RUSSIANS, BELGIANS IN ACTION

ANTWERP, THOUGH BADLY BATTERED, STILL HOLDS OUT

United Press Service
 GHEENT, Oct. 9.—Antwerp still holds out against German invasion. All night the bombardment of the forts continued, and many shells struck in the city. The Germans are given the ranges by aviators.

The greater part of the Belgian army has been ordered away. King Albert left only sufficient forces to man the forts.

Censorship withholds where the Belgians are mobilizing.

Today the bombardment is continuous. German aviators are constantly hovering over the city, and the bombs they have dropped are starting many fires.

The fire department, assisted by volunteers, has been working day and night.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Experts are optimistic, and expect the defense of Antwerp to continue.

The artillery of the Belgian forts is being superbly handled, the ground thereabouts being accurately mapped for this.

The Germans must mass troops to storm the city, while the city requires only force enough to man the guns.

Braves Take Opening Game

Athletics Are Outclassed Badly in Comparison

CONNIE MACK, Manager of the Athletics

GEORGE STALLINGS, Manager of the Braves

Connie Mack and George Stallings do not always smile in this way. In fact, these smiles were caught after the club of each had won the pennant in its own league. Both men are very serious-minded. Mack is about as serious and solemn and silent as any manager the game has known. He says little and thinks a lot, and he smiles every other day. There is not much humor in Stallings. Some of his players were surprised to see him light up at the command of the photographer. They had heard him on the bench in the act of driving his players, and it is known that Stallings uses a lot of language to make his men play ball.

By HAL SHERIDAN
 SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—George Stallings and his Boston Braves today demonstrated that they have still more surprise packages up their sleeves than their phenomenal rise in the National League, for they continued these surprise tactics into the world championship series by defeating Cornelius McGillicuddy's world beating Athletics in the opening game by a score of 7 to 1.

For the first time in his career Big Chief Bender was humiliated in a world series game. His control was so bad, and he was forced to his limit, while the pitching of Rudolph opened the eyes of the Athletics.

There never was a more surprised bunch of fans than the 20,562 who paid in a total of $49,630 to see today's game. In fact, never in the history of Shibe Park has there been

RUSSIAN FORCES BEGIN A MARCH AGAINST BERLIN

PETROGRAD, Oct. 9.—The Russian center, fully mobilized at Warsaw, has started on the first lap of the advance on Berlin.

The war office says that this army, which includes some of the czar's most efficient regiments, is already in action. The men are getting into an engagement around Wloclawek, around Vistula and thirty miles from Thorn.

It is stated that the Russians are now within ninety-six miles of Posen, the first German interior stronghold to be encountered.

The fighting is continuous. The Russian advance is steady, owing to the overwhelming force engaged.

By KARL von WIEGAND (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WIERBALLEN, via Berlin and via wireless from Nauen to Sayville—(Wednesday)—Accompanying the German troops into Russia east of Wierballe as the first English speaking correspondent on the Russian front, I witnessed a terrific battle wherein the Russians, with heavy field artillery, cannonaded the German positions.

The ground shook, and the guns roared and thundered uninterruptedly, but the Germans stood their ground, returning the fire slowly and deliberately. The Russians failed in their efforts to roll up and envelop the left wing of the German force.

Yesterday this part of the battlefield was hard pressed. Last night, however, strong reinforcements were rushed to the assistance of the left flank, which enabled it to hold the position in today's action.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 9.—It is stated that the withdrawal of the Russian forces from their positions at Donajec in the Galician campaign was done when it was learned that the Austro-German positions at Kielece, through Tapnow to Neu Sandec were impregnable.

By withdrawing precipitately, the Russians lured the enemy to pursue, and a battle is now raging in the open.

The bombardment of Przemysl continues. Russian aviators report breaches in the city's walls, many buildings destroyed, and dead unburied in the streets.

AUSTRIAN BOUND MANY ATTENDING TO GRAND JURY FAIR AT DORRIS

MAX CHARGED WITH FAILURE TO SUPPORT WIFE AND CHILDREN IS RELEASED BY BONDS FROM COMPATRIOTS

Following an examination Thursday afternoon which brought out the fact that Charles Kucera, although he has over $100 coming to him, is unwilling to see that his wife and five small children are properly cared for, Justice of the Peace Gowen bound Kucera over to the action of the grand jury. He was released today on bonds furnished by Ignace Cacka and A Kalina of Malin.

