridges across it. If the government employes did all the work each bridge would cost $40, and there were fifteen of them.

Desiring to economize, I suggested the following plan: The government would deliver the lumber at Merrill; the settlers were asked to haul this lumber out when they were in town, and during their spare time this winter put in the bridges according to the plans and stakes given by the government. By this plan $18 per bridge, or $270, would be saved.

All agreed to this plan. It is made necessary by regulations that when any individual puts any structure in or on any government ditch, that a license must be signed by the person. As usual in legal documents, there are some conditions that would seem unnecessary, but which, so far, I have not been able to get cut out.

On my assurance that they were all right, all signed up but one person, and willingly did the work. This one person objected for two reasons. First, that the license form made him liable for damages that might be caused by the bridge, and expense of removing it if ordered to do so; second, that it was unjust to ask him to haul the lumber and put in the bridges without pay in order to save cost to the project settlers as a body.

After two conferences on the subject, without coming to any agreement, I suggested that we submit the question to the directors of the Water Users Association. He agreed to this, and they approved my action in this case and the policy back of it. This policy is one of economizing by asking the settlers to help in this manner with work on their own places, when in doing so they are not out any cash, without interfering with their other work.

The work will be done under the supervision of the government men. All material will be furnished by the government as convenient points. This applies to such work as private bridges, fence crossings and tap-boxes or turn-outs that are to be built on a man's own place, and yet are such that it would not be just to require him to be out money for their construction.

As there will be such structures all over the project there will be very little injustice in this plan, and it will save considerable cash outlay that would have to be added to the operation and maintenance costs. In any case, where the project manager and the settler cannot agree as to what work is necessary, or who should do it, the matter will be referred to the directors of the Water Users Association. In all work where it is necessary to hire teams, the policy will be to hire them from neighboring farmers, rather than to hire outsiders. If any settler does not think the policy approved by the directors a good, I wish they would take the matter up with me.
