Want Withdrawals Opened

Commissioners Write to Washington

Four Townships Withdrawn in Northern Part of County Not Needed for Reclamation, Say Those in the Move

PORTLAND, May 15.—The vacation of reclamation service withdrawals of lands covering portions of four townships in northern Klamath county was recommended to the department at Washington a month ago, said E. G. Hopson, engineer of the reclamation service, with offices in the Central building.

These are the lands which J. W. Brewer, manager of the farm lands bureau of the state immigration commission, reported as not being necessary to the reclamation service in power development or in connection with the plan of state and government co-operation in reclamation of lands in the Deschutes basin. The commission has written to the secretary of the interior, the Oregon senators and the governor, urging that immediate vacation of these lands be secured and the thirty-day preference clause favoring actual homesteaders over holders of scrip be incorporated.

It has been feared if the reclamation service should suddenly vacate these lands, which are largely covered with yellow pine, that timber speculators holding scrip might get the claims and actual homesteaders lose home making opportunity.

Mr. Brewer has reported that lands of Deschutes and Paulina forest eliminations not in the reclamation withdrawals contain only two hundred 160 acre and 320 acre claims, and that more than this number of persons desiring to file are already in the country. The best of the lands are in the reclamation service withdrawals. It has been difficult to learn why the reclamation service withdrew the yellow pine lands, or when it was proposed to vacate the withdrawals. It was understood the withdrawals had been made immediately after President Wilson filed his order eliminating lands for settlement from the national forest.

A request for information has brought the following information: "Those lands were already withdrawn by the reclamation service. The order of withdrawal states that portions of lands are included in withdrawals for power purposes and in connection with proposed co-operative irrigation projects of the state and federal governments; the most valuable agricultural land is appropriated or under reclamation or power site withdrawals, and may be withheld for years for possible future reclamation."

In the opinion of Mr. Brewer, this statement indicates that the Washington officials of the reclamation service do not know how the lands lie in the eliminations, and that they apparently have not availed themselves of the information in possession of the local office of the service.

Salt Used for Getting Rid of the Dandelion

(Herald Special Service)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15.—The best way to kill individual dandelion plants is to cut off their tops and put a pinch of salt (about a thimbleful) on the surface of each exposed root. This will kill most of them. As salt, if generally applied, ruins soil, the salt should be used sparingly, and applied only to the root-tops of the dandelion.

The United States department of agriculture has for some time been testing various poisons to discover the most efficient means of eradicating this troublesome weed from the lawns, but although others have been found satisfactory, the common salt is best for general use, as there is no danger accompanying its application.

The department's specialists say that much effort is wasted in merely cutting off the dandelion top without applying some poison to the root that remains. The dandelion has a tap root that grows deep into the soil, and cutting off the top merely encourages the dandelion to come up in a thicker growth.

The time to eradicate dandelions is in the spring before the plant has had time to form seed. The seed spreads rapidly, blown by the wind. The blossoms should be close mown before they have gone to seed, and salt should then be applied to each root. A man may be very diligent in caring for his lawn, and yet have seeds blown in from neighboring lawns. This is of such importance to those desiring fine lawns that it might be made a matter for community action.

If the lawn is very full of this weed it is too tedious a process to treat each plant by the salt process. In this case two possible methods of eradication may be recommended.

The first method is to thicken the stand of grass to tend to crowd out the dandelion. The grass should be put into a vigorous condition by top dressing with well rotted manure or fertilizer in the fall and by reseeding in this places.

The second method, advised in extreme instances, is to start all over again, plowing up and re-seeding the lawn.

New Act at the Star

The Hurleys—Fred and Eva—who opened their three-night engagement at the Star theater last night, were well received by the Star patrons.

Their song numbers are really clever and catchy, both having good voices. Their monologue and dialogue stuff is about two-thirds new.

BALLOTING IS QUIET AFFAIR

LACK OF DISTURBANCES NOTED, AND THERE IS LESS SMOKING, ETC., AT THE POLLING PLACES. GOOD VOTE

With the postoffice, banks court house and saloons closed, election day is comparatively quiet, as the men and women of Klamath Falls go to the polls to cast their ballots for party nominations. The effect of the women in politics is most noticeable by the conduct of the men at the polling places.

In spite of the rain this morning, there was a fairly good vote cast.

With the balmy sun this afternoon the balloting became more brisk.

There were no disturbances today to be ascribed to election. There was only one arrest for intoxication, and this was a "holdover" jag.

EIGHTH GRADERS HAVE HARD EXAM

TWENTY-TWO LOCAL PUPILS PASS AND SIXTEEN ARE CONDITIONED—TEST IS TOO SEVERE FOR YOUNGSTERS

Twenty-two local eighth grade pupils successfully passed the recent examination for admission into high school, sixteen passed conditionally and five failed. The papers have just been graded.

"The questions were not exactly suited to a test for eighth graders," said one educator today. "These questions, which were prepared at Salem, contained many which were more suited to teachers' examinations, and required too much thinking for the immature minds of the pupils."

Those who passed successfully follow:

Ira Orem, Frank Turpin, Edwin Driscoll, Ronald Elliott, George Riggs, Betty Colvin, Earl Humphrey, Tom DeLell, Clarence Wight, Ernest Nitschelm, Herman Foster, Bessie Ogle, Howard Orem, Edwin Cain, John McAndrews, Glenn Parker, Edgar Kestöver, Mabelle Leavitt, Ina Graham, Audrey Roberts, Pearl Leavitt, Gertrude Wirtz.

Off for Visit. Mrs. H. L. Giem and babies left this morning for Spokane, where her mother is seriously ill.
