Allies Say They Have Regained the Territory They Had Evacuated

PARIS, Oct. 8.—Cavalry operations in great force are reported in the north last night. This was the clashing of the East Indian troopers and the German Uhlans in the fight for the British communication lines, and it is reported that the allies were successful.

The Germans are advancing steadily toward Belgium. It is reported that they have been frustrated in attempts to cut off the communications. The course of the battle has taken another turn. The line of conflict has been extended a hundred miles, from the Aisne River to the Belgian frontier.

On the left and in the north the enemy has made no progress whatever. In certain places he has withdrawn, particularly north of Arras, where the conflict is spreading out under conditions favorable to us.

The operations of the two cavalry forces are now spread out almost as far as the North Sea.

The allies claim to have regained the greater part of the positions they were compelled to yield previously.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The latest information regarding the battle of the Aisne, now being characterized as "The Great Battle," is that the main line of the fight has extended to Southern Belgium.

The Germans are reported moving strong infantry and cavalry bodies in an attempt to cut off the British communications via the English channel.

East Indian Prince Who Gave $1,500,000 to British War Fund

The Maharajah of Mysore, a wealthy Hindoo ruler, has startled Great Britain by giving more than $1,500,000 to the war fund of the empire. He gave what is known in his native tongue as fifty lakhs of gold. The money will be used to transport Hindoo troops from India to the battle line in France. Twelve Hindoo states are sending soldiers to join in the war, and a half dozen Hindoo princes are accompanying them.

Others are providing a hospital ship. The Maharajah of Rewa has offered his army, his treasury; indeed, also his private jewelry. Maharajah Holkar, the Nizam, and other princes have offered their states' horses as remounts. Many chiefs will go to the front. The Maharajah of Mysore is equally doing his part. Lloyd George said the other day: "Our resources will come in, not only of men, but of cash. We have won with the silver bullets before."

MILITARY COURT IS KNOCKED OUT

SUPREME COURT DECIDES THAT MILITARY COURT HAS NO AUTHORITY TO TRY CASES, AND ITS DECISION IS VOIDED

United Press Service

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 8.—The supreme court of this state has handed down its decision in the case of Dan Gillis, who was convicted and jailed by a military court at Butte.

The supreme court held that the military court had no authority to try cases, and voided the trial and sentence of Gillis, who was remanded to the custody of the militia for a trial by the regular district court.

This decision is final, and knocks out the military court completely, and means that the military authorities can go no further than making arrests. Civil courts must try the prisoners.

GERMANS DEMAND THE SURRENDER OF THE CITY; BELGIANS SAY, "NEVER!"

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 8.—Every village within a few miles of Antwerp is burning. The Belgians still continue to resist.

Although the city itself is still intact, Liere and other outlying towns were destroyed yesterday. German shells set fire to these towns.

The forts at Walhem have been blown to pieces by the big siege guns, the garrisons perishing. Many houses in several villages have been leveled by the terrible artillery fire.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 8.—German aviators are bombarding Antwerp. Belgian airmen have attacked them, but so far the advantage is with the invaders, their machines being faster.

It is believed that half the population of the city has fled. The surrender of Antwerp was demanded by the Germans. This was refused.

Before this, the Germans confined their fire to the forts. After the refusal they gave the people two hours to leave the city, and then began the bombardment of the city itself.

Thousands fled in panic. The Dutch frontier is littered with household goods, clothing and personal effects of the refugees.

The last Antwerp dispatch reports shells dropping everywhere and the destruction of houses.

CORONER WHITLOCK IS AT CHILQUIN IN CONNECTION WITH THE DEATH OF MAN THERE LAST NIGHT

Realizing the immense benefits to be derived, the Klamath Chamber of Commerce last night decided to participate in the Portland Manufacturers and Land Products show, to be held in Portland beginning October 27th. A space 10x12 feet has been reserved for an agricultural display from here.

At last night's meeting it was decided that Secretary George C. Blower of the organization should attend the show as a Klamath representative. County Agriculturist H. Roland Glaisyer may also attend, to answer questions regarding soil conditions, etc.

