Power Company Sues the City of Medford

MEDFORD, Aug. 24.—Suits has been filed in the federal court for Western Oregon at Portland by the California-Oregon Power company against the city of Medford as a final chapter in the long-standing controversy between the municipality and the corporation.

The power company in its complaint served upon City Recorder Foss prays for the following:

Judgment for $17,614.62; the establishment of the validity of its franchise for twenty-five years from June 7, 1907, the date of the original franchise, and the payment of all bills for city lights, at 6 per cent interest, since June 5, 1912, when the controversy started.

The company serves notice also that it has deposited $2,185.37 with the court to cover what is owed the city under the 5 per cent agreement since June 5, 1912, asking that it be deducted from the $20,000.

The suit is directed against the city, its mayor, its councilmen and recorder. The company is represented by Tapscott & Tapscott of Portland, Attorney A. C. Hough of Grants Pass, and Attorney A. E. Reames of Medford.

Attractive Tractor

A large gasoline tractor which was purchased by the proprietors of the Sunshine ranch, arrived here recently. The machine is thirty horsepower and is controlled almost like an automobile, having gear shift, clutch, brake, etc. It is the first of its kind ever seen in this vicinity, and is attracting a good deal of attention.—Roseburg News.

Burden of War Falls on Widows and Orphans

French peasant working in the fields like American farm hand.

These are the greatest sufferers from the war in Europe. While their fathers, husbands and brothers are off fighting or drilling to fight they must do all the hard labor in farming districts. The burden of production sufficient to maintain the armies of Germany will fall on the women left behind, and the French women must raise the farm products to feed their relatives trying to shoot Germans.

Ashland capitalists will build a 50-room apartment at Marshfield.

Astoria municipal docks will take 2,500,000 feet of lumber from the local mills—giving them preference.

SHANNON MAKES DENIAL
In last Sunday's Northwestern an article appeared under the headlines.

"Drunken Man Wrecks Buggy, Injuring Wife," in which it stated that while I was intoxicated I became enraged at the horse I was driving and began flailing it with the whip and caused it to run away.

The article was evidently published in this manner in an endeavor to get back to the yellow journalism to which they seem to aspire. It was published without regard to the feelings or reputation of the one about whom these malicious and false statements were made. I was not intoxicated at all, and did not become enraged at the horse I was driving. The line got caught under the horse's tail, which frightened it, and caused it to run away. I did not touch the horse with the whip during the whole time mentioned.

This is not the first time that the Northwestern has seen fit to publish matters concerning me which, like the article in Sunday's paper, were absolutely false. Last spring an article was published in which it was stated that I broke a pick handle over another man's head. This they saw fit to retract the following day.
