

Europe's Queens All Able to Earn a Living

United Press Service
LONDON, Feb. 13.—Almost any of the queens of Europe, if they should be deprived of their thrones and fortunes, could earn a comfortable livelihood by means of their own personal talents.

Queen Mary of England is a clever seamstress, and she also sings and paints quite creditably. Queen Victoria Augusta of Germany is skilled in the use of the camera, and produces a special kind of art photo. Queen Wilhelmina of Holland paints miniatures and porcelain. Queen Maude of Norway is a playwright, using the pseudonym of "Graham Irving." She is also a competent bookbinder, dressmaker and painter.

Queen Elizabeth of Belgium possesses a doctor's diploma of the University of Leipzig. Besides, she plays the piano and violin exceedingly well, or her skill as a motorist would easily qualify her for a job as taxicab chauffeuse. "Carmen Sylvia," Queen Elizabeth of Roumania, is a world famous poetess and novelist. Queen Helena of Italy could easily earn $500 a week on the vaudeville stage as an expert swimmer and rifle woman, without disclosing her identity. She is also an archaeologist.

The revivals will be conducted by Evangelist Melvin Putman, who will arrive here this evening from Kansas City, Mo. Mr. Putman is one of the most successful of the evangelists connected with the work of the Christian church. He has conducted meetings in New York, Chicago, Indianapolis, San Francisco and other large cities, and has always been a factor for good and conversions.

Mr. Putman is a splendid singer, in addition to being a forceful, earnest speaker. He will lead his song services, and music will be a part of each night's meeting.

Assisting Mr. Putman in these services will be Miss Emma Egbert, soloist and personal worker.

Another Amendment for the Constitution

United Press Service
PORTLAND, Feb. 13.—With a proposed amendment to the state constitution to be submitted to the people for irrigation and power projects and lend its credit for building and maintaining permanent roads, constructing irrigation and power projects and developing logged-off and unutilized lands of the state, the principal subject of discussion, the Oregon Irrigation Congress met here today in the first of a two days' session, with 300 delegates attending.

Red tape and incompetence on the part of the federal and state officials in the administration of irrigation laws and policies was expected to call forth much comment, as a number of the delegates declare this has been a great factor in retarding the development of the state.

Resolutions recommending the establishment of reliable bureaus of information for the protection of new settlers upon public lands and urging the necessity of procuring reliable data as to soil classification and climatic conditions, and the adjudication of water rights will undoubtedly be introduced.
