The Climaxing Features of the Great Majestic Cooking Exhibition BILLED FOR SATURDAY

There are many women who have attended this great cooking exhibition every day since its opening, many others have been here once or twice, but tomorrow we expect everybody who is interested in kitchen affairs to be on hand, because it's the LAST and GREATEST DAY OF THE MAJESTIC DEMONSTRATION.

Professor Becker's Program for the day will deal principally with MEATS. How to prepare, how to roast and how to serve meats will be completely covered by illustrations and lectures. In addition, HIS GREAT SPECIAL FEATURE—THE "ONE-PAN" DINNER. In this unique demonstration the professor will prepare a complete dinner—ample for sixteen people—in a single pan and in one hour's time. An eight-pound roast, potatoes, parsnips, dressing and three dozen biscuits constitute the dinner, as illustrated above. COME, SEE AND PARTAKE.

LADIES—
I thank you for your kind attention and appreciation of my efforts this week. I will come again.

Scene in New York Streets After Storm

With the ten inches of snow that fell last week, New York city was rendered almost helpless. How much merchants lost because they could not deliver goods may never be known. Some estimates have gone higher than $10,000,000. Trains on all of the railroads coming into the city from the north, south and west were delayed for more than ten hours. On Manhattan Island few of the street car lines were open. It was possible to get around only because the elevated lines and the subway could not be blocked with snow. In Brooklyn traffic was almost suspended. Staten Island, which is another borough of the city, had no street car lines in operation at all. It has been estimated that the cost of removing the snow will be not less than $1,000. A storm just preceding has cost as much.

Many Senatorial Bees Are Busily Humming

By HURTON K. STANDISH
(Written for the United Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 13.—The terms of one-third of the members of the United States senate will expire a little over a year hence. And thirty-two members will face the problem of getting back again—for with possibly one exception all of the senators would like to keep on with their legislating jobs—under the new direct elections law. All of which makes the political situation of considerable interest to the senatorial aspirants. Most of them are anxious to get out home and mend their political fences. It will be a novel stunt for most of them this campaigning among the people instead of pulling wires among members of the state legislatures. Ellihu Root, whose term expires March 4, 1915, positively doesn't want re-election. Root has announced his retirement from public life at that time. Senator Bradley of Kentucky is not expected to fight for his return. It is practically certain that his successor will be a democrat. Another republican who is very apt to be succeeded by a democrat is Burton of Ohio. A republican who will have the fight of his life to "come back" is Bristow of Maine. His nomination will be opposed by former Senator Curtis, a regular republican, while Murdock will oppose him in the regular general election. A democratic senator who frankly looks forward to a hard struggle is Chamberlain of Oregon, who will be opposed by Robert A. Booth, a republican.

A member of the senate since the days of President Harrison in 1891, Gallinger of New Hampshire will have to make his first fight before the people next fall. New Hampshire's other senator, Hollis, is a democrat. One of the most interesting battles of the fall will be that of Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma.

Completely exonerated of charges of the most serious character, Gore is expected to be re-elected. A spectacular "Armageddon" contest will be that in Pennsylvania, where Gifford Pinchot will battle for the progressives against Boies Penrose, stand pater, while the democratic colors will be carried by A. Mitchell Palmer, who will probably have the cordial support of President Wilson.

Many of the regular republicans, especially a few representatives, will join the ranks of the progressives to beat Penrose, who, they declare, dominates the party entirely too much to suit them.

Another fight in which intense interest will center is that of Cole L. Blease, who will make the run against Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina, and who, it is declared, has an excellent chance of beating Smith. Mr. Blease has a nation-wide reputation because of his "to hell with the Constitution" views. He was recently re-elected governor, despite the opposition of Senator Tillman.

Another veteran of the senate who is rounding out his last term is Perkins of California, whose long illness has almost prostrated him. A senator who cannot make a struggle is Thornton of Louisiana, whose successor, Robert F. Broussard, now a representative, has already been elected. Despite the fact that he has always been considered a leader of the progressive republicans, Cummins of Iowa will probably be opposed by a progressive candidate, even if he has no opposition in his own party.

While he will have no opposition in the general elections, Clarke of Arkansas, president pro tempore of the senate, will have a hard fight with Judge W. F. Kirby of the state supreme court. Clarke is now mending fences back home, not having been in the senate since the Christmas recess.

Coe I. Crawford has also been mending fences back in South Dakota since Christmas. In his own party Charles H. Burke will probably oppose him, while Edward S. Johnson will probably lead the democrats in the general election.

George Ade, the humorist, is being brought forward to succeed Senator Shively of Indiana. Albert J. Beveridge will contest with Ade, should Ade run, for the progressive nomination. Candidates for the republican nomination are ex-Governor W. T. Durbin, former mayor of Indianapolis, Charlie Bookwalter and W. L. Taylor. Shively is unlikely to be opposed in the democratic party, as Taggart has said he will not run.

A whole flock of candidates are aspiring against Senator Jones of Washington, which state last time sent the only progressive to the senate. Poin-dexter, to that body. Roger C. Sullivan of Chicago would, it is asserted, like to succeed Senator Sherman of Illinois, and may make the race.

Considering the size of the state, the number of candidates is small. There is another state where a republican seat seems to be in danger. John Walter Smith of Maryland seems practically certain of re-election.

Democratic voters in Alabama will have a chance to choose between Representatives Hobson and Underwood. This is to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Johnson, for which the senate recently refused to seat F. P. Glass.

Stephenson of Wisconsin, is likely to be opposed by some one more agreeable to La Follette, as the latter, it is said, would like to have a more progressive colleague.

The weight of personal baggage allowed free of charge on English railways for each ordinary first class passenger is 150 pounds, and for each ordinary third class passenger, 100 pounds.

In a little more than a century for which records have been kept Michigan's copper production has been about 30 per cent of that of the entire United States.

The Klondike fields, which are in Yukon territory, Dominion of Canada, have produced nearly $125,000,000.

NOSTRILS AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD? TRY MY CATARRH BALM

Instantly Clears Air Passages; You Breathe Freely; Dull Headache Goes; Nasty Catarrhal Discharge Stops.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the Nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning, the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will disappear.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears air passages; stops nasty discharge and a feeling of cleansing soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear. (Paid Advertisement)
