BODY OF McLEOD FOUND NEAR CABIN

 trying to get away and back to his team. Ady said today that all the time Williams was there he did not get a chance to see even the color of his eyes.
 A wagon was sent down as soon as word of finding of the corpse had been received and it is expected to arrive here late this afternoon.
 Sheriff Low is being congratulated on the work of his office and for the interest that he himself and deputies have displayed in looking into the affair when at first there seemed to be nothing but Williams' actions to attract attention. For three days and nights Sheriff Low, Deputy Lloyd Low and R. A. Emmitt have worked both in sweating Williams and in visiting the scene of the crime in some effort to clear up the mystery of McLeod's disappearance.
 The details of Frank Williams' confession made yesterday to officials of the Sheriff's and District Attorney's offices have become known. Williams made a statement that McLeod and E. M. Heppie, who was brought in last night by the Sheriff, became involved in an argument which resulted in Heppie's shooting McLeod and disposing of the body.

 The officials would not discuss the case at all but their actions toward Heppie indicated that they did not suspect Heppie of having any hand in the affair. Heppie made the statement before being brought to this city last night as well as later that he was in the Lava Beds Sunday, August 23 with a party of fourteen people. The officials did not give Williams' story sufficient credit to place Heppie in confinement but allowed him his freedom.
 It was learned yesterday that Williams said that he and McLeod were at the McLeod house after returning from Klamath Falls Sunday, August 23. He then said that Heppie came in and wanted to borrow a harrow from McLeod. "Scotty" refused to loan the harrow and Heppie became abusive, the argument resulting in a fight. Williams said he mixed into it and Heppie struck him in the head with the butt of a six shooter practically laying him out, after which Heppie secured a 22 rifle and shot McLeod.

 Heppie then removed McLeod's body, according to Williams, and returned to clean up the cabin. Williams said Heppie used kerosene on the floor to cover the blood stains, while Williams laid on the bed partly conscious and in fear of his life.
 While he was on the bed and after Heppie had left the cabin to dispose of the body an approaching wagon was heard, he said. Heppie returned to the house and warned Williams to keep still and to tell the callers that McLeod had gone to Drury's to work. Heppie then returned into the darkness. After Worden and Dodd had left Williams stated that he heard Heppie burying the body and told the officers he thought they would find it in the corral. Heppie returned to the house about 12 o'clock where he stayed the remainder of the night, leaving in the morning, said Williams. He also said he had made some search for the body but had not found it.

 The row of sunflowers which stood outside the door upon further examination showed that blood was spattered on a number of the leaves in such a manner as to indicate that a staggering man with a flowing wound had stumbled into them or brushed against them.
 Since Williams has been placed under arrest in connection with the McLeod affair, other murder suspicions are being laid at his door. It is said that he was known to have been with M. R. Johnson, the missing Upper Lake trapper, and Jack Medill around the time they dropped from sight.
 Johnson disappeared from a cabin in the vicinity of Naylox, and his body has never been found. It develops that Williams was in that vicinity at that time.
 The circumstances in the Medill case are more incriminating. Medill and Williams left here some time ago with the former's horses and outfit, and Medill has not been seen since. After that, Williams returned to town with Medill's outfit, and in addition to disposing of the most of the outfit, it is said that he wore clothing belonging to Medill.
 It is said he told conflicting stories regarding Medill's whereabouts, as he has in the McLeod case. It is also stated that he threatened the life of Mary Picard, who was with his wife during his absence, because she hinted that the disappearance looked suspicious.