A large part of the agricultural exhibit being gathered for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition will be sent to the Portland show, in addition, the display of grains, grasses and forage crops to be used as a permanent Klamath exhibit, will be used at the land show. Besides the products of the soil, butter, cheese and other commodities of that nature will be included in the display.

W. P. Ives, a lumber crusher on his way to the Klamath reservation to work for the Indian service, was killed last night when driving a freighter's outfit down a grade, the wagon failed to respond to the brake, and in his efforts to stop the team he was thrown from the seat. His head struck a rock, killing him.

Coroner Whitlock is at Chilquim making an investigation. The accident occurred near there. Ives was riding a horse, and he dismounted and was driving the freight wagon to give the freighter a chance to try his saddle.

Hear French Tonight

Visiting Agriculturist to Address Mass Meeting

H. T. French, state leader of the extension work being carried on through the co-operation of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Oregon Agricultural College, is in Klamath Falls, going over the local work with the new county agriculturist, H. Roland Glaisyer. He will be here several days.

Professor French has been engaged in extension work in the Northwest for fifteen years or more, and is perhaps one of the best informed men on the problems of such countries as the Klamath country. To give all the people a chance to hear him, the Klamath Chamber of Commerce has arranged for an informal meeting at headquarters tonight, when Professor French will be the principal speaker.

This is not the first trip that Professor French has made to the Klamath country. He was here working with M. A. McCall, and since that time he has been boosting Klamath Falls, her people, her schools and her surrounding country all over the Northwest.

KEARNY STATUE UNVEILED TODAY

NEW JERSEY HONORS THE MEMORY OF FAMOUS VETERAN OF MEXICAN AND CIVIL WARS WITH A MONUMENT

United Press Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 8.—With imposing military pomp an equestrian statue to Major General Philip Kearny, hero of the Mexican and Civil wars, the gift of his natal state of New Jersey, was unveiled today in Arlington National Cemetery. It was the first equestrian statue permitted to be raised in the famous burial ground.

Secretary of War Garrison, also a New Jersey citizen, granted a special dispensation to permit the Kearny statue.

The statue, the work of Sculptor Edward C. Potter of Greenwich, was contributed to by New Jersey citizens generally, through the Kearny Monument Commission, created by the last state legislature.

Many prominent officials participated in the dedication ceremonies today. New Jersey militia, including crack cavalry troops and many army troops, participated.

General Kearny was killed during the Civil War at the battle of Chantilly, Va., in 1862. His body was first interred in Trinity church cemetery, New York, and re-interred fifty years later among war heroes of Arlington.

The Coos Bay Home Telephone company has been sold to Portland capitalists.

Advertise Now—and Never Let Up

"DADDY"
This is the way I size up the advertising situation in America, in the largest city, or in the town of 2,000 inhabitants. It is inconceivable that any Banker, Merchant, Business man or Professional man, should cease—or even curtail—his advertising just when the country is on the threshold of a tremendous double harvest—the natural harvest of our unprecedented crops and the logical harvest consequent on the the war in Europe.

It is under such conditions as these that advertising reaches the zenith of its power. The man who listens to the yellow pessimist and sits back to "wait for things to settle down," is yielding his common sense and enterprise to the baleful influence of idle sentiment, and actually starving the goose that lays the golden egg.

To every business man in the city of Klamath Falls I give you this definite, uncompromising and cheerful message:

"Keep the columns of the daily newspaper bristling with announcements, and thus open wide your doors for the flood of prosperity that is bound to roll. Make hay while the sun shines. We won't have another chance like this in a hundred years."

This is the very hour when we should rush into print to a greater extent than ever before, because, unless the earth opens and swallows us all up, there will be greater prosperity in America this winter and coming year than ever in the history of the republic. We are not at war. We are not likely to be. The warring world looks to us for its supplies, and we can't keep prosperity down, no matter how hard we try.

If my advice is worth anything to you business men, it is here conveyed to you in six words:

ADVERTISE NOW AND NEVER LET UP.
