

RUSSIANS IN VATERLAND

United Press Service
PETROGRAD, Nov. 9.—The Russian advance is proceeding toward Berlin with surprising speed. Today's official report shows the advance guard at the Warthe River and holding Pleschen, ten miles inside the German province of Posen.

The advance of General Hennenkamp's army in East Prussia has reached a point ten miles inside of Germany. The German troops have been driven from the territory of Willbalen toward Lyck.

Officials regard the capture of Cracow as certain.

The Russians are advancing strongly across Galicia and Southwestern Poland, and it is reported that the advance guard has reached the river Misza. Austrians operating south of Przemyśl and along the San River are isolated.

United Press Service
BERLIN, (via Amsterdam), Nov. 9.—It is officially admitted that the German eastern forces have retired behind the Warthe River. Officials are not concerned over the continued Russian advance.

It is reported that many of the great estates around Posen have been deserted. The border people are all fleeing to the interior of the empire.

It is reported that Vienna is somewhat excited over the Russian victories, but the German war office declares that the German and Austrian armies are intact, and are retreating strategically, and therefore, in good order.

The situation in the west is declared not generally changed, although the Germans have made some gains in the Argonne region.

United Press Service
LONDON, Nov. 9.—Now that the czar's immense army has attained full momentum, its swift movements have startled military experts all over the world.

Officials declare Russia is sending many motor-driven sledges to the front. This will enable the artillery to move rapidly in the winter.

Additional reports increase the details of Russian victories, which come sooner than War Lord Kitchener and his advisers hoped.

There is one report that after the present campaign by the Russians ends, Russia will let the other allies take care of Germany and the Russians will attack Turkey and Austria.

British Dispatch Riders Hiding Behind an Abandoned Gun

This is a photograph of a scene on the battlefield in northern France, when two British bicycle dispatch riders suddenly sighted German soldiers a short distance off. They had no cover until they alighted near a broken and abandoned cannon and crouched behind it, expecting every moment to be discovered and fired upon. Inasmuch as these riders carry no rifles nor heavy weapons, they had nothing for defense except their pistols, which would not have proved effective against German rifle fire.

MORE FIGHT NEAR YPRES

United Press Service
PARIS, Nov. 9.—The Germans have resumed the offensive today around Dix Mude and Ypres, after a short slackening of fire yesterday. This brief abatement came after a week of constant artillery and infantry assaults, and may have been ordered to allow a complete change of troops along the firing line.

The communique says that the allies have everywhere resisted successfully, thus far, the renewed attacks. In their repeated infantry charges the Germans are losing considerable men.

The communique adds that a heavy fog between Dix Mude and Lys is interfering with the artillery and aviation activities.

After hard fighting for a week, the German slackening yesterday at Ypres was taken as a check by the allies. It is admitted that both armies lost heavily in the fighting there.

It is expected that the Germans are planning to make a grand assault at Arras soon. Three violent assaults have been made there, but the British troops have held their ground.

WOULD INVOLVE CHINA.
BERLIN, (via The Hague, semi-official), Nov. 9.—It is stated here that Japan, through violation of China's neutrality proclamation, is endeavoring to provoke China into a declaration of war.

ITALY IS CAUTIONS.
ROME, Nov. 9.—Italy is taking precautions to prevent serious Moslem uprisings in Tripoli. Reinforcements have been dispatched to the garrisons there.

Sporadic attacks by Bedouins and Arabs on Italian army trains are reported to be due to Turkish agents.

NAVAL ACTIVITIES.
ATHENS, Nov. 9.—It is reported that the Anglo-French warships are bombarding and rapidly reducing the Turkish forts at Dardanelles. If these forts fall it is believed the allies will land marines on the Trojan plain.

It is rumored that the Turkish fleet has left the Bosphorus. The Russian ships have left Sebastopol, and it is believed their mission is to stop the bombardment of Black Sea ports by the Turks.

NEW FOUNDRY FOR KLAMATH IS NEXT

Telford & Son installing an equipment for the casting of brass and aluminum parts—will soon be ready

The firm of Telford & Son, boat builders, has just increased its plant by the addition of a foundry for the casting of brass and aluminum parts. With the increase in business the firm has found itself handicapped in the past by the delay in having to send away for brass parts for boats and engines, and decided to equip its plant so that these parts could be made in Klamath Falls.

Instead of coke, a gasoline furnace has been installed. This will insure much quicker work, and parts for boats, automobiles, engines and machinery can be turned out in short order. Special moulding sand has been secured, and work already turned out shows a clear, smooth finish. In addition the firm plans on turning out special orders for fancy brass pieces.

KLAMATH HIGH HIGHLY PRAISED

State official who attended recent teachers' institute says this is one of the state's finest

SALEM, Nov. 8.—According to Frank K. Welles, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, who recently returned from Central Oregon, the county high school at Klamath Falls is one of the best in the state. "There are 85 boys and 116 girls in the high school," he said. "This school has an excellent equipment and an unusually efficient teaching force. Besides giving the usual literary work several strong industrial courses are offered. Over forty boys are taking work in manual training, and as many girls the work in domestic science."

