The Iron Duke, After Germans in North Sea, and Her Commander

The Iron Duke, the flagship of the British fleet of the North Sea, which is now holding the German warships within the Baltic, is the greatest battleship Great Britain owns. She can burn ammunition at the rate of $10,000 a minute, and she is now prowling about the North Sea at the head of the greatest fleet ever assembled in the history of the world. Her admiral is Sir George Callaghan, the commander of the home fleet, but within the past few days Admiral Jellicoe has been made supreme commander of the British vessels of war, and he is now in charge of the operations of the fleet. The Iron Duke is far more powerful than any single vessel in the British navy, perhaps the most powerful man-of-war in the world. The Iron Duke, the first of the five armored ships of the 1911-12 program to be completed, was laid down at Portsmouth in January, 1912, and finished in January of this year. She was commissioned last March by Captain R. N. Lawson. She is the first British dreadnaught to carry 6-inch guns behind armor for the repelling of torpedo craft. These weapons throw a 100-pound projectile, and are the largest man-handled guns in the navy. Precautions have been taken to protect the vessel against overhead attack from dirigibles and aeroplanes, and she has, for example, two 12-pounder guns on high angle mountings. Her main armament is ten 13.5-inch guns of the latest kind. She is 620 feet long, nearly 100 feet longer than the original dreadnaught that gave its name to the class.

When almost discouraged, I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. In less than two weeks after I began taking them, I felt better. I used in all four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they made me well.
