

IS NOT BELIEVED GERMANY WILL USE ANTWERP

ALLIES SAY THEY COULD BLOCK FLEET

Belgian Capital Is to Be Established at Havre. According to the latest advice—English and Belgian are preparing to battle the Germans along the Iys.—Germans Reported in Ghent.

United Press Service LONDON, Oct. 12.—The general opinion is that Kaiser Wilhelm will not violate the neutrality of Holland by using Antwerp as a German naval base.

Naval experts hold that if Germany attempts to concentrate her navy at Antwerp, this will aid the allies. They say that if the German warships are sent to Antwerp it would be easy to blockade the mouth of the Scheldt River and bottle them up.

It is also pointed out that the German ships, in this case, would be forced to leave Wilhelmshaven and battle with the English fleet.

The lack of news from the front indicates that Belgium is the center of activity. There is no doubt but what the Germans have occupied Ghent.

Preparations are being made for an engagement along the Iys. The allies, reinforced, are opposing German efforts to encircle.

United Press Service PARIS, Oct. 12.—An announcement from Bordeaux says that quarters have been provided for the Belgian government officials at Havre, and that the Belgian capital will be established there.

Stallings' New World Champions Won the Title in Four Games

By HAL SHERIDAN
FENWAY PARK, Boston, Oct. 12. By defeating the Philadelphia Athletics by a score of three to one this afternoon, George Stallings' Boston Braves won the championship of the world.

Not since the history of post-season baseball contests has this record been equalled. The Braves, although a machine built up largely this year by Manager Stallings, proved themselves capable players, and they outshone the old-time flag winners in all departments.

Not only the majority of the fans in the nation, but many experts as well, could not figure out any way by which Boston could hope to win. The wonderful work of Connie Mack's veterans, who in four seasons past have captured three pennants, has long held the fans in awe, and as they finished ahead in the American League this year, they were held to be as strong as ever.

But it was like the "one hoss shay." The way the team went to pieces in front of Boston. The wonderful infield slowed up, Bender and Plank, the old-flycatchers, were batted freely, while the traditional batting eyes of Baker, Collins and the rest of McGillicuddy's sluggers were completely puzzled by the offerings of the Bostonians.

Whether or not Mack's team will be able to recuperate next year is problematical. But should he hold a cellar position for a few years the fans will all recall the grand old machine which kept Philadelphia in the running all the time, and which copped off pennant after pennant for the City of Brotherly Love. Combs, Bender, Plank, Lapp, Collins, McInnis, Baker, Davis, Oldring and the Murphys will for years remain in the memories of the fans, as do even yet

No Wonder He Is a-Smiling

This grinning countenance is that of Johnny Evers, guardian of the key-stone sack and playing manager of the Boston Braves, the new champs. It is not alone because of the success in the series that Johnny can smile—he has other reasons.

Last winter, Charles Webb Murphy of the Chicago National League concluded that Evers had outlived his usefulness with the Cubs. George Stallings, casting about for material with which to build up his second division leaders, grabbed Evers at once. His wisdom is apparent to all.

To begin with, Evers signed a contract for $10,000 a year for four years of his service. He also was handed a fat bonus. Besides his salary, he is to receive an extra $2,000 every time the Braves wind up in the first division, and $5,000 every time they take the National League pennant.

They not only took the National

Teachers Gather for the Annual Institute

Evidence of the interest being taken in the Klamath County Teachers' Institute, which opens tomorrow and continues in session the remainder of the week is the number of teachers from outside districts, who are here ready for the sessions. Educators who will participate are also arriving.

Outside educators who will take part in tomorrow's institute sessions are Frank K. Wells of the State Department of Education; Frank Shepherd of the Oregon Agricultural College, and Fred C. Ayers of the University of Oregon.

On the second day Miss Hoefler, who is to take up play and work, and Professor Pittman of the Oregon State Normal School, will also be here. One feature of the institute will be a convention of school board

League flag this year, but took the world's championship as well. When it is considered that the Boston machine is comparatively young, there is every reason for Evers to look for more extra money in the years to come.

Boers Fight England

Uprisings Are Serious, According to the Reports

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The war office admits today that it is having other trouble besides the fight with Germany and Austria. Open rebellion has been encountered in South Africa.

Anti-British Boers, armed with German guns, and aided by the German African troops, are the disturbers. Martial law has been proclaimed throughout South Africa.

The British government has just unearthed a plot on the part of the Boers commanded by Colonel Maritz, looking toward the establishment of a Boer republic in the Northwest Cape provinces.

Officials do not attempt to disguise the gravity of the Boer situation. The dissatisfaction there dates back to the resignation of General Hyers, rather than fight the Germans.

Colonel Maritz is the commandant of one of the thirteen military districts along the Orange River.

ALLIES TO MOVE AGAINST GERMAN RIGHT WING NOW

NO FAR THERE IS NO CHANGE APPARENT

Reassembled French Aviation Corps Is Becoming Active Again—The Patrol Work of This Force Is Preventing the Bombing of Paris by the German Airmen—Cavalrymen Are Again Much in Action.

United Press Service PARIS, Oct. 12.—According to the latest war office advice this afternoon, the allies have begun offensive movements against the commands of von Kluck and von Boshua on the German right. The French started this move in the vicinity of Hazebrouck and Betsune.

The Germans still occupy Lille. In the center the French have advanced considerably along the Meuse, and have advanced along the South Verdun road toward Metz.

The situation at the extreme right is unchanged.

Cavalry encounters continue unceasingly.

The rehabilitated French aeronautical division is showing unusual activity. It is patrolling and preventing the Germans from attacking Paris.

WILL ORGANIZE WOMEN'S BRANCH

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS ARRANGING FOR MEETING OF WOMEN AT WHICH AN AUXILIARY CAN BE FORMED

A Womens Auxilliary to the Klamath Chamber of Commerce is the latest plan to be put forward by the organization. In all other cities in the state the auxiliaries are valuable adjuncts to the organization.

Letters are to be sent to a number of prominent women club workers. They will be asked to bring their friends to a meeting to be called in the near future.

Camp Meets Tonight. Ewauna Encampment No. 46, I. O. O. F., meets tonight in regular session. Come on up.

"The Mutual Girl and Her Auntie"

There are some men who say they never read advertising and are not affected by it. I will wager that any one in Klamath Falls, and almost any one in Oregon who reads at all, will know what I am talking about when I mention the following things:

You may not be able to recall a single line of advertising of any one of these companies that these selling slogans apply to.

Did you ever hear of "His Master's Voice," "Gold Dust Twins," "There's a Reason," "Ask the Man Who Owns One," "It Floats," and last, that good old slogan of Mr. Heinz's, "The 57 Varieties"?

As I said in a recent issue, every business man is an advertiser and every business man reads advertising, and he cannot help it. A good deal is said and written nowadays about the psychology of advertising. Now I don't know much about the psychology of it—I hardly know what the word means—but if I were asked to define advertising, I should do it in one sentence by saying it is having the right idea and using it at the right time. To my mind there are just three fundamental principles in advertising: (1) Be Honest; (2) Be Sensible; (3) Be Persistent; and you'll win, as sure as the sun rises and sets.

Read The Herald tomorrow.

"Daddy" will tell you why he says Be Honest, Be Sensible, Be Persistent.
