

Everybody Loves a Fat Man

When He Is a Royal Tailored Man

The idea that robust men cannot wear the trim and slender styles of present day fashion is all balderdash. They cannot, of course, if the clothes are crudely cut and ill-fitted. But Royal Tailoring designs clothes for the robust that hang and look as snugly and slickly as the clothes of the most svelte 160-pounder. It is all a matter of tailoring art and care.

We build clothes for the wide and weighty on contract basis. That is, there is a clearly understood contract-obligation that the clothes must fit and must satisfy in every respect—or we will not let you take them—nor pay one penny for them. That is never evaded in the slightest detail. There is only one thing that the robust can secure in Royal Tailoring—and that is complete satisfaction.

A heavy man cannot secure clothes-satisfaction by buying clothes on the pot-luck plan. He cannot expect to stick his hand into a grab-bag and pull out a suit that fits him completely. His clothes must be designed to his special order and requirements.

That is why we make a virtual blue print of every customer's physique and send it to The Royal Tailors, so that the suit or overcoat can be cut to accord with every dimension.

Another important thing is to have the right fabrics to select from. Some woollens emphasize stoutness. There's half a thousand fabric delights here for you to choose from. You're sure to get your ideal cloth.

INVESTIGATE THE INDIAN PROJECTS

OFFICIALS OF THE INDIAN SERVICE HERE TO LOOK AT MODOC PROJECT, AND THOSE IN CONTEMPLATION

With a view not only inspecting the Modoc Point Irrigation project, but looking into other possible projects for irrigating the ranches of the Klamath Indians, Chief Engineer W. M. Reed and Cost Accountant Franklin, from the Washington office of the Indian irrigation service, and District Irrigation Superintendent L. M. Holt are on the Klamath reservation. They came in Saturday night as did Project Engineer H. W. Hincks, who has been at Seattle, conferring with game officials as to fish ways for the Sprague River dam.

Besides looking over the Modoc Point project, now almost completed, which will irrigate 6,740 acres of land, the party will look over other possible projects. Two of these are the drainage of the Klamath marsh, to reclaim 80,000 acres, and the Yal-nax project, to put water on from 20,000 to 50,000 acres of land.

If there are sufficient funds after the Modoc Point work is finished, work on the surveys and other preliminary work on these projects may be taken up.

Work on the Sprague River dam is being held up a little, awaiting the arrival of the steel and iron structures. After these reach the dam, it will be completed in about three weeks.

The Berney Construction company of Lakeview has secured the contract for the tunnel of 300 feet through solid rock on the Chewaucan River.

Sweden has but one tire factory, which is quite unable to supply the home demand.

"Master Mind" Pleases.

One of the most gripping stories ever depicted in picture film here was the five reel production of "The Master Mind," at the Star theater. Edmund Brees, in the title role, held all with his wonderful acting, depicting a most cunning director of criminal operations, bent upon revenging the death of his brother. The theater was packed at every performance.
