

OUR WEEKLY SERMON

"Disobedience"

By ELDER S. D. HARRIS, Pastor Christian Church

Heb. 2:2 "Every transgression and disobedience received a just recompense of reward."

Among the children of Israel, Saul was one of the finest looking young men to be found. His physical body was without an imperfection, and was a head taller than the people, and in a crowd his appearance was striking.

At this time in the history of Israel, after many years of the ruling of the judges, we find the Lord's chosen people demanding of Him a king, that they might be like other nations round about them. Jehovah, through Samuel, the prophet, told the people that they would not be satisfied under the rulership of a king, for he would demand hard things of them. However, when they insisted the Lord gave them a king in the person of young Saul, whose name we mention above. Now as to the success of Israel's first king, we will briefly note in the remainder of this sermon.

First, God gave Saul another heart. This change of mind, will, affections or conscience, follows a meeting with the prophets. It seems that here he receives from on high the spirit of humility, for, although he is anointed king, he returned to the home farm, and willingly followed his former occupation. In this meeting he also receives a great vision of his responsibility to his nation, for when the old enemies of Israel come to cause trouble, Saul rallies 330,000 men, who win a great victory. At this time Saul's coronation services take place, the reign of the judges is ended, and Israel has her desire, for she now has a real king.

Second, Saul disobeys the God who lifted him to the throne. Here, like Pharaoh of Egypt, he hardens his heart to the commands of his Creator. The new king is told to destroy the Amalekites and their king, which he only partially carries out. He kept ACHIS, the king of the Amalekites, alive, as well as some of the sheep and oxen, which was contrary to his instructions. One excuse he offered was that he expected to make a great sacrifice unto the Lord, but Samuel reminded him that "to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams." For this sin Saul is rejected of the Lord as Israel's KING.

Third, the reward of disobedience is death. "The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Christ." On the banks of the Dead Sea entrusted in all the trunks of noble trees which have been torn from their roots and carried by the Jordan in its flow to line those desolate shores, and remind us of lives which God had planted to bear fruit, which have not fulfilled their purpose, but have been sown to the sea of death. Among such failures we place the first king of Israel. When God furnished King Saul he became more selfish and self-willed than ever. When his old enemies, the Philistines are arranging for war, he against him—in desperation he seeks the witch at Endor, to have her call up the old prophet, Samuel, who is now dead. The Lord here surprises both the witch and King Saul by telling him that his days are few, and death will be his portion. The next day when the battle is raging, Saul is wounded, and he urges his armor bearer to kill him, and when he refuses the king falls on his own sword and dies. Thus ends the life of a disobedient king.

U. S. Consul Ray, Is Injured on Steamer Blown Up by Mine

United States Consul Ray, on his way to Odessa to take up his duties there, was seriously injured when the Wilson liner Runo was blown up in the North Sea. He had left Sheffield, England, on the Runo for his post on the Black Sea. The vessel ran into a mine and was sunk. He was among the rescued. This photograph of him was taken as he sat on his valise on the ship which saved him.

Athletics Still Say They Will Keep Guidon From Stallings

Philadelphians Also Think So, and It Is Expected That a Third More Fans Will See Today's Big Struggle at Shibe Park

By HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—If the gods of war are looking for a real scrap, their stamping ground is Philadelphia today. After blazing their way through the National League, performing the unprecedented feat of jumping from last place to the top, and then nailing the pennant to their mast, the Boston Braves yesterday handed an awful crimp to the Athletics, and today they are taking up the task of routing the Mackmen.

A crowd of 30,000 is expected to witness the second struggle between the Mackian forces and George Stallings' sensational wonder-workers. Moving on to Boston for the third and fourth games, Monday and Tuesday, even greater throngs are expected, for there is more room at Fenway Park, and Bostonians are greatly elated over the result of the initial conflict.

The series just started presents a struggle between a seasoned, highly organized, hard hitting machine, as opposed to a dashing new outfit. Stallings' main reliance is in his pitchers and the dash and confidence of his men.

The great strategist, Mack, presents the same array which has turned back the Cubs and Giants in defeat. His batmen, the terror of their league and the wreckers of all who have faced them in world's series, his infield the greatest in the world, but not a sensational pitching staff—the mainstays of which accomplish as much with their brains as with their arms—are his assets.

Mack is sending his great machine after the world's title for the fifth time. Every man is a veteran of at least one struggle.

In the lineup of the Braves there are but two men who have ever before smelled the smoke of the big battle. They are Johnny Evers, who aided the Cubs in their fights for the title, and Josh Devore, a former New York Giant.

Of the Athletic's veterans, Bender has been under fire in four of the big league combats; Plank, Collins, Baker, Strunk, Lapp and Barry have been through three. O'Leary, McInnes, Thomas and Coombs have taken part in two series, while Schang, Bush and Eddie Murphy received their baptism of fire a year ago.

Taking the lead on May 30, the Athletics had a little trouble in again winning the American League pennant this year. They were never headed after they assumed command and, and entered on this series with the same driving force and strategy which has kept them to the fore.

On the other hand, the Braves have made the most sensational fight in the history of baseball. On July 6th the Braves were in last place. They won four straight games after that date, and this started them on their dash, which carried them to a tie with the Giants by August 24th, and clinched the pennant by October 1st.

