OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

—BY MARGARET MAMON

Three little maids at a tango too, slender and swaggy and fair to see; Three little frocks of a dainty hue, Three little heads of hair in the newest blue.

Three little skirts slit up to the knee, Three little bellies are those graces three; Grandma and mother and child are they, But which is which it were hard to say.

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—There may be seven ages of man according to Shakespeare, but according to Fashion there's only one age of woman and that's debutante age. Madame La Mode has donned her gardening gloves, taken her pruning shears in hand and stepped into the garden of femininity. She has patted and pulled and coaxed and resorted to artificial aids until there isn't a hardy perennial, a wall flower, a century plant, or a full blown blossom in the whole place—nothing but buds. It's true many won't bear close inspection, but most of 'em are triumphs of art over nature just the same.

Time was, and not so long ago either, when a woman in her fifties took to tiny black bonnets with strings tied under her chin in demure grandmotherly fashion. Now she still takes to bonnets, but they are of frivolous gold lace wired out over the ears in the cutest Dutch effect, and the strings that tie under her chin are coquettish brides of black velvet or pearls or tulle ties that fasten with a smashing big bow under one pink tipped ear.

With misses of eighteen and twenty aping the snowy locks of age in their white wigs or gray tinged powder, the dowagers, whose hoary tresses are nature's dower, no longer need resort to dye as the first step toward rejuvenation. As white hair is particularly trying however the complexion still retains some of the coloring and texture of youth, the present fashion of tinting the hair blue, purple and cerise to suit your fancy is a great aid to the perpetuation of youth.

Grandmother's best gown is no longer of stiffly brocaded black satin or silk with a touch of old lace about the sleeves and throat. No, indeed, not for the 1914 grandma. Her best frock, which, by the way, is a tango one, is of mauve chiffon over rose with a band of black velvet about her throat and no sleeves at all.

Mother's dress of baby blue tulle is as diaphanous and scant of skirts as daughter's pink chiffon, and if this keeps on, no doubt great-grand-mamma will be ordering a yellow crepe de chine for her next coming out party.

There is much to be said for this fashion of perpetual youth. When a woman's heart is young even though her years number three score and ten there is no need for her to deck herself in the rusty garments of senility. On the other hand, the great danger of the present mode is a tendency to go far to the extreme and nothing is sadder than when she refuses to accept her years gracefully and artistically. If she is wise, however, the young middle aged woman selects her raiment judiciously in tones of soft gray, lavender, purple, golden brown, taupe, sapphire, blue, old rose and creamy white, and remembers that black is for the young woman alone.

Moleskin is a becoming fur for all ages and silver tipped fox as attractive for fifty as fifteen. Let her pay attention to her figure and always be well corseted.

One may easily keep ahead of Father Time in the tripping measures of the trot and tango and a massuse in time saves nine wrinkles.

One of the newest fads is the wearing of pearl dog collars not merely in the evening but for afternoon as well. This is a blessing for the woman whose only betrayal of age is about the throat, nor will she be suspected of wearing it for that reason, since sweet and twenty is also covering up her firm young throat in like manner.

Another good thing for the Indian summer charmer is the present craze for small and close fitting hats, for
