HOW TO BORROW MONEY

long-time loans for the gradual reduction of the principal.

The first rule is, of course, the key to the wise use of credit. Between borrowing money to spend on one's self and borrowing money to buy equipment of some sort with which to make more money there is all the difference between folly and foresight, extravagance and thrift.

If the money is borrowed for a wise purpose it will produce enough to pay back the principal and interest and leave a fair margin of profit for the borrower into the bargain. If it is borrowed for a foolish purpose it will produce nothing, and consequently there will be nothing with which to repay the loan.

From this point of view it matters comparatively little whether the interest be high or low. It is the repayment of the principal that is the chief difficulty.

Rules 2 and 3 deal with the most satisfactory ways of repayment. Underneath them both is the same principle: The loan must be repaid with the money it earns itself.

For example, if the money is used to buy a machine that will last ten years, the machine must earn enough in that time to pay for itself or it never will. The loan, therefore, should be entirely repaid before the ten years are up, or the farmer will lose money on the transaction, paying out interest for no benefit in return.

On the other hand, if too early a date is set for repayment, the machine will not have had sufficient opportunity to make the requisite money, and the borrower may have difficulty in raising it elsewhere.

Rule 3 provides for some form of amortization, the system by which the principal is repaid in installments so that the amount of the loan is continually diminishing and in consequence the interest charges also. Such a system is quite feasible when the loan is really productive, when it returns to the borrower a definite revenue each year.

Of course the interest should be as small as possible. Everybody knows that--except the lender. But if the other rules are observed, if the borrower manages his financial affairs soundly, he will be surprised to find how much easier it is to obtain favorable terms.

The right kind of lender does not want to foreclose mortgages; he wants his money back with a fair profit, like any other merchant. For money that is borrowed wisely, for money that is sure to be repaid, he charges low interest.

This, in fact, is why the government has published these rules for borrowers. It is not so much a matter of driving a shrewd bargain as it is of observing a few fundamental principles which alone can make credit a blessing and not a curse.

"THE WIND UP" PLAYS AT STAR

BIG TIME ATTRACTION BREAKING A JUMP, SECURED FOR A THREE NIGHT STOP BY MANAGER HOUSTON

Besides four reels of excellent pictures, the Star theater offers a feature attraction in vaudeville, "The Wind Up," put on by Grace Kimball and company. The company includes Gilbert Fitzgerald.

The Grace Kimball company has been, and is now, on big time, and the stop here is a break in a long jump, due to the untiring efforts of Manager J. V. Houston to get the best possible for his patrons.

Much good clean fun is in the lines for the skit, which has been styled "The Old Homestead of Vaudeville."

surprised, in ten years time, to see a large city located here.

From a tourist sportman's standpoint, enough cannot be said. Having spent quite a number of years hunting and fishing from Alaska to South America, I feel that I am in a position to know a sportsman's paradise when I meet it. Your fishing cannot be excelled. Your water fowl are more plentiful than at any other spot in America; and from the indications and the number of deer I have seen during my stay here, I feel that the hunter could soon satisfy his lust for blood.

I have found the people of Southern Oregon most hospitable, and the assistance they have given us during our stay here will be remembered always. If it is possible for me, in the titles of the pictures which I have taken here, to boost Klamath Falls, I shall feel duty bound to do so, as that would be small return for the many courtesies extended to us.

We have found it a wonderful country for our work, and of the 10,000 feet of film that we have taken fully 8,000 of it could not be duplicated without covering the whole coast from Alaska to Mexico.

Dr. Morrow Is Back.

Dr. E. V. Morrow, who with Dr. R. K. Hamilton, has the contract for caring for the men employed on the Alaska railroad construction, is here from Seward, to wind up his affairs. He states that Seward is destined to become a big city, and he sees a great opportunity to build up an enormous practice there.

SPANISH ARISTOCRACY AND DIPLOMATIC CORPS MAKE THE MADRID MARRIAGE A MOST BRILLIANT AFFAIR

United Press Service

MADRID, June 11.—A brilliant gathering, comprising the elite of Spanish officialdom and aristocracy, together with practically all the members of the diplomatic corps and their ladies, witnessed the marriage today of Miss Belle Wyatt Willard, daughter of Joseph E. Willard, American ambassador to Spain, and Kermit Roosevelt, son of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, ex-president of the United States. The bridegroom's father came over from New York to attend the wedding.

The ceremony, which took place at noon in the British embassy chapel, was performed by the Rev. Dr. Watson, rector of the American church in Paris, assisted by the Rev. Herbert Brown, chaplain of the British Embassy in Madrid.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Willard, as maid of honor.

Following a brief honeymoon on the continent, the young couple will leave for Brazil to establish their future home at San Paulo, where Kermit Roosevelt is engaged in the railroad business.

Alaska Suits Local Boys.

A letter received this morning by Miss Louise Bargeant from her brother Frank, who is now in Juneau, Alaska, states that Juneau is a busy burg, and thoroughly up to date. Frank is employed in the construction of a five-story concrete building, and his friend and traveling companion, Mike Lavenik, is employed in one of the big mills. Others, however, were not so fortunate in securing positions, as Frank states that hundreds of idle men are in Juneau waiting for the government surveyors to decide on the location of the railroad and its terminal.

Harry E. Anglin is expected in this evening from San Francisco, where he has been attending to matters connected with the construction of the new court house. While in 'Frisco Harry traded his Glide car for a slightly used second-hand Locomobile, a 1914 model roadster. Judging from the tone of his letters regarding the trade, Harry is much pleased with the exchange.
