THE BEST "CLEAN-UP"

THE Ankeny ditch, which means down through the residence district, is the most unattractive, messy, slimy, frog-infested waterway imaginable. In addition, it is, perhaps, the worst kind of menace to the city's health, for the swamps and dank places lining its entire course are ideal breeding places for mosquitoes and other disease carrying pests. The epidemic of typhoid fever which swept the city about three years ago was largely blamed to this one source.

Shortly after that epidemic, the "clean-up" activity was brought to the front by the Women's Civic League. As a result, the health of the city has been greatly improved, and unsightly spots have been either beautified or entirely obliterated.

But among these, do not count the Ankeny canal. At various times during the summer just ended, the seepage from this ditch flowed down the side streets to Main, rendering them almost impassable. At all times, the chirp of the frogs was heard, and the ditch, which had become the final resting place for old cans, garbage and perhaps dead animals, was not in any way rendered less a public nuisance. And so it will be again next spring and summer, if action is not taken now.

The Ankeny canal was taken over by the government at the beginning of the reclamation service work here. There are about forty people who have water rights under this ditch, and the government is obliged to furnish them the water upon demand. The greater number of these water right holders are willing not only to relinquish their rights, but to fill the ditch in front of their property, and some are ready to subscribe funds toward this.

But there are some holders of water rights who will not relinquish without being paid money. The prices named are in most cases exorbitant. The government is obliged to furnish these people water, and the city is opposed to discrimination in favor of these few holdouts in the acquiring of the water rights.

Nearly every effort imaginable has been made to induce these people to relinquish their water rights, but to no avail. Their civic pride was appealed to, they were cited as the people blocking the improvement of the city, and on one occasion city employees threw a up a dam in the canal—but they dug it out again later.

Makes an Appeal to Americans

Mme. Lola van der Velde, wife of Emili van der Velde, Belgian minister of state, and one of the envoys sent by King Albert to present the case of Belgium wrongs to President Wilson, has arrived in the United States with an appeal to Americans to help her countrymen and women. She is a noted European writer and lecturer. A statement she gave out was as follows:

"I have come from Antwerp to appeal to the generosity of the great American democracy on behalf of my countrymen, whose land has been ravaged by the horrors of war through no fault of their own, and thousands of whom are now destitute. Thousands of them have lost all they had—lands, houses, homes, money and the very tools with which they got their daily bread. Thousands are even without proper clothing, and are becoming wanderers and outcasts upon the face of the earth. I wish to call the attention of the American people to what I have myself seen—the stream of refugees leaving Malines during the bombardment, the murderous raids of the Zeppelins and the story of the burning of Louvain."

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

USE GRANDMA'S SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR RECIPE AND NOBODY WILL KNOW
The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair, and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it, and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.

Germans Guns a Big Surprise

Enormity of Krupp Siege Pieces Is Not Realized

Gun Crews Are Especially Trained to Handle This Monster Engine of Destruction, and Very Few Shots Are Required to Silence the Stronghold of Enemy

By ED L. MURPHY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Sept. 15.—(By Mail to New York)—The terrible destruction wrought by the great siege guns of the German army has been one of the astounding features of the great war now raging across the English channel. It was at Liege that these terrible weapons got their first real use, and there they proved their effectiveness in reducing fortresses to submission.

Ordinary army gunners—men who have seen years of service handling ordinary siege guns and cannons of all kind, cannot handle the new product of the Krupp factory. Special men, trained in from the Krupp factory, experts who have been specially trained in the use of the great siege guns, go with every one of the great siege guns sent to the front.

Albert J. Leroy, an Englishman, who was present when the bombardment of Liege started, has returned to London, and tells some very interesting facts concerning the fall of the forts of that city.

He saw one shell fall in the town. It blew a large house to pieces. Three forts gave in within a week after the first shots were fired. Three forts still held out, and the Germans were forced to bring their great siege guns through the town.

To do this they built a special railroad to run the guns over. The guns were moved on flanged wheels about seven feet high.

"As a sailor I have been all around the world," said Leroy, "and never have I seen such large guns as they were. To silence the forts with these guns took only two hours. For one of the forts only four shots were required."

"I saw some of the wounded taken from these forts. Their condition was horrible. They were blackened by explosions and so burned and injured that they died the same night."

"One thing that I especially wish to state, and that is that I saw the Germans fire on the Red Cross. I saw Red Cross wounded and dead. The Germans took their wounded from the Belgian Red Cross on the plea that they were not being well treated. This despite the fact that the chief medical officer had taken wounded Germans to his home to insure their being well taken care of."

"The last forts were silenced about fourteen days after the bombardment first started."

"I was arrested as an English spy and imprisoned for six days in a room at the railway station. By the soldiers I was treated very badly. They
