MEXICO CITY, April 9.—Bishop Campas, whom the Zapata forces captured and threatened to crucify on Good Friday unless he was ransomed by his friends, has been released. He reached the town of Iguala today. According to the bishop, the threat of crucifixion was sent out by a subordinate officer in the Zapata ranks. When the report of the tremendous fighting throughout the country reached him, Zapata ordered the bishop's release.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—Reports of the complete destruction of the Waters-Pierce property at Tampico by the rebels, with a loss of $500,000, reached the state department today. The following was received: "Wireless reports indicate that the situation at Tampico, as regards foreign properties is serious and very complicated. The refinery of the Waters-Pierce Company was occupied two days by the rebels, consequently it was under fire of the federal gunboats, and caught fire. The loss of the entire property is feared. In addition, the warehouses of the Agencia Commercial, a German concern, has burned, the loss being half a million."

TWO-THIRDS OF THE COUNTIES OF THE STATE REPRESENTED. SOUTHERN OREGON'S CANDIDATE AND EUGENE MAN ARE THE FIRST TO FILE—PRESS OF STATE ENDORSE KLAMATH MAN

(Herald Special Service)

SALEM, April 9.—Signed by over 2,000 representative Oregon citizens, the petition asking for the nomination of Hon. Henry L. Benson of Klamath Falls as a candidate for the republican nomination as justice of the supreme court, was filed with Secretary of State Ben Olcott.

The Benson petition is perhaps the largest that has ever been filed for this office, as it contained twice as many names as the law requires. This is due to the requests for blank petitions sent in by admirers of Benson in two-thirds of the counties of the state. In addition to being the largest, the Benson petition is further noteworthy inasmuch as every signature was secured by voluntary work on the part of Benson's friends, instead of being circulated by paid solicitors, as is the case with some candidates.

Judge Benson and Judge Harris of Eugene are the first to file their petitions as candidates for the supreme bench.

In editing the foregoing dispatch, it occurred to the Herald that although Judge Benson has been a resident of this city for many years, and is known personally to nearly everybody in Southern Oregon, a brief sketch of Southern Oregon's only candidate for the supreme bench would not be amiss, and would be a great aid to those who are voluntarily working for Benson through the medium of letters to friends in other parts of the state.

The fact that he is the only candidate for the office in Southern Oregon is due to the fact that as soon as it was announced that he would be in the race several of the most brilliant and able attorneys in this part of the state (which is equivalent to saying those high in standing in the bar of Oregon) set aside their own aspirations, wrote hearty letters of assurance and offers of assistance to our distinguished townsman, and have since been working zealously to bring about his choice at the hands of the voters.

The press of the state has been another powerful factor in Benson's favor, for every publication, from the Portland dailies to the small weeklies, the papers published in foreign languages, and the trade and ecclesiastical journals have endorsed the Klamath man's candidacy in the highest terms to their readers, and have paid glowing tributes to his high integrity and his splendid judicial acumen, ripened by nearly a score of years on the bench. At a result of the work of the bar, the press and the thousands of friends of the judge, together with his magnetic faculty of winning respect and admiration even from those whom in his sense of justice, he is compelled to rule in the wrong, there is hardly a republican in the state who has not included the name of "Henry L. Benson, Klamath county," as one of the four candidates for the republican nomination he would have represented the party in the fall campaign and grace the bench of the state's highest tribunal after elections.

Judge Benson is a native of California, of Scotch-Irish ancestry, his father being Rev. Henry C. Benson, one of the pioneer Methodist ministers on

SHERIFF THINKS BREITENBACH DEMENTED

Man Was Employed at Arnold's Wood Camp, and When Arnold Visited Camp Tuesday He Found a Note Tacked to the Door Indicating That His Employee Had Suicidal Intentions When He Left.

After leaving a note for his employer, B. Breitenbach, a woodchopper employed at C. A. Arnold's wood camp, disappeared, and his present whereabouts is shrouded in mystery. As far as Mr. Arnold knows, the missing man has not been seen since the 28th of March. When Arnold visited the wood camp Tuesday he found the cabin locked with a padlock and a note nearby addressed to himself, reading as follows: "C. A. Arnold—Don't look for me, and don't make any fuss like so many have done. Am sinking fast and easy. Look under mattress. B. Breitenbach."

When Mr. Arnold broke into the cabin and raised the mattress he found a purse containing $5. A search of the cabin developed the fact that the missing one had taken his blankets and good clothes.

Mr. Arnold returned to this city and reported the matter to Sheriff Low.

The sheriff was informed that the man was supposed to have worked at Keno last summer, but inquiries there failed to locate any one who recalled the name.

Breitenbach was about 34 or 35 years old. He had been sick, though not seriously, and had refused to accept medical attention.

The sheriff is of the opinion that the note indicates a mind slightly affected, and that the missing blankets and clothes would indicate, not a suicide, but a hike. He believes word will be received soon of the man's presence in some neighboring town.

BORAH SAYS OTHER REPEAL DESIRED BY ENGLAND WILL BE ASKED

Senate Committee on Inter-oceanic Canals Today Commenced Its Hearing on the Repeal Resolution—Tomorrow the Committee Will Hear the Testimony of Those Who Have Asked for Abatement.

United Press Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—The Sims repeal bill is today before the senate committee on inter-oceanic canals.

The senators who have introduced tolls bills and resolutions concerning the same, are expected to appear before the committee, and it is thought the day will be taken up with hearing testimony.

Tomorrow the committee hopes to begin the hearing of individuals and organizations who have applied to present their views on the tolls question.

United Press Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—That the administration plans to strike back in the campaign waged against the president in the tolls repeal controversy by certain newspapers was indicated today. It has just been learned that a court attack upon an alleged subsidized newspaper lobby, back of the shipping trust, is the big card that the administration is holding back for its coup.

Representative Barnhart is authority for the statement that such proceedings is contemplated.

"Postmaster General Burleson has been informed that certain newspapers, including some of the largest and most influential in the country, are printing paid articles for the shipping trust," said Barnhart today. "These are in agitation against the repeal of the free tolls clause."

"According to the information at the hands of the department, these articles are printed as bona fide news stories, and are not labeled as paid advertisements, as the law requires."

Young Pettus Is Freed

Youth to Leave State; Cat Is Only Jail Resident

The only occupant of the county jail at present is the mascot cat, the last of the prisoners having been released this morning.

The last to go was Robert Pettus, charged with horse stealing, whose release was ordered this morning by the prosecuting attorney. Pettus was accused of stealing two horses from a resident of Langell Valley, and had been in jail for some time awaiting the action of the grand jury.

He was taken before the prosecuting attorney Wednesday and closely questioned. After the youth agreed to leave the state, never to return, the attorney ordered that he be given his freedom this morning.

Groesbeck Withdraws

Attorney Says Field Too Crowded for Three Men

Holding that there is not room in the field for three candidates for the democratic nomination as county judge, Rollo C. Groesbeck, who announced his candidacy Wednesday, has withdrawn. This leaves the race to Marion Hanks and W. W. Smith.

"When I announced myself I did not know that Hanks was a candidate, and had I known this I would not have come out," said Groesbeck. "It was when I believed there would be no strong candidate who could make a race against Worden next fall that I came out. I withdraw without any ill-feeling toward anybody concerned, and I will do my utmost for the election of the candidate chosen by the democracy for the office of county judge."
