

A Terrific Slaughter—How Ridiculous!

If this store could sell merchandise at the enormous profits some people admit they get, with the volume of business done here, one year's business would be all that would be necessary to make us independently wealthy.

By making your purchase early in the season at this store you won't need to fear that you will be asked $35.00 for an article which only cost $20.00 at wholesale.

Our Theory of Merchandising

Quick sales and small profits is our plan of merchandising at any time of the year, a plan which has proven successful with all the largest and best stores throughout the United States.

Just at the present time you will find unusual values offered at this store in many lines, owing to the fact that we have made some very special purchases during the past two months--

Men's Clothing, Women's Suits, Coats, Skirts and Dresses, Shoes, Etc.

This is one of the many leading stores in Klamath Falls which show their appreciation of your patronage by giving Green Trading Stamps.

Government Circular Tells of Crater Lake

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—With the increasing popularity of the national playgrounds, even in Oregon people will be glad to learn of a guide to Crater Lake National Park, which many persons are desirous of learning more about, and which is too little known.

Methods of reaching Crater Lake National Park are given in detail in a circular on that reservation just issued by direction of Secretary Lane. This park, which is located on the summit of the Cascade range, in Southern Oregon, may be reached from Klamath Falls, Chiloquin, Medford and Ashland, Oregon. It has an area of 159,360 acres, and is situated in the midst of beautiful mountain country, the principal attraction being Crater Lake, a body of water having an area of 20 1/2 square miles, water surface, which is situated in the caldera of an extinct volcano. The lake is surrounded by unbroken cliffs which range from 500 to nearly 2,000 feet in height. The coloring of the water and of the surrounding cliffs presents some of the most striking pictures seen in the Western mountain country.

Not the least of the attractions at Crater Lake is the splendid fishing. Originally there were no fish in the lake, and only one species of fish has been planted, rainbow trout, so the fisherman knows beforehand what he is going to get. They are best caught by dycasting from the vantage spots along the shores of the main land or Wizard Island. Many fish are caught by trolling spoon from a rowboat. The fly fishing is well worth while, as the fish are very gamy and run from two to ten pounds in weight. In addition to the rules and regulations, this circular contains lists of books and magazine articles for the benefit of those who desire more detailed information regarding this unique body of water.

RUSSIAN CZAR JUST ESCAPES

ANARCHISTS BLOW UP TRAIN ON WHICH THE ROYAL FAMILY WAS RIDING—TWO DEAD AND MANY INJURED

BERLIN June 19. — Dispatches from St. Petersburg which escaped the censor, tell of an attempt to assassinate the czar which barely failed yesterday.

Anarchists plotted to dynamite the special train of the czar between Kishineff and the capital, but succeeded only in seriously wounding several passengers on a train preceding the royal train.

The czar, zarina and family, with accompanying servants and government officials, left Kishineff in two special trains. From Katin an ordinary passenger train preceded the royal coaches, according to custom.

Near Tshudnow the explosion occurred, overturning the engine and derailing several coaches, killing two of the passengers and injuring twenty-eight.

The plotters doubtless hoped to slay the entire royal family.

TEAM IS HERE SECOND TIME

VAUDEVILLIANS IN MIRTH PROVOKING CHATTER AND FEATURE FILM FEATURES AT THE STAR THEATER

People have different ways of rating matters, such as entertainers, and perhaps not all will say that Hanley & Murray are "entertainers de luxe" in the literal meaning of the term. However they will say that they are above the average team, and credit them with getting rid of some clever stuff when they opened last night.

It might be stated that some of their comedy was new here, in fact, quite a good chunk of it. The rest of it, though, recalled other days to come, was well delivered, and what it was intended to do, brought forth laughter. But where is the troupe that can hand out comedy patter that is absolutely newly coined?

This is the second time the team has been here. In addition, there is a good feature film, "Perils of the White Lights."

BUSINESS HOUSES PLAN TWO MOVES

KLAMATH FALLS MUSIC HOUSE GOING TO MAYHEU BUILDING; WILLIS FURNITURE TO TAKE THEIR PLACE

The Willis-Johnstone Furniture company has secured a lease on the concrete store building now occupied by the Klamath Falls Music House, and will move to their new location the latter part of next week. The music store is to move into the adjoining building to the east.

Willis-Johnstone company were very fortunate in securing a very low rental on this fire proof building, which will give them larger quarters, with lower insurance and a more desirable location, at about the same rent they are now paying between Tenth and Eleventh streets.

Furniture is rather expensive goods to move, and they have decided to make a supreme effort to reduce their stock about one-half. They will have only three days in which to accomplish this, as they will have to vacate their present location before the end of next week, and beginning Monday and continuing through Tuesday and Wednesday, they will put on one of the biggest furniture sales ever held in Klamath Falls.

Saturday and Sunday the entire stock will be gone over and marked down to bed rock. They promise some exceptionally attractive bargains to those visiting their store during the three days.

Escape Tells of the Russian Prison Life

United Press Service

ST. PETERSBURG, June 19.—Among the terrible human documents offered in evidence before the imperial commission now investigating the prison system of Russia is a personal letter from a political exile named Padoff, who recently escaped from Siberia, and who before being sent there was confined in the Boutyrski prison at Moscow for several years.

"I quickly learned the truth of the words spoken by M. Scheglovitoff, the minister of justice: 'We punish, but we do not correct,'" writes the exile. "To cause its 200,000 prisoners a maximum of suffering is the one aim of Russia's prison system, and the jailers are willing instruments of vengeance. They addressed us invariably with some epithet as 'dog' or 'ear-rabbit.' We were forbidden to move about in our room, owing to the noise our irons made.

Our daily promenade in the prison yard lasted ten minutes, and we had to march two by two in strictest silence, with our arms held in a vertical position, and looking neither to the right nor to the left. This was all the exercise we had in twenty-four hours.

"Protests of any kind were useless, the only result being a flogging, or confinement in dark underground cells or dungeons, on a diet of bread and water, and all our comrades who were daring enough to complain of the ill-treatment meted out to us as well as in the Moscow cemetery. The cells were always full, for we were sent there on the slightest pretext.

"Floggings were of daily occurrence, and we were flogged singly, in couples or in batches. On one occasion all the occupants of our cell then numbering twenty-four, were flogged in the course of a single day.

"The assistant governor of the prison used to witness the corporal punishment, urge the executioner to lay on unmercifully—and afterwards compel the victim to thank him!

"Sometimes the poor sufferer, dazed by the agony he had undergone, would not understand the command 'say thank you, son of a dog,' and so remained silent. Then, cursing violently, the assistant governor would order the torn and bleeding body to be flung back upon the punishment bench and flogged afresh.

"After that the culprit was clapped in a cold damp cell to recover as best he might."