Between July 6 and August 24 they won 32 games, lost only 8 and tied one. They continued their winning and did not lose a single series, while meeting every club in the league.

Rudolph, James and Tyler carried the Braves along with steady, consistent pitching, holding the rival club batters at bay, while their team mates hammered in enough runs to keep the Braves in the lead should the enemy threaten.

Upon these same pitchers Stallings will pin his faith for victory over the Mackmen. They face the greatest test of their careers in their efforts to spike the guns of the heavy artillery which has wrecked the offerings of such men as Matthewson, Marquard, Tesreau, Overall, Brown and all who have faced them, but the work of Rudolph yesterday was sufficient to change the odds in the betting.

Until the Braves drove him from the game yesterday, the Athletic's mainstay in the box was Bender, the stolid Indian, who weathered the storm of so many previous conflicts. "Will he come back?" is the question.

With Bender about eliminated, Plank, with his great pitching knowledge, Bush, the hero of last year's series, Shawkey and other younger men in the Athletic camp, are primed and ready for the call that will certainly come to them for service. Behind the bat Mack has Schang, who jumped to the fore in the last series as one of the greatest catchers of the game. Stallings has every confidence in Gowdy, but lanky Hank is hardly the equal of Schang.

About the second base will be waged a battle of brains between two of the greatest strategists on the playing field. In Eddie Collins and Johnny Evers the game's greatest second basemen are represented.

Collins and Jack Barry at short, have long stood out as the greatest combination in either league about the keystone of the infield. Evers has little "Rabbit" Maranville working with him. Maranville is not as old in experience as either Barry or Collins, but for speed, confidence and dash, nothing is lacking. He works with Evers in perfect fashion.

The Braves have everything to gain and nothing to lose. To Stallings no pennant has ever fallen before.

Winning is an old story to the Athletics and to Mack. Four pennants and four world's championships have fallen to them. They have proven invincible in the past, and even now say hard luck cost them the game yesterday.

The question the Braves will attempt to answer is whether the marvelous machine has finally outlived its greatness, and whether the flax which has struck so many other champions this year is to work the downfall of the Athletics.

The same rules prevailing in the other series exist for the games this year. The players will receive 60 per cent of the receipts of the first four games. This money will be divided 60 per cent to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser.

Of these receipts the clubs will receive 30 per cent and the National Commission 10 per cent. The players do not share in the receipts after the first four games, this money being divided 90 per cent to the clubs and 10 per cent to the National Commission.

The players eligible to participate in the series are:

- Boston—Cather, Coe, Conroy, Cotterel, Crutcher, Davis, Deal, Devore, Dyge, Evers, Gilbert, Gowdy, Hess, James, Maranville, Mann, Martin, Mitchell, Moran, Rudolph, Schmidt, Smith, Strand, Tyler, Whaling, Whitted.
- Philadelphia—Baker, Barry, Bender, Bressler, Bush, Collins, Coombs, Davies, Davis, Kopf, Lapp, McAvoy, McInnes, Murphy, O'Leary, Penneck, Plank, Schang, Shawkey, Strunk, Thomas, Thompson, Walsh, Wyckoff.

PROHIBITION'S DISMAL RECORD OF FAILURES

FIFTEEN SPLENDID EASTERN STATES HAVE EXPLODED FALSE THEORY

Maine has just elected a governor and a majority of legislators upon a platform opposed to state-wide prohibition and pledged to submit to the people at the next general election a local option law. Opposed to these successful candidates were aspirants seeking office on a statewide prohibition platform

AFTER SIXTY-FOUR YEARS OF PROHIBITION, MAINE IS CRYING FOR LOCAL OPTION

Vermont	adopted prohibition in 1850, repealed it in 1903, "tried it" 53 years
New Hampshire	adopted prohibition in 1855, repealed it in 1903, "tried it" 48 years
Michigan	adopted prohibition in 1855, repealed it in 1875, "tried it" 20 years
Connecticut	adopted prohibition in 1854, repealed it in 1872, "tried it" 18 years
Rhode Island	adopted prohibition in 1852, repealed it in 1863, "tried it" 11 years
Massachusetts	adopted prohibition in 1869, repealed it in 1875, "tried it" 6 years
South Dakota	adopted prohibition in 1890, repealed it in 1896, "tried it" 6 years
Alabama	adopted prohibition in 1908, repealed it in 1911, "tried it" 3 years
Nebraska	adopted prohibition in 1855, repealed it in 1858, "tried it" 3 years
Illinois	adopted prohibition in 1851, repealed it in 1853, "tried it" 2 years
Iowa	adopted prohibition in 1881, repealed (by local law) "tried it" 12 years
New York	adopted prohibition in 1855, statute was declared unconstitutional
Indiana	adopted prohibition in 1855, statute was declared unconstitutional
Ohio	adopted prohibition in 1851, and annuled it by License Tax Law
Wisconsin	adopted prohibition in 1855, statute vetoed by governor

Is there any reason why Oregon should experiment with this freak legislation?

Register before Thursday, October 15

Defeat of the proposed prohibition amendment has no effect on the present efficient local option or home rule law
