

Notice and items for the Social Department will receive attention if left at The Herald office or telephoned to Main 68 by Friday afternoon or before 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

The next meeting of the 1912 Needlework Club will be held at the residence of Mrs. Wm. Lee, on Walnut street, Friday, March 13, instead of at the home of Mrs. Nate Otterbein, as stated in last week's Society News.

Mrs. Clarence H. Underwood is hostess to the Bridge Club this afternoon. In attendance are Mrs. E. R. Reames, Mrs. Don J. Sumwalt, Mrs. Wesley O. Smith, Mrs. Edward J. Murray, Mrs. George Noland, Mrs. Fred H. Mills, Miss Maud Baldwin and Miss Betty Bell.

Tuesday afternoon at her home on Roosevelt street, Mrs. A. B. Lund served a very dainty and delightful luncheon, when she had as her guests Mrs. W. C. Hill, Mrs. J. McClure and Miss Marjorie McClure.

The "Tango Tea" made its debut into local society circles today, when Mrs. E. B. Hall entertained the Auction Bridge Club at the White Pelican Hotel. Mrs. J. C. Brockenbrough, Mrs. F. B. English, Mrs. Earl Whitlock, Mrs. Fred Schallcock and Mrs. Orin Campbell were present in addition to the members, who are Mrs. Silas Obenchain, Mrs. Robert Savidge, Mrs. E. B. Hall, Mrs. Robert A. Johnson, Mrs. Jack McLean, Mrs. L. F. Willets, Mrs. G. W. White, Mrs. F. R. Williams. The fore part of the afternoon was devoted to cards. Just before refreshments were served dancing was indulged in.

Mrs. Earl Whitlock was hostess to the Friday Pelican Club Friday afternoon, when there were present Mrs. J. C. Brockenbrough, Mrs. F. B. English, Mrs. Herbert Gale, Mrs. Mary A. Jackson, Mrs. E. B. Hall, Mrs. Charles Meldrum, Mrs. Fred H. Mills, Mrs. Fred Schallcock and Mrs. Earl Whitlock. Mrs. Fred Schallcock was awarded the prize. A dainty luncheon was served.

The teachers of the Central school and a few friends were the guests of Miss Augusta Parker at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Telford on Conger avenue last night. Unique games, musical numbers and other features all added their part to making the evening memorable, and a dainty luncheon was served. One of the contests was trotting Pegasus against speed records, each guest being given two words around which to construct an extemporaneous poem. Given the words "Pankhurst" and "pancake," one of the guests dashed off the following:

Mrs. Pankhurst lives in England;
She's a howling suffragette.
If she keeps up all her tantrums
She will get to voting yet.

She has filled with ink the mail box;
She has even thrown a bomb
In the parliamentary houses
To get statesmen 'neath her thumb.

She has languished in a dungeon;
She has starved her body thin;
She has done all sorts of magic
In her wild desire to win.

She can make some mighty speeches,
Can this howling suffragette—
But she can't make decent pancakes
And she can't make bread, I'll bet.

In attendance at the party were Miss Gail Ross, Miss Clara Elmer, Miss Winifred Winnard, Miss Rachel Manneman, Miss Stewart, Miss Maude Ripper, Miss Alice Pool, Mrs. J. Y. Johnson, Miss Beattie Applegate, Miss Marjorie Sellers, Miss Jessie Telford and Miss Susie Holmes.

A "Calico Ball" is to be given on March 31st by the members of Ewauna Circle, Women of Woodcraft. At this affair all the ladies will be attired in calico dresses, and they will also make calico ties to match. These will be distributed among the men, and in this way the partners will be chosen.

Sixteen couples were in attendance at the first dancing party of the Pelican Club, held in the dining room of the White Pelican hotel Wednesday evening. The guests danced in the hotel dining room, and music was furnished by Tindall's orchestra.

A big annual social event not far distant is the annual St. Patrick's Day dance given by the members of the Klamath Falls Volunteer Fire Department. The fire laddies' dances have always proven to be highly successful, and the committees in charge this year promise to eclipse all previous records. Music will be furnished by Tindall's six-piece orchestra.

This evening, at her home on Eleventh street, Mrs. Jess Turner will entertain a number of ladies at a 500 party. After cards, Mrs. Turner will serve an elaborate supper. Those invited are Mrs. C. E. Riley, Mrs. Tom McDonald, Mrs. William Crandall, Mrs. James Blair, Mrs. Fred Vest, Mrs. Charles Maaburn, Mrs. J. E. Swanson, Miss Virginia Gallagher and Miss Martha Harwood.

