Says Delivery Causes High Cost of Living

United Press Service
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—The desire for convenience is the cause of the high cost of living, according to National Democratic Committeeman Fred B. Lynch of Minnesota, who quoted a number of instances to prove his contention, while sitting in a Washington hotel lobby the other day.

"The average purchase in a delicatessen store I know of in St. Paul is 21 cents," he declared. "It was found that to deliver this order cost 7 cents. After more investigation along this line a friend of mine, who has been put in charge of the store, cut out his delivery wagons, his telephones, and every other item which could possibly be lopped off, and then he cut his prices. The housewife has to go to the store herself and bring her goods home in a basket, but she pays only 17 cents a pound for porterhouse steak, 15 cents for round steak, and 12 cents a pound for pork and mutton. Think what could be done along the same lines in New York, where it is said the cost of delivering meats and groceries is 37 per cent.

"I have long known that telephones have been largely instrumental in increasing the cost of living. It is time the people should make a study of how to eliminate expenses that are not necessary, when dealing with the problem of how to cut down the cost of living."

Woman Sues Millionaire for $500,000 for Breach of Promise

The ardent South American temperament of Octavia Guinle, believed to be a millionaire representative in New York city of a large exporting firm in Brazil, was the cause of his being haled to court just as he was about to board a steamer for Europe.

Miss Monica T. Borden, a young woman of 23, began suit against him for $500,000 for breach of promise. She had him taken to court, where he was asked to put up bail of $50,000. Not getting it at once he was temporarily restrained.

The sum asked for by the young woman is one of the largest asked in a breach of promise case. But she insisted that since the man was a millionaire he would be able to pay that. He had lavished much money on her. In fact, she said, his income was not less than $300,000 a year, and he would not miss half a million. Guinle was caught the day before the wedding, according to the young woman. She said that all arrangements had been made for a wedding in a church near her home. When she saw her intended last he was packing his goods ready to go to Europe. He showed her a cablegram from his mother, advising him to do nothing till he had consulted with her.

U. S. ARMY MAN ENJOYS ANGLING

First Lieutenant G. F. Bailey of the Second U. S. Cavalry, is sojourning in Klamath Falls, enjoying the fishing here. Bailey's regiment has just been transferred to Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont, and he is away on a leave of absence. He intended to leave here yesterday, but seeing a man going down the street with a sixteen-pound trout, he made arrangements to say longer, when he found that these fish are caught in the city limits.

PHOTOGRAPHER IS BACK FROM TRIP

C. R. Miller, the photographer, returned last night from a three weeks trip to McCloud and Sisson, where he spent most of the time taking winter views. He found eleven feet of snow on the divide, and eighty-two inches of snow on the level at McCloud, the deepest in fifteen years. McCloud was without mail for seven days on account of the heavy snow blocking the railroad.

Nine Out of Ten Sick Hogs Have the Cholera

(Herald Special Service)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—The department of agricultural is in receipt of frequent inquiries concerning methods for distinguishing hog cholera from other swine diseases. The specialists in hog cholera investigations answers these inquiries as follows:

1.—Although at first thought this matter of diagnosis appears to be of prime importance, in reality it is not so important or so difficult as it seems. It is estimated that at least 90 per cent of all deaths of hogs from disease in the United States are caused by hog cholera. Therefore, in the case of any fatal outbreak the chances are about nine to one that the cause is hog cholera. It is true that other infections may and do frequently complicate outbreaks of hog cholera, but in such cases the germ of hog cholera is the primary cause of the disease; and if we can take care of the germ of hog cholera the pig will usually overcome the other infections himself.

2.—The symptoms exhibited by hogs sick of hog cholera are not sufficiently distinct from those produced by other maladies, so that a positive diagnosis can be made only through a careful consideration of a number of other factors in connection with the symptoms. From a practical standpoint the important thing is to recognize hog cholera as soon as possible after its appearance in a herd, in order that anti-hog cholera serum may be applied before the disease progresses too far. Good serum may be depended upon to protect well hogs, and even to cure a large percentage of those in the earliest stages of the disease, but it will not be of much avail when used upon hogs that are already visibly sick.

3.—The following suggestions to farmers are offered as an aid to the early recognition of hog cholera in a herd:
1.—Keep posted concerning the condition and health of hogs on other farms in your neighborhood. Sick hogs on a neighboring farm are a positive menace, for the germs of hog cholera are easily carried on the feet of men or animals.
2.—Look over your herd regularly in order than any sick hogs may be promptly discovered.

3.—If any hogs in the herd are found to be "off feed" or appear in anywise sick, separate them immediately from the remainder of the herd and keep them and the main herd under close observation daily. If there is a tendency for the disease to spread to the herd, the trouble is probably hog cholera. This diagnosis may be confirmed by killing one of the sick animals and examining the organs in the manner described in Farmers' Bulletin 279.

4.—When the first symptoms of sickness are observed, an immediate change of feed sometimes corrects the trouble. This is particularly true of swill-fed hogs.
5.—If there is any tendency for the disease to spread, do not temporize, but immediately treat the herd with serum from the state college or state livestock sanitary board. Prompt administration of the serum is essential to success.

6.—Remember that hog cholera kills millions of hogs where other diseases kill thousands. Dismiss from your mind all thought of such diseases as "lung plague," "infectious pneumonia," "pig typhoid," etc., for these are generally fanciful designations given to hog cholera by uninformed men.
