"Klamath county's exhibit captured a diploma and a cash prize as a varied produce display, and special diplomas were awarded on the displays of onions and cheese.

"Our Netter Gem and Burbank potatoes classed for first prize winners. However, as we did not have ten varieties on display, they were not considered for the prize."

Mr. Blower leaves for Klamath Falls tomorrow.

MODOC MAY GO TO THE S. F. FAIR

D. L. MOSES IS CONFERRING WITH JEFF RIDDLE AND OTHERS ABOUT SUCH A VENTURE ON THE "ZONE"

A lecture on the Klamath and Modoc Indians and the Modoc War, and a collection of Indian curios from this section may be one of the attractions at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, if the plans now being outlined do not miscarry. As yet, though, there has been nothing tangible done.

D. L. Moses, sales manager for Jeff Riddle's "Indian History of the Modoc War," is at present in San Francisco, taking the matter up with exposition officials. He is in correspondence with Captain O. C. Applegate, Riddle and others about the advisability of the move.

Moses writes that the Oregon building at the fair is the most original of any of the state buildings, and is in a class by itself. It will be one of the first buildings to catch the eye, he says.

Although the Oregon building is set back from the others, Moses says that this is more than repaid by the fact that it fronts on the Golden Gate.

Antwerp Refugees Tramping About Holland With Possessions

This is just one party of Antwerp refugees caught by the camera man in Holland. There were 100,000 of them scattered along the roads from Antwerp into Holland, and they have wandered all over the little Dutch monarchy. The border towns could not, of course, care for a tenth of them. They could not even find warm places for the women and children to sleep, much less give them something to eat. Herbert Corey, who made an investigation on the roads leading from Antwerp, found men, women and children tramping by the thousand. These women are accompanied by one of the Belgian soldiers who ran when the Germans went into Antwerp. A large part of King Albert's army went over the Dutch border and

Christmas Ship Is Off for War Fields

United Press Service
NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—With all the vessels whistling a deep throated farewell, the U. S. E. Jason steamed out today on its mission of gladness to the million or more children whose fathers have been killed in the European war. Every nook and crevice in the hold of the collier was filled with Christmas presents contributed by Americans from all parts of this country.

Every ship along the river front and in the upper bay displayed flags of all nations—warring and neutral—and every conceivable spot to which hunting could be attached was a blaze of color. The windows of the big skyscrapers were crowded with spectators to get a glimpse of the Jason. The open places on the river front at the Battery and the docks were jammed with citizens who waved greetings.

The departure of the Jason recalled to mind the history of one of the most impressive movements fostered by American newspapers and encouraged by American people, American railroads and the Red Cross Society.

The first mention of the project, two months ago, gripped the hearts of the people everywhere. Letters came pouring into the newspapers throughout the country, offering aid of all kinds.

COLD RAINS ADD TO THE HORROR OF FLEMISH BATTLEFIELD; PRUSSIANS HELD

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—It is officially announced that the Germans have crossed the Yser canal west of Langemarck, and it is declared that they have captured Steley, three miles south of Ypres.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The war office is very optimistic over the situation in Flanders, and the admittedly unavoidable early cessation of the German attack upon the line defending the coast.

Officials say that according to unofficial reports the allies have re-occupied Dix Mude.

Rains and gales are sweeping the trenches along the coast. As the unfavorable weather is rapidly becoming worse, this will undoubtedly mean heavier fatalities.

The marshy ground in Belgium districts is flooded, and in many places clogged with corpses.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—The communique says the allies have advanced a kilometer east of Bischoote, as one incident in the continued violent struggle from Ypres toward the sea. The Germans continue their assaults, but these attacks are in the main repelled.

Reports say the French continue the offensive northwest of Soissons. The Germans are strongly entrenched there.

The war office has lauded the British troops for their repulse of the Russian guards at Ypres. Seven hundred German dead found behind the front British trenches after the repulse, indicate the ferocity of the hand-to-hand encounter.

The Germans attacked in the most determined manner, and their loss was appalling.

The resumption of the furious drive toward the coast by the Germans is expected. Owing to the weather, continued assaults of any consequence are impossible. Both armies are suffering from the cold and rain.

PLOW UP THE HOPPER EGGS

WORK AT THIS TIME WILL DESTROY EGGS THAT WOULD HATCH BY COMING SPRING, SAYS EXPERT

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 13.—The majority of our injurious forms of grasshoppers pass the winter as eggs in the soil, is the statement recently made by A. L. Lovett, insect specialist at the Oregon Agricultural College. These eggs are placed in the more compact soil about the borders of fields, in meadows and pasture land and in clover and alfalfa fields. They occur in the surface soil in capsules containing from thirty to one hundred eggs.

Plowing the land where it is practical to do so is beneficial. In meadow and alfalfa fields use a spring-tooth harrow, or, better still, use a renovator or spudder. This practice is of value to next year's crop, and will destroy countless grasshopper eggs.

The executive board will meet next Saturday to investigate the proposition, which will be received by that time, and they will set a time for a meeting of all the members, when the proposal will be formally submitted.
