

Street of Roses Novel Feature of Big Festival

A novel feature of the Portland Rose Festival will be the decoration of one of the prominent city streets with thousands of the finest roses planted on the parkway and in full bloom, while running through the center of the street will be a line of booths, each occupied by a prominent residence section of the city with an exhibit of the most beautiful cut roses to be obtained. It is estimated that thousands entered in this competition will enter into the hundreds of thousands.

Special railroad rates of a fare and a third will be in force throughout the Pacific Northwest states, with sale dates from June 7 to 11 inclusive, good for return not later than June 15th. Following is the program in brief—the details are innumerable.

Tuesday, June 9, noon—Arrival of the Queen of Rosaria, with her maids of honor, attended by a brilliant water pageant on the Willamette River, followed by the coronation of the Rose Festival queen and the formal opening of the festival.

Wednesday, June 10, afternoon—Great parade of decorated automobiles and other vehicles. Wednesday night—Grand festival charity ball for the benefit of Portland institutions.

Thursday, June 11, afternoon—The Human Rosebud parade, made up of thousands of school children.

Friday, June 12, afternoon—Grand civic, fraternal, industrial and military parade. The city and state have been asked to declare a public holiday for this event. Friday night—Historical electric parade, showing the events from the earliest days in Oregon down to the opening of the Panama canal.

Among other special features announced will be the annual competitive rose exhibit, at the Central Library building, by the Portland Rose Society, during which an entirely new rose will be christened.

World's Biggest Ship and Commander

Over four hours were required in the docking of the world's largest ship, the Hamburg-American liner, the Vaterland, on her arrival in New York on her maiden trip. Twenty-five tugs worked in vain to get the great ship alongside her pier, and it finally became necessary to warp her in by means of cables attached to the pier and worked by dummy engines aboard the vessel. The Vaterland averaged a little more than twenty knots or twenty-three miles an hour for the entire trip, and her best day's run was 594 miles.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

BY MARGARET MASON (Written for the United Press)

(Written for the United Press) The wily summer maiden Has her weapons right at hand To snare the unsuspecting male— A golden fish to land. For all her dainty summer frocks Are frilled and founced with net. Within whose mesh she hopes to catch An only son-fish yet.

NEW YORK, May 30.—To be natty this summer you must be netty. This is the net result of the present demand of the mode for ruffles and founces. They must be constructed of soft, filmy fabrics to escape being bulky. Consequently, along with organdie and Paris muslin, the all-over-net dress holds the center of the summer sartorial stage.

One of the prettiest models in the net is a reversion to mid-Victorian days, with the skirt simply a charming series of six ruffles from the round baby waist down to the ankles. The waist is a loose blouse with set-in sleeves ending in a froth of three ruffles at the elbow. The open throat is finished with a narrow ruffle which meets at the bust line, and continues in double file down to the waist-coat-girdle of soft rose taffeta. All the ruffles are edged in rose embroidered scallops, and the whole creation converts its wearer into a veritable butterfly in the net.

Another effective frock of simple lines has a new long tunic of pleated net over an undershirt of net, which is also pleated and caught above the knees, with a crush sash of soft satin tied with a four-looped bow in front. The crush girdle is of the same soft satin and the waist is also pleated and untrimmed with a V-shaped low neck and tiny short sleeves that end abruptly, midway of the shoulder and elbow, with a wee frill of the net. This is net, but not gaudy.

These net frocks are really prettiest in white, but in soft shades of maize, blue, pink, lavender and sea green, they are very desirable. The flowered net with tiny rosebuds or pink rose buds scattered over a white, blue, flesh or maize ground is very quaint and lovely made up in shepherdess style. The combination of a pannier skirt of flowered net opening up the front over a flowered petticoat of cream lace, the peasant bodice of the net over a gumpie of the lace with ruffled elbow sleeves is piquant.

Flesh colored hose, with velvet pumps, a narrow black velvet ribbon tied around either bare wrist and a rose trimmed leghorn hat of shepherdess shape, held under the chin with a black velvet ribbon completes an enchanting ensemble.

Leghorn hats, by the way, are high in favor this summer, either in floppy garden hat shapes or the chic tilted bandeau models. All are, of course, flower trimmed, that do not run to flower. Wheat, combined with flowers, is considered very smart.

Now that the milliners are bringing in the sheaves as hat decorations, it probably will not go against the grain to adapt the best brands of breakfast foods for chapeau garnishment in the near future.

Another freak fashion that has gone to my lady's head for evening wear is a length of pastel tinted tulle over her eyes like a bandage and knotted behind in a fluffy chou. Perhaps this fad may have been launched with the good Samaritan intention of acting like blinders, to prevent a too ardent follower of Fashion's whimsies from seeing herself as others see her. No doubt many would shy at their own reflection, could they once glimpse it through unveiled eyes.

From hats and head dress to parasols is but one step higher. Fashion has come out flatly with the decree that the really smart parasols must all be on the level this summer. They are flat as their Japanese prototypes, many ribbed, and edged in gay bobbing balls, fringes and tassels of silk and beads, ruchings of silk and ostrich feathers. Many of the more frivolous are entirely cascaded in tiny ruffles preferably of chiffon, and all are as brilliant of hue as modern dyes can devise. The poor naked eye is bound to be as dazzled by the glaring ruse of a new parasol as by the glaring rays of old Sol.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

BRING BACK ITS COLOR AND LUSTRE WITH GRANDMA'S SAGE TEA RECIPE

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, faded and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the sage tea and sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application of two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant, and you appear years younger.