Kucera told conflicting stories on the stand Thursday, but it was evident that he has for some time utterly neglected his family, and left them to shift for themselves.

KLAMATH FALLS BAND AND SEVERAL AUTO LOADS OF PEOPLE JOURNEY TO THE TOWN IN NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

Klamath Falls is well represented at the Dorris fair today, for in addition to the Klamath Falls band, which left this forenoon for the Butte Valley Metropolis, there have been automobile parties leaving all day.

At this fair, which began Thursday and closes tomorrow night, the bustling little community will show the world the products of Butte Valley. Livestock, grains, fruits, vegetables, needlework, school work, etc., form the exhibits.

Astoria wants a rock crushing plant to utilize unemployed labor.

Manslaughter Is Verdict

Klamath Indian Tried in Medford Federal Court

(Herald Special Service)
 MEDFORD, Oct. 9.—After five hours' deliberation, the jury in the trial of Thomas G. Smith, accused of the murder of Link River Beall, a fellow Klamath Indian, returned a verdict of voluntary manslaughter at 11 o'clock last night.

The case was tried in the federal district court, in session here. Federal District Attorney Hoames asked for a conviction for first degree murder. Attorneys Onell & Manning of Klamath Falls, for the defense, asked for acquittal.

An extension of ten days was given the defense to file an application for a new trial.

The defendant received the verdict without a show of emotion. He is held in the county jail.

A number of Klamath Indians were in attendance at the trial. The case was the outcome of an assault upon Beall, one of the most influential patriarchs of the Klamath reservation, by Smith. Smith struck Beall on the head with a horsehoe, and after being in an unconscious state for several days, the old Indian died at the Klamath Falls hospital.

Smith was intoxicated at the time. He was engaged to marry Beall's daughter, Lottie Beall, who was one of the witnesses for the prosecution at the trial.

The defense declared that Smith acted in self defense. It was also set up by the Indian's attorneys that lack of medical attention, and not the force of the blow, caused the demise of Beall.

"The Mutual Girl and Her Anntie"

As "Daddy" said in a recent issue of The Herald, one of the hardest things to find is yesterday's newspaper.

That is why I said be persistent in your advertising—because people soon forget.

If you don't think it is hard to find yesterday's newspaper, try to find one today.

When the news is gone the advertisements are gone, too, so that yesterday's advertisements will not sell today's goods.

Every man, woman and child in this country knows that railroad crossings are dangerous, yet the railroads do not take down their "Stop, Look and Listen" signs. They leave them up as a warning to people.

Now, what these railroad crossing signs are as a warning of danger, advertising is to a business; it is a constant reminder to people that you are in business, and calling their attention to the things you have to sell.

Every once in a while a man will say: "I don't have to advertise; everybody knows I am in business. Why should I advertise?"

He reminds me very much of the fellow with blue goggles who was winking at a girl—he knew he was winking, but the girl didn't. This man knows he is in business, but perhaps the public might forget.

I am often asked what are the best mediums for advertising. Of course, that depends somewhat upon what you are going to sell. I think, on the whole, that newspapers are the best mediums, because people buy newspapers and stumble into the advertising.

Read The Herald.

More by "Daddy" tomorrow.

NO GAIN BY THE AISNE

United Press Service
 PARIS, Oct. 9.—In general, the situation is unchanged. On the left, the cavalry of both sides are in continuous action north of Lille.

The line of battle extends from Lens to Arras to Bray and Chaulnes, Roye and Lissingh.

Engagements of minor importance are occurring in the region of the Woevre.

Artillery conflicts progress along the entire front.

The situation is not changed in the southwest angle, where von Kluck and von Boehm's lines turn sharply to the north.

The allies are advancing, and there is fierce, continuous fighting at the southwest angle, where von Kluck and von Boehm's lines turn sharply to the north.

Continuous fighting is apparently confined to the two extreme wings. The west line extends almost to the frontier of Holland.