Friday evening a bevy of high school girls organized themselves into a dinner and theater party, just to show the sterner sex they were not always needed on an occasion of the kind. After dining at the high school cafeteria, the young ladies pooled their wealth and took in the picture shows. In the party were Miss Waive Jacobs, Miss Verda Cosad, Miss Ellis abest Houston, Miss Katherine Williams, Miss Madge Dixon, Miss Barbara Goeller and Miss Hazel Goeller.

Miss Amlee Wing is spending the week at Eagle Ridge Tavern, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Robert Clay.

The first of the series of dances to be given by the baseball boys was given at the White Pelican hotel Thursday evening, and proved a very delightful affair. About forty-eight couples attended and enjoyed the splendid music and the perfectly conditioned floor. The success was not confined to a social one, as the boys realized quite a neat sum of money to be used by the ball team. Don Dale, Harry Ruiz, Harry Baum, Claire Arnold and Claude Maxwell had charge of the affair.

At her home on Klamath avenue Friday night, Miss Grace Hoagland entertained a number of her young friends. The little ones spent a very pleasant evening and the party broke up at 10 o'clock with the young guests all thanking their little hostess for a very pleasant evening. Those present were Misses Reita Low, Nellie Lewis, May Roberts, Iris Turner, Josephine Fink, Annie O'Farrell and Masters Charlie Coffee, Martin Ramsey, Pat Montgomery, Marion Mason, Ted Montgomery, and Cecil Low.

The Non-Belgravia Whist Club will be entertained this evening by Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Rogers at their home on the West Side. Mr. and Mrs. S. Edward Mason will be present, in addition to the regular members, who are Mr. and Mrs. Carey M. Ramsey, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. English, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Whitlock, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cofer, Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Claude H. Daggett and Mr. and Mrs. Orin Campbell.

Miss Lois Myers was hostess this afternoon to Mrs. Louis G. VanBellen, Mrs. J. Y. Johnson, Miss Florence Bowen, Miss Maude Ripper, Miss Gertrude Sauerman and Miss Claudia O'Loughlin. Needlework occupied the afternoon, and refreshments were served.

The birthday of Kenneth Brennan was the motif for a party in his honor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Brennan, Tuesday evening. Among the youngsters attending were Ralph Graves, Sybil Bamber, Margaret Hargus, Florence Bradley, Albert Bradley, Russell Crandall, Charles Riley, Cecil Clendenning, Orvil Hamilton, Francis McLane, Beattie Weeks, Clifford Garrett, Jean Hayden, Lloyd Bunnell, Leslie Hill, Wallace Uehrling, Johnny Uehrling, Dorothy Hamilton, Evelyn Sholl and Zora Meggs. The evening was devoted to games, puzzles and other amusements. In pinning the tail on the donkey, Dorothy Weeks won first prize, and the consolation award went to Jean Hayden. A sumptuous supper concluded the evening's fun.

Virginia Darky Princess Is to Help Convert Zulus in Africa

Princess Madikane Quandiyane, Cele, who was Julia Smith, a little Virginia darky before she went to Hampton Institute, is going with her Zulu husband, son of a Zulu king, to convert the African negroes to Christianity.

They married four months ago, and next week Cele and his bride will sail for Durban, on the east coast of Africa, and thence overland to the Zulu settlement, where they plan to build a school, where Cele will teach the men how to read and write and make wagons and build houses, and Julia will instruct the women in house-keeping arts.

Julia is a serious, plump, steady-eyed young person, who looks forward to her new life with calmness and confidence, albeit the old father to whom her husband is taking her is a reformed polygamist. He was once a mighty prince in Zululand, was this old savage, and, as became his dignity, he had many wives. But he had a yearning for greater wisdom, and, hearing that there were white men in the land who could give him wisdom, he travelled many leagues to sit at their feet. They were missionaries, these white men, and through them he became a Christian—so much a Christian that he renounced his princedom and turned missionary. He put away his wives, all except Cele's mother.

"My mother was the youngest and the prettiest; that is why he kept her," Cele explained yesterday in a matter-of-fact manner.

LIUTENANT BECKER

EXPRESSES HIMSELF

Just as soon as Lieutenant Chas. Becker, held in Sing Sing for fifteen months under sentence of death for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the New York gambler, learned the court of appeals, the highest court in New York state, had granted him a new trial, he was ready to talk. Newspaper men who went to see him met him in the office of the warden, and there he again proclaimed his innocence. He insisted that Harry Valon, one of the gamblers who turned state's evidence, was the real murderer of Rosenthal, and he said he would make it his business to hunt the evidence for conviction. But Becker is to be tried again for the murder. District Attorney Whitman had begun preparations, and it was said that within six weeks the trial will be under way. Even should he fail to get a conviction for murder he will bring charges of extortion against the policeman. Becker was found to have banked more than $50,000 in the short time he was at the head of the vice squad in New York City. This money, the district attorney believes, came from graft on poolrooms and illegal resorts.