RAILROAD SUED FOR COW LOSSES

L. F. Willits "bunches" several bovine fatalities attributed to Southern Pacific, and sues to recover

Because a Southern Pacific train ran into and killed several cattle near Midland in August, that corporation is now defendant in an action to recover $500. The papers have been filed in the circuit court by E. L. Elliott. L. F. Willits is the plaintiff.

He seeks to recover $80, the cost of a cow he lost at the time. Besides this Mr. Willits seeks to recover $75 for a steer lost by C. B. Clendenning and $140 for a cow and heifer lost by Mrs. Mary DePuy. A demand is also made for $100 attorney fees.

"NEAR BEEF" IS IN THE MAJORITY

Poor grade of stuff sent to Portland Union Stockyards last week—light shipment of hogs and sheep

(Herald Special Service)
PORTLAND, Nov. 9.—Receipts were so light last week that there has been no real test in prices. Most of the offerings are best characterized by the term "near beef," while there has not been any quality stuff offered. No doubt well finished steers would bring $6.75 to $7.00.

The hog run was about 50 per cent less than it should have been. Prices were well maintained during the week, bulk of offering going around 7c. The market finished strong at $7.10 to $7.15 for best quality porkers. A light week was experienced in the sheep section, all lines maintaining good, strong prices. Lambs of good quality bring $6.25. Ewes are selling well at $4.50 for tops, wethers remaining at the $5.50 mark.

County clerk issues certificates of election to all of the successful candidates

Goose Hunting.
H. Roland Glasier and Dr. Wheeler made a successful goose hunt below Merrill Saturday.

In 1900 there were sixty-two beef cattle in the United States for each 100 persons of population; now there are thirty-seven cattle to each 100 of population.

It has been estimated that 4,700,000,000 wood screws are used in the United States each year.

The population of France has increased only 10 per cent in forty years.

A large photograph of the attractive Klamath county exhibit at the Portland Manufacturers and Land Products Show is shown in Saturday's Journal, with the following story:

"There are grown in Klamath county many things besides its famous '57 scenic varieties,' chief of which is Crater Lake, a magnificent body of water set in an old volcano, 7,000 feet above the sea, and one of the commanding sights of the world.

"Scenery is all right; it is great stuff! Men have traveled half around the world to see the beauties of the district, and E. H. Harriman, the "railroad wizard," chose a spot in Klamath for his summer lodge in preference to any other place on the continent. But, inspiring soul food as such scenery is, Klamath folk go on the theory that, after all, potatoes are more satisfying to the inner man, and scenery can be much better appreciated with money in the purse, and that is the reason for the presence of other scenery—the man-made kind, wheat farms, fruit farms, big timber industries, stock and dairy ranches.

"At the Manufacturers and Land Products Show, Klamath county has an exhibit which gives a fair idea of what they are doing down there in the southern extremity of Oregon. By pictures and exhibits there are shown samples of what is produced on those big ranches—dry and irrigated tracts, which in all total about 90,000 cultivated acres. The soil is rich and produces A-1 products, as is witnessed by the fact that Klamath county captured first prize on wheat, oats, barley, vegetables and forage plants at the National Irrigation Congress at Sacramento a few years ago.

"And for the man who is looking for a rural home, the best thing for him to know about Klamath county is the fact that there is more than 600,000 acres of tillable land in the county, which is idle, and 225,000 acres of it is owned by the government and open to entry.

"The land's surfaces vary from level and rolling to mountainous. In the lake and river valleys the soil is decomposed granites and lava formations, and is exceptionally rich. The marsh land soil is made up largely of volcanic tufa, heavily charged with vegetable material. Thirty thousand acres of land is under irrigation already. In the irrigated district a farm of from forty to eighty acres is sufficient, while for dry farmers, independence is won on ranches ranging from 160 to 320 acres.

"Lands in Klamath county are not high. The average value of farm lands per acre was about $20, according to the last government census.

Parliament to Take Up Rigid Censorship

London, Nov. 9.—On next Wednesday parliament will convene and one of the most interesting sessions in years is expected.

The attitude of the opposition toward the admiralty is one of the principal features of interest, and much anxiety is expressed by members as to the steps that will be demanded in the enlightening of the nation as to the exact status of the kingdom in the war, and for direct information as to the moves of the army and navy.

Relatives of members of both the army and navy are kept in ignorance of their people, and the claim is put forth that the suspense is far worse than the actual knowledge of disaster would be.

It is also stated that the comparative slight response to the numerous appeals for recruits is due to the strict censorship of the war news, and all news, in fact, calculated to arouse patriotism. It is also feared that the censorship is aggravating the common people to such an extent that patriotism is at a very low ebb.
